Class Secretary

HAROLD BENJAMIN CLARK

To the Members of the Class "1901":

With this, the fourth report, I send my personal thanks to all the members in the Class for the time and trouble they have taken in helping me make up this volume. I realize it is difficult for a busy man to sit down and fill in a blank form with the dates and details of his doings since he left college, and I am very grateful to that large portion of the Class which has sent me the desired information. I am certain also that the Class as a whole will be grateful to those members who have made the effort and have added to the pleasure of their fellow-classmates by giving this opportunity to read of their doings.

It is of course difficult to get every one to give the information desired; many have written only a few lines and a few have failed to send in any news whatsoever. A large portion of the Class, however, has responded generously. The record of the members as compiled herein, is one of which, individually and as a whole, we may well be proud. We felt sure when we graduated that as years went on we should be proud of our record and this belief, with the achievements of each year, becomes stronger.

Since the publication of the last report we have lost, through death, the following classmates:

Albert Heminway Michelson.
Rufus White Rogers.
William Rotch, Jr.
Rogers Wentworth Shapleigh.
Ferdinand O. Horstmann.
Maurice Joseph Wall.
Benjamin Franklin Allen.
Edward Jeremiah Hatch.
John C. H. Fitz.
Peter Harden Eley.
James Rumrill Miller.

The principal work in the compilation of this report has been done by the Harvard Alumni Association and in so doing they have rendered, not only a service to me, but to the entire Class, for which we are sincerely grateful.

Yours very truly,
Harold Benjamin Clark,
Secretary.

TREASURER'S REPORT

STATEMENT OF HARVARD 1901 CLASS FUND.

(Covering period from May 1, 1911, to June 1, 1916.)

Occupation	Manufacturer of Men's Clothing.
Address	(home) 95 Brunswick St., Rochester, N. Y. (business) 2 Adler Place, Rochester, N. Y.

Fifteen years of fairly close attention to business is my economic record. In 1905 I became a director of I. Adler, Brothers and Company, and two years later the vice-president; the latter position I still hold. Six years after graduation, I succeeded in winning a wife; within the next five years a son and two daughters rounded out our family life. I have been, and now am, interested, though not conspicuously, in several civic, philanthropic and sectarian organizations. Sorry I have not added more to the glory of 1901. Member: Rochester Club, Automobile Club, Rochester Athletic Club, Genesee Golf Club, Chamber of Commerce, Harvard Club, City Club, all of Rochester, N. Y., Century Club, Somerville, N. Y.

Benjamin Franklin Allen

Benjamin Franklin Allen was born at Gloucester, Mass. His parents were James Sydney Allen and Georgie A. Parsons. He prepared for college at the Gloucester High School, and went the full course of four years, receiving the degree of A.B. in 1901. He entered the Harvard Law School and was graduated in 1904. The same year he entered the law office of Tirrell and Adams, in Boston. He became a member of the firm in 1906. While on a vacation at Westport, Me., he was attacked by typhoid fever, and died September 12, 1910. He was a member of the Baptist Church at Rockport, Mass., Atlantic Temple of Honor, Ashler Lodge, A. F. and A. M. He was second lieutenant in Company G, Eighth Regiment, M. V. M., and a member of the Rockport school committee.

GLOVER MORRILL ALLEN

Born	Walpole, N. H., Feb. 8, 1879.
Parents	Nathaniel Glover Allen, Harriet Ann Schouler.
School	Newton High School, Newton, Mass.
Years in College	1897-1901.
Degrees	A.B., 1901; A.M., 1903; Ph.D., 1904.
Married	Sarah Moody Cushing, Cambridge, Mass., June 26, 1911.
Children	Elizabeth Cushing, Oct. 1, 1912.
Occupation	Librarian and Naturalist.
Address	(home) 126 Pleasant St., Arlington, Mass. (business) 234 Berkeley St., Boston, Mass.

In May, 1901, I was elected secretary and librarian of the Boston Society of Natural History, which office I have since held. Its duties allowed me opportunity for other work, so that I continued post-graduate work at college in zoölogy, obtaining the degree of A.M. (1903) and Ph.D. (1094). In 1904, with Thomas Barbour, '06, and Owen Bryant, I made a zoölogical expedition to the Bahama Islands, publishing some of the results in short papers. In 1903 I went to Newfoundland to see the operations of the shore whaling stations. In the summer of 1906 I went to Newfoundland and the east coast of Labrador to investigate the bird life. In 1906-07 I took part of the new forestry course at Harvard, and spent the summer of 1907 at the Harvard Engineering Camp, Squam Lake. In the fall of 1907 I was engaged to work in the University Museum, Museum of Comparative Zoölogy, on the Mammal Collection and have so continued to this present. In 1909 I accompanied W. L. Smith, '93, and Gorham Brooks, '05, to British East Africa to collect natural history specimens for the University Museum. In 1910 I made a similar but shorter trip to the Island of Granada, British West Indies. In 1911—great year—I was married in June and my wife and I went to England and Scotland for a month. In 1912 our little girl was born, and late in the year I accompanied Dr. J. C. Phillips on an expedition to the Egyptian Sudan, the Blue Nile and border of Abyssinia, in the interests of the University Museum. In 1915, I accompanied Prof. Theodore Lyman on his expedition to Mt. Whitney, California, where I collected specimens of natural history for the University Museum. I have written numerous papers which have appeared in various natural history journals; also a book, The Birds of Massachusetts (published by R. H. Howe, Jr., and myself). Member: American Academy of Arts and Sciences (Fellow), Boston, American Association for the Advancement of Science (Fellow), Boston Society of Natural History, Appalachian Mountain Club, Boston, Nuttall Ornithological Club, Cambridge, New England Zoölogical Club, Cambridge, Naturalists' Club, Boston, Biological Society of Washington, Washington, American Ornithologists' Union, Harvard Travellers Club (Fellow), Boston.

Married Jane Torrance, Pittsburgh, Pa., April 16, 1914.
Occupation Lawyer.
Address (home) 946 Western Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.
(business) 413 Wabash Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.

A senior on leave of absence I entered the Harvard Law School the fall of 1900 and received my LL.B. in June, 1903. I settled in Pittsburgh after graduation and was admitted to practice at the local bar January 2, 1904. Until November, 1905, I was in general practice with Arthur O. Fording, and at that time I was appointed assistant to the general counsel of The Wabash Pittsburgh Terminal Railway Company, The Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad Company and certain other allied properties. This railroad work took up all my time and they were very busy days too. When receivers were appointed for the Terminal Company and the West Side Belt Railroad Company in the spring of 1908, I was retained as counsel to the receivers. Upon resignations of the receivers, the District Court appointed me receiver of these two railroad properties in December, 1912. I am still acting in that capacity and have been devoting all my time to that work; but the indications are that within a short time the reorganization committee will terminate my job and then I shall likely have to go back to general practice. So far, I am glad to say, I have prospered probably as well as I deserved. I have been somewhat active in Harvard affairs since settling in Pittsburgh. For three years I served as secretary of the Harvard Club of Western Pennsylvania and for one year (1914-15) as its president. Also, I am now serving my third year as a member and secretary of the scholarship committee of the Associated Harvard Clubs. At this writing all of us fellows in Pittsburgh are busy with the plans for the twentieth meeting of the Associated Clubs to be held here May 19 and 20. Since leaving college the only foreign travel I have been able to indulge in was a short European trip in the summer of 1910. Member: Harvard Club of New York, Harvard Club of Western Pennsylvania, Duquesne Club of Pittsburgh, University Club of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh Athletic Association, Law Club of Pittsburgh, Allegheny County Bar Association, Pittsburgh.

It has probably never occurred to the majority of people that chairs have to be manufactured. They are taken as a matter of course. It is a fact, however, that the production of chairs requires an expert knowledge in handling materials, very careful attention to details, and skill on the part of the operatives equal to that of the more spectacular industries with which the public is more familiar. Since three days after graduation I have been in the employ of Heywood Brothers and Wakefield Company, the largest manufacturers of chairs in the world. Four years ago, there being nobody else in sight, they made me superintendent of that part of the factory which produces wooden chairs, a job involving the handling of several hundred operatives ranging from the skilled American mechanic to the dark-browed immigrant from southern Europe. I have managed to hold the job since. On the side I direct a little choir of thirty voices, which makes my attendance at church more regular than was my attendance at chapel during undergraduate days. They have further burdened me with the chairmanship of the parish committee of the Congregational Church. The duties of this office include raising the money to cover the budget; and as the budget includes my salary as chorister, they never had a more energetic chairman. Member: Gardner Boat Club, Gardner, Mass.

CLAUDE MARTIN BARD

Children	Burrill Devereux, Jr., Jan. 11, 1912.
Occupation	Lawyer.
Address	(home) 182 Bay State Road, Boston, Mass. (business) 35 Congress St., Boston, Mass.

Since the time of the decennial report, I have been actively engaged in the practice of law in Boston, for the past two years under the firm name of Barker and Wood; but although the life and the work have been very pleasant and interesting to me, with an infinite variety from day to day, there has been nothing that would be particularly interesting to recount to others. Additional trusteeships and directorships have come with the years, but they hardly seem worth setting forth at length. My interest in sports has, as before, been mostly in yachting, and my summers have all been spent at Marblehead. Member: Union Club of Boston, Harvard Club of Boston, Eastern Yacht Club, Corinthian Yacht Club, both of Marblehead, Mass.

ROBERT COOLIDGE BARNES

Born	Winchester, Mass., May 19, 1878.
Parents	Horace Franklin Barnes, Mary Florence Murray.
School	High School, Providence, R. I.
Years in College	1897-1901.
Occupation	Engineering.
Address	(home) Truell Court, Plainfield, N. J. (business) Spicer Mfg. Co., So. Plainfield, N. J.

From 1902 to 1910 I worked in the Schenectady factory of the General Electric Company, beginning with the test course and winding up in the sales office. 1910 I worked for an engineering firm on the equipment of large buildings, preparing plans and specifications for the lighting and power and generally supervising the installation. I have since worked for the New York Edison Company, and the Singer Manufacturing Company and have just switched to the Spicer Manufacturing Company at South Plainfield, N. J., from whom many of the automobile manufacturers purchase universal joints.

MATTHEW BARTLETT

Born	Boston, Mass., April 2, 1879.
Parents	Nelson Slater Bartlett, Isabel Hazard Bullock.
School	Noble and Greenough School, Boston, Mass.
Years in College	1897-1901.
Degrees	A.B., 1901.
Married	Serita Lincoln, Boston, Mass., Oct. 4, 1911.
Children	Serita, Dec., 1912; Matthew, Jr., Nov. 1914.
Occupation	Stock Broker.
Address	(home) Beverly Farms, Mass. (business) 60 State St., Boston, Mass.

From July, 1901, I was employed six months in an iron foundry in South Boston. After a severe attack of typhoid fever, and six months' rest, I went to work for N. S. Bartlett and Company, pig iron and coke. In 1904 I bought a seat on the Boston Stock Exchange. In 1905 I formed a partnership with my brother N. S. Bartlett, Jr., and others, under the firm name of Bartlett Brothers and Company, stock brokers, dealers in bonds, letters of credit and foreign exchange. I am still actively engaged in this business. In 1907 my brother and I bought a fifty-acre farm in Natick, Mass., where I lived until the autumn of 1911. During this period I was interested in breeding and raising various animals: Jersey cattle, fox terriers, and poultry. Today those four years of farm life are an amusing memory. Things are more serious now. We have two very fine children: a girl, three, and a boy, one year old. From March or April each year we live in our house at Beverly Farms, Mass., until November. Each winter we have passed in Longwood, Mass. I have held no public offices of honor or trust but am of importance in my own domestic and business circle, having a large number of persons at present dependent on my foresight. In ten years more I hope very much to give more time to reading, playing golf, and attending class reunions. Member: Tennis and Racquet Club of Boston.

WILLIAM AUSTIN BASSETT

Born	Roxbury, Mass., Sept. 29, 1876.
Parents	Isaac Austin Bassett, Annie Maria Tuson.
School	English High School, Boston, Mass.

Children	John Austin, Feb. 4, 1906.
Occupation	Civil Engineer.
Address	(home) 418 Homestead Ave., Mt. Vernon, N. Y. (business) 261 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

Entered the service of the Pennsylvania Railroad, August, 1901, as rodman in the division engineer's office of the Pittsburgh division, located at Pittsburgh. Resigned after about three years to take a position as assistant engineer with the Pittsburgh Bureau of Filtration, located at Pittsburgh. Remained with this bureau during the design and most of the construction of the Pittsburgh filter plant, extending over a period of about two years. Resigned to take a position on the faculty of the recently established Carnegie Technical School. During the following three years engaged in teaching engineering subjects and doing some outside engineering work. Gave up teaching in June, 1909, and from that time until November, 1911, was connected with the following concerns: Board of Water Supply, New York City, engineering inspector (temporary); Boston Elevated Railway, assistant engineer on design of Boston-Cambridge subway; American Steel and Wire Company, Donora, Pa., engineer in charge of construction. November, 1911, accepted a position on the editorial staff of the "Engineering Record," New York City. April, 1913, resigned to accept a position with the New York Bureau of Municipal Research. Am at present chief of the engineering division of the Bureau. Member: National Municipal League of Philadelphia, Harvard Club of New York.

NATHANIEL HORTON BATCHELDER

Born	Salem, Mass., June 13, 1880.
Parents	Henry Morrill Batchelder, Martha Osgood Horton.
School	Salem High School, Salem, Mass.
Years in College	1897-1901.
Degrees	A.B., 1901; A.M., 1902.
Married	Gwendolen Sedgwick Mead, Boston, Mass., Nov. 24, 1910.
Occupation	Educator.
Address	(home) Windsor, Conn. (business) The Loomis Institute, Windsor, Conn.

The summer after graduation I spent in newspaper work with the Boston Transcript and Associated Press, as I continued to do for several succeeding summers. For nine years I covered all the important tennis tournaments for one or both of these papers, and had the best of first-hand opportunities to know my favorite game in all its aspects. In October, 1901, I entered the general auditor's office of the B. & M. R. R., but in February, 1903, I decided to teach. For the rest of the academic year I tutored in Philadelphia, going, in the fall, to Hackley School, Tarrytown, N. Y., where I taught a variety of subjects, coached dramatics, assisted in athletics, advised school publications, and performed all the manifold duties of the youngster of the faculty in a boarding school. In 1907, I accepted the position of senior English master at the Hotchkiss School, Lakeville, Conn. As Parton wrote when he heard of it, "The Yale spirit is something fierce, but it's a joy to combat it." I've spent all my time since in Yale territory, without loss of loyalty to Harvard, but with increasing regard for Yale. I've known pretty intimately most of the Yale athletes and leaders in the last decade: Ketcham, Howe, Talbott, et al. Twice I have been asked by Yale to referee Harvard-Yale cross-country events, and this association has been most pleasant. In July, 1912, I accepted the headmastership of the Loomis Institute, in Windsor, Conn., a school endowed with over $2,000,000, on which work had not been begun. Everything was to do: curriculum to be planned, faculty gathered, buildings built. We began with an architectural competition which Dick Dana and his partner won. We have already six buildings, with the seventh and largest now under construction,—one of the most modern and beautiful school plants I know. As to curriculum, we decided it was the duty of the endowed schools to be pioneers, and, in addition to the regular college preparatory work, we have instituted agricultural and business courses on the same plane as the traditional cultural studies. In our second year we have seventy-five boys, and expect over a hundred next year. With our large endowment and consequently low charges, we can't help growing. I have two other Harvard men in my faculty and look for more. My duties as trustee and chairman of the building committee, as well as headmaster, have kept me pretty busy summer and winter; but I have found a little time for travel, including one summer in England and one on the Pacific Coast. Member: Headmasters' Association, Harvard Club of New Jersey, Harvard Club of Connecticut (secretary and treasurer), Hartford Golf Club, Hartford, Conn., Windsor Business Men's Association, Windsor, Conn., New England Association of Teachers of English.

Immediately after graduation I entered the Harvard Medical School; then served as surgical house officer at the Boston City Hospital (1904 to 1906), and later as house physician at the Boston Lying-In Hospital (1906); practised for a year in Augusta, Me., and then specialized there in diseases of the eye and ear. I am visiting surgeon for diseases of the ear, nose and throat at the Augusta General Hospital. I am trustee of the Lithgow Public Library and of the Cony Female Academy, and several philanthropic organizations. I hold fellowships in a number of medical societies, including the American College of Surgeons and the Aesculapian Club of Boston.

HENRY FOSTER BEAL

Born	Waltham, Mass., Aug. 12, 1879.
Parents	Ezra Wardwell Beal, Lucretia Kendall Brown.
School	Waltham High School, Waltham, Mass.
Years in College	1897-1901.
Degrees	A.B., 1901.
Married	Marion Alice Cushman, Waltham, Mass., Oct. 4, 1904.
Children	Lawrence Winslow, Feb. 16, 1913; Foster Cushman, June 16, 1915.
Occupation	Civil Engineer.
Address	(home) 537 Main St., Waltham, Mass. (business) National Bank Building, Waltham, Mass.

From 1901 until 1912, I was employed in the engineering department of the city of Waltham, Mass., in the capacity of first assistant to the city engineer. In April, 1912, I resigned the position and opened an office of my own in Waltham, where I am at present located, engaged in the general practice of civil engineering and surveying, with a very fair degree of success. I continue to play, or rather try to play, golf for recreation; but a constantly increasing business, a summer cottage at the seashore, and last but not least two fine little boys at home, have taken up most of my spare time of late. Member: Albemarle Golf Club, Newton, Monitor Lodge, A. F. and A. M., Waltham, Waltham Royal Arch Chapter, Waltham Board of Trade.

SIDNEY LANE BEALS

Born	Boston, Mass., April 22, 1880.

Address	(home) 328 Dartmouth St., Boston, Mass. (business) Tremont Building, Boston, Mass.

I am continuing the practice of law with offices in the Tremont Building, Boston, where I have been located the last ten years. For recreation I take much enjoyment in most athletic sports in their season, more especially long distance river skating and squash-rackets in winter and tennis in summer, and have kept in good health. Member: Battery A, M. V. M., 1904-1907, B. A. A., 1901-1915, Harvard Club of Boston, Oakley Country Club, Longwood Cricket Club.

GEORGE RUST BEDINGER

Born	Matteawan, Pa., March 12, 1880.
Parents	Henry Bedinger, Ada Doughty.
School	St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H.
Years in College	1897-1901.
Degrees	A.B., 1901; A.M., 1904.
Married	Harriet Anderson McGill, Montclair, N. J., Dec. 29, 1908.
Children	Henry, July 20, 1911; Mary Buchanan, May 5, 1913; Ada Doughty, Nov. 19, 1914.
Occupation	Social Worker.
Address	(home) 82 Colburn Place, Detroit, Mich. (business) 33 Warren Ave., West, Detroit, Mich.

In March, 1912, I returned from Japan, where, during most of the time since graduation, I had been doing educational work. I decided to fit myself for social service. A course in the New York School of Philanthropy and residence at the Union Settlement on the Upper East Side were both pleasant and profitable. From September, 1912, to March, 1913, I was manager of the Red Cross Xmas Seals Campaign for the Committee on the Prevention of Tuberculosis of the Charity Organization Society of the City of New York. When this job was finished, I was asked to become the director of the Milk and Baby Hygiene Association in Boston. In this infant welfare work I remained nearly three years and had the pleasure of seeing the baby health centres of the association increase from nine to twelve and the association's service during that time grow from the care of 3,000 babies in 1912 to 4,800 in 1915. The association's debt of $2,500 was wiped out, a substantial balance left, an endowment fund begun and Boston's baby death-rate lowered so that it showed greater improvement than any other large city in the preventive care of its babies. In November, 1914, I was elected a director for a term of five years of the American Association for the Study and Prevention of Infant Mortality. At the annual convention of this association in Boston in November, 1914, I was chairman of the publicity committee and in November, 1915, read a paper at the annual meeting in Philadelphia and was on the membership committee. While in Boston I was a member of, and, shortly before leaving, was treasurer of, the Monday Evening Club; on the membership committee of the Twentieth Century Club; a member of the Episcopalian Club, the Massachusetts Child Welfare Committee, and in the fall of 1915 was elected secretary of the Massachusetts State Conference of Charities. Just before the end of 1915 I was asked to go to Detroit as general secretary of the Children's Aid Society. As this offered me a field of larger usefulness than any I had yet filled, I resigned my position in Boston to go to Michigan. I have written: Sources of Lafcadio Hearn (The Independent, Nov. 21, 1912,), Japanese Business Ethics (The Churchman, N. Y., Oct. 12, 1912), Japanese Government Railways (Harper's Weekly, Nov. 29, 1912), also articles on Japanese subjects in "The Outlook," "The New York Sun," and book reviews in "The Independent," Three Ways to Keep Babies Well in Boston (The New England Medical Gazette, June, 1914). Member: Boston City Club, Japan Society of New York, Asiatic Society of Japan (Tokyo, Japan).

Occupation	Manufacturer.
Address	(home) 21 Hillside Ave., Englewood, N. J. (business) 45 Tiffany Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.

At the time of our decennial I was living in Niagara Falls, Ontario. I was connected with the American Cyanamid Company as superintendent of the cyanamid plant. That fall I was married, and spent from November until April of that winter near Miami, Fla. In April, 1912, I returned north to organize and run a testing laboratory for Herman Behr and Company, Inc., at 45 Tiffany Place, Brooklyn. They are manufacturers of sandpapers and surface abrasives of all kinds. A year later, I became superintendent of the Brooklyn factories, which position I now hold.

Occupation	Insurance Broker.
Address	(home) 166 Hillcrest Road, Berkeley, Cal. (business) 311 California St., San Francisco, Cal.

The account of my doings since leaving Cambridge is simple and commonplace. The fall and winter of 1901-1902 were spent in New Hampshire, Maine and finally in New York City. Early in 1902 I removed to Aberdeen, Wash., where I lived until the latter part of 1905. During those years I busied myself with the lumber business, fire insurance and getting married. The winter and spring of 1906 I was in San Francisco and about the middle of that summer went to Seattle, Wash., as branch manager for an automatic sprinkler company. After four peaceful years there I was, by the same concern, shifted to Los Angeles. One year was all I needed in the South, and, since 1911, I have lived in Berkeley, Cal., where I have built a house, and hope to stay for many years. I have practically discarded tennis for golf, at which I am consistently mediocre, and my social life is closely connected with the University of California. No honors or offices have hunted me down, but on the other hand I can get good recommendations from past butchers and grocerymen. Member: University Club, Seattle, Wash., Claremont Country Club, Oakland, Cal.

On graduation in 1901 I took charge of the opening of the Civic Service House in the North End of Boston. In 1903 I entered Boston University Law School and was admitted to the bar in 1905. A department of the Civic Service House known as the Vocation Bureau started in 1908, and the work has grown into an independent organization, of which I have had charge since 1910. In the summer of 1910 I gave a course in vocational guidance at the Harvard Summer School, keeping this up for three summers, after which I gave the course at the University of California. In the winter of 1910 I went to Porto Rico to study industrial and educational conditions for the War Department. In the spring of 1912 I went to Europe to study labor exchanges for the United States Bureau of Education. Boston University established a special professorship in vocational guidance, which I have been filling on part-time. I have written: The Vocational Guidance of Youth (Houghton Mifflin Co.), A Study of Social and Educational Conditions in Porto Rico (out of print), The School and the Start in Life (United States Bureau of Education), A Civic Reader for New Americans (American Book Company), Youth, School and Vocation (Houghton Mifflin Company), Readings in Vocational Guidance (Ginn and Company). Address	(home) 2622 Prairie Ave., Chicago, Ill. (business) 105 South La Salle St., Chicago, Ill.

The winter following graduation I attended the Harvard Law School. In the fall of 1902 I returned to Chicago and worked for the brokerage firm of John H. Wrenn and Company, remaining with them until the fall of 1903, when I entered the trust department of the Northern Trust Company, of Chicago, remaining there until June, 1904. On June 23, 1904, I married Belle McCullough, and in the fall took charge of the Borland office, since which time I have had complete charge of the various Borland interests, handling and operating their numerous buildings and plants, superintending the construction of their various buildings, and acting as manager for the Borland properties. In the past twelve years I have held positions as director in several companies, for varying lengths of time; namely, Chicago Savings Bank and Trust Company, Chicago Railways Company, Borland-Grannis Company, etc. At present, in addition to my regular duties as manager of the Borland properties, I am secretary and trustee of St. Luke's Hospital of Chicago, secretary and trustee of The Old People's Home of the City of Chicago, president of the Borland Manufacturing Company, director and treasurer of Building Managers' Association of Chicago, and life trustee of the John Crerar Library, of Chicago. Member: Chicago Club, Chicago Athletic Club, University Club, Mid-Day Club, Saddle and Cycle Club, Casino Club, Harvard Club of Chicago, Onwentsia Club, Lake Forest, Harvard Club of New York, Harvard Club of Boston, New York Yacht Club, Eastern Yacht Club, Marblehead, Mass.

should follow in my father's steps and adopt astronomy as my chosen profession. A chronological table practically tells the rest of the story. From 1902-1905 the Dudley Observatory at Albany, N. Y., had a promising assistant. Promising is the term applicable to the young man who has done nothing, when you hope some day he may fool you and get busy. Then from 1905-1906 my quarters were located at the United States Naval Observatory, Washington, D. C., still in the capacity of promising assistant, when the opportunity was presented to take charge of the branch station of the United States Naval Observatory at Tutuila, Samoa. Life in the tropics agreed with me splendidly from a physical standpoint, and there were many interesting features connected with life on a tropical island; but those who have read Bret Harte's sketch of his visit to Honolulu will realize that there is a rough side even to the beautiful tropics. Scientifically while the budding investigator obtained a considerably increased knowledge of his subject, there was too much cloudy weather to make a success of the observatory, so upon my recommendation the plant was closed by the Navy Department in 1908. The next move was back to Albany where the real serious business of life commenced. Officially my title was secretary, an evident misnomer, as my clerical duties were almost nil, while in reality I acted somewhat in the capacity of Man Friday to the institutions. The term institutions is used advisedly, for in 1906 the Carnegie Institution of Washington, founded for the purpose of advancing scientific research work, added to its nine departments a department of meridian astrometry, the object of which is to forward the work undertaken at the Dudley Observatory. In 1912 my father, the director, died. By action of the trustees of the Dudley Observatory and those of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, I was appointed director of the Dudley Observatory and director of the Department of Meridian Astrometry. The editorship of the Astronomical Journal, a periodical publishing astronomical research work, has also devolved upon me. Aside from the necessary administrative duties entailed by a large department of research (I have twenty assistants), my own work is entirely research work. While all this may sound quite formidable, I can assure my classmates that I am enjoying life hugely, growing younger by the minute, and boosting for 1901. I have written: Elements and Ephemeris of Comet 1909a (Borelly-Daniel) (Astronomische Nachrichter, No. 4342, July 7, 1909), Comparisons of the Standard Catalogues of Answers and Boss for 1900 (Astronomical Journal, No. 620, Dec. 5, 1910), Motion of the Fixed Stars (Harper's Magazine, Aug., 1912), Community of Motion Among Several Stars of Large Proper-Motion (Astronomical Journal, No. 629, Nov. 20, 1911), Additional Notes on the 61 Cygni Group (Astronomical Journal, Nos. 633-634, April 20, 1912), Systematic Motions of the Stars Arranged According to Type (Astronomical Journal, No. 632, Feb. 15, 1912), Systematic Motion of Stars of Type G (Astronomical Journal, Nos. 649-650, July 3, 1913), Some Possible Star Groups (Astronomical Journal, Nos. 649-650, July 3, 1913), A Means of Minimizing the Effect of Short Period Displacements Due to Variable Refraction for the Transit Circle (Astronomical Journal, Nos. 651-652, Aug. 4, 1913), Dependence of Star Motion Upon Spectral Type (Astronomical Journal, No. 668, June 5, 1914), Further Data Bearing Upon the Reality of the Antapex Group, A. J. 635-636 (Astronomical Journal, No. 669, Aug. 13, 1914), Reports of the Department of Meridian Astrometry (Carnegie Institution of Washington, Year Books, 1913, 1914, 1915), Biographies of Lewis Boss and Seth C. Chandler, Systematic Motion of the B-Type Stars (in press). Prepared for press, abstracts already printed: Hypothetical Parallaxes of Large Proper-Motion Stars, Solor Motion Derived from the Albany 1900 Zone Catalogue, Convergence of the Proper-Motions of Four Groups of Small Proper-Motion Stars, The Vertex of Preferential Motion as Determined From Large Proper-Motion Stars in the Albany 1909 Zone Catalogue, Peculiarities in the Relative Motions of Early and Late Type Stars in the Region Near the South Galactic Pole. Address	(home) 1218 N. State St., Chicago, Ill. (business) 18 E. Division St., Chicago, Ill.

On leaving college, I came to the Chicago Latin School, a college preparatory school for boys, as master of English language and literature. I remained in that position five years, spending my first three summers tutoring in a camp in northern Wisconsin, and the next two summers tutoring in Europe. In 1906, I resigned my position in Chicago, and returned to Harvard for a year's work in the Graduate School, where I took my master's degree. In 1907, I returned to the Latin School, where I have remained ever since. My summers I spend, or the most part, in the town of Royalton, Vt., where I have inherited a small property. Member: University Club of Chicago.

JOHN GAYLORD BRACKETT

Born	Boston, Mass., April 12, 1879.
Parents	John Quincy Adams Brackett, Angeline Moore Peck.
School	Arlington High School, Arlington, Mass.
Years in College	1897-1901.
Degrees	A.B., 1901; LL.B., 1904.
Married	Mary Louise Clark, Boston, Mass., April 12, 1914.
Children	June Clark, June 23, 1915.
Occupation	Lawyer.
Address	(home) 34 Lombard Road, Arlington, Mass. (business) 53 State St., Boston, Mass.

In the fall of 1901 I entered Harvard Law School, where I remained three years, graduating in June, 1904. A year previous to my graduation, in August, 1903, I was admitted to practice in the State Courts of Massachusetts, and during my last year at the Law School, I worked two days a week in the law office of Elder and MacKusick, then located at 6 Beacon Street, Boston. Immediately upon graduation I became a member of the firm of Elder, MacKusick and Brackett and remained as a partner until December 15, 1908, when Mr. MacKusick retired from the firm. After his retirement, Mr. Elder and I formed a partnership under the name of Elder and Brackett, which lasted until May 1, 1909, when Mr. Ralph H. Hallett, now assistant district attorney for Suffolk County became a member of the firm. Meanwhile, in April, 1907, Mr. Elder had been appointed city solicitor for the City of Medford, a position he has continued to occupy from that date until the present time. From the time Mr. Hallett joined the firm until February 1, 1911, we continued to practise law at 6 Beacon Street, Boston, but on the latter date removed to the Fiske Building, 89 State Street, Boston, where we remained until February 1, 1915, when the partnership was dissolved. Since the dissolution I have been associated in the practice of law with Frank M. Forbush. Meanwhile I had become somewhat interested in politics, had been elected a member of the Republican town committee of Arlington, its secretary in 1909 and in 1910 its chairman, a position I continued to hold until the spring of 1913, when I retired from all political activities. In the fall of 1910 I was elected a representative to the General Court for the 29th Middlesex District, including the towns of Arlington and Lexington, serving as representative during the legislative sessions of 1911 and 1912. Prior to my election to the Legislature I had served five terms as assistant to the district attorney of Middlesex County from November, 1909, to April, 1910. On January 1, 1910, I was appointed attorney for the Arlington Coöperative Bank, a position which I have since occupied. I have been moderator of town meetings of the Town of Arlington since November, 1907. On May 14, 1913, I was appointed by Governor Foss one of the special justices of the Municipal Court of the City of Boston. Member: Menotomy Royal Arch Chapter, Arlington, Mt. Olivet Lodge, F. & A. M., Cambridge, Cambridge Royal Arch Chapter, Cambridge, Cambridge Commandery, Cambridge, Boston Lafayette Lodge of Perfection, Boston, Princes of Jerusalem, Boston, Rose Croix, Boston, Mass. Consistory, Boston, Ancient Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine Aleppo Temple, Boston, Boston City Club, Massachusetts Republican Club, Boston, Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange, Boston, Massachusetts Bar Association, Boston, Bar Association of the City of Boston, Bar Association of the County of Middlesex, Middlesex Club.

Children	Corey Catlin, Jr., Sept. 26, 1909.
Occupation	Mining Engineer.
Address	(home) 2247 Glen Ave., Berkeley, Cal. (business) 433 California St., San Francisco, Cal.

Before leaving college in the early spring of 1901, I secured a position as assistant on the United States Geological Survey. The summer was spent in southeastern Alaska and the winter in Washington, D. C. The summer of 1902 I spent prospecting for gold, dredging ground on the Hootalinqua River, Yukon Territory. On the completion of this work I returned to California and was engaged in gold dredging and examinations of dredging ground until the spring of 1903. After a short visit in Colorado Springs, Col., I went to work at the Portland Mine at Cripple Creek, where I held down various jobs from "mucker" to machine man for the next eight or nine months. From there I went to Flat River, Mo., as assistant superintendent of the Federal Lead Company. In the latter part of 1905 I was appointed manager of the Dairy Farm Mine, a copper property, in California. For the next two years I continued as manager of this property and of several other properties being worked under option. From there I was transferred to Asientos, State of Aguascalientes, Mexico, as manager of the Santa Francisco Mine. In the early part of 1909 I left the employ of the Guggenheims, after an employment of five years, and spent several months at Guanajuato, Mexico, learning the cyanide process. After a few weeks spent in Mexico City and the mining camps of Pachuca and El Oro I returned to San Francisco and opened a consulting office. The following year was spent in examining mining properties. The next year and a half I spent in the employ of the Natomas Consolidated of California, at Sacramento, as manager of the rock-crushing department, and later as assistant general manager of all the operations. In the spring of 1912 I became interested in a gold-dredging property near Nome, Alaska, and have managed the property up to date. There is little to add except to say that I have enjoyed mining and the wandering life in different parts of the continent. I have designed a few mechanical contrivances, the latest of which is a light power-drill for testing placer ground. I have contributed several technical articles to the mining and scientific press of San Francisco and have contributed to discussions in technical societies. Member: Engineers Club of San Francisco, American Institute of Mining Engineers, Mining and Metallurgical Society of America.

Occupation	Lawyer and Educator.
Address	(home) 511 West 186th St., New York, N. Y. (business) 29 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

Began my career as a self supporter as teacher in the public schools of New York City. Was for four years director of a New York settlement, and spent the years stated in work aiding socially, morally, and sometimes financially, boys and young men of the east side in the gas house district. In 1910 I entered the New York University Law School, was graduated in 1912, and was admitted to bar of New York state in 1913. Began the practice of law in October, 1915, with plenty of practice but few fees. Have been interested in the Spanish War Veterans Association, having the honor of being a veteran of the Spanish-American War, and an active participant in the battle of San Juan Hill, and the fighting around Santiago. My inclinations run to patriotic associations and organizations, striving to make of every boy a potential soldier. I abhor watchful waiting unless the other chap is the watchful waiter, and if the interests of Uncle Sam demand, abhor letting the other fellow wait very long. Member: Frank Keck Camp, United Spanish War Veterans, New York City, Veterans' Association, 71st Regiment, N. Y. V., New York City.

Occupation	Principal of Burr and Burton Seminary.
Address	Manchester, Vt.

For three years, 1903 to 1906, head of mathematics department of Bangor High School, Bangor, Me. For two years, 1906 to 1908, principal of Hampden Academy, Hampden, Me. Since 1908, principal of Burr and Burton Seminary, the oldest endowed school of Vermont. During the last seven years of my stay here I have raised funds for improvement of the buildings, increased the endowment somewhat, and raised funds for, and brought to completion, a $20,000 gymnasium assembly hall. In 1899 I left Harvard on account of health and travelled in Europe, principally in Germany. In 1900, with my wife and two of her music pupils I travelled and studied in Italy, spending most of the time in Rome, where her father was then resident, connected with the Protestant Missions of that city, also some weeks in Florence, Italy, and in Switzerland, Paris, and London. My wife is a native of Rome, a music teacher, and public singer, and at present, soloist of Rutland Congregational Church. Member: The De Burian Literary Society of Bangor, Me.

Occupation	Cotton Merchant.
Address	Clarksdale, Miss.

During the fifteen years since graduation, I have lived the last ten in Dixie land and am beginning to feel quite acclimated. For the first eight of these ten, I was employed by W. C. Craig and Company, in Vicksburg, Miss., as cotton classer. When that firm decided to retire from business at the close of the season of 1911-1912, I secured a similar position in Memphis with Farnsworth-Evans Company. With this concern I remained only one year, when I was asked to join with Cohn and Ellett, of Memphis, in partnerhsip in the new firm of the Valley Cotton Shipping Company, with head office in Clarksdale, Miss., and I am in charge of this office, buying and shipping cotton abroad (in a small way this year, I must confess, owing to the slight disagreement the Kaiser and some of his erstwhile friends are enjoying just at present) and to the Carolinas and to New England milling centres. I have managed to retain my youthful figure in spite of the advancing years and this is best evidenced by the fact that I can still comfortably wear the same dress suit I had when in college. And in spite of the worries of business, my hair is only very slightly gray and is almost as great in numbers as formerly; so the good Lord has not had to do much subtracting in order to keep them numbered on my head. In other words, those who knew me in college can still recognize me after fifteen years.

Address	(home) 5601 Kingsbury Court, St. Louis, Mo. (business) 415 Locust St., St. Louis, Mo.

After securing my degree of LL.B. at Washington University, in 1901, I entered the office of Mr. I. H. Lionberger, attorney at law, where I remained for two years; then I was a year in the trust department of the Mercantile Trust Company, St. Louis, Mo. After leaving the Mercantile Trust Company, I returned to the law office of Mr. Lionberger, where I remained until April 1st, 1910, when I entered the service of The American Credit-Indemnity Company of New York, as assistant treasurer and later as treasurer, which office I now hold. In addition to the duties of treasurer I also do a part of the company's legal work. Member: St. Louis Country Club, Racquet Club, Phi Delta Phi Society.

If I could only get John's expert on obituary notices, what a pastime a task of this sort would be; but being still in the quick, I shall have to make out some kind of a life without help. Writing in 1911, I related keeping a hen, some rabbits, and several guinea pigs; now happily, my social state has become very much improved, and I have a wife and daughter. The wife came to me in March, 1913, and for several months afterward we made a tour of the West Indies, having travelled almost 3,000 miles and seen about 5,000 miles of films: my wife is very fond of the movies. I had been in the tropics before; but these islands with their tales of eruptions, earthquakes, buccaneers, pirates, and of all the splendor of the days gone by, have a peculiar fascination. On returning to Boston, I went to work again in my laboratory; and continue to examine specimens for doctors and hospitals, with the hope of making the determination of disease more accurate, and also of earning a livelihood. I have written: John Hunter (Boston Medical and Surgical Journal, March 7, 1912), Fecal Units (Form), (Boston Medical and Surgical Journal, April 17, 1913). Member: Tennis and Racquet Club, Boston, Mass., Varsity Club, Cambridge, Mass.

JULIAN BURROUGHS

Born	West Park, N. Y., April 14, 1878.
Parents	John Burroughs, Ursula North.
School	Riverview Military Academy, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.
Years in College	1897-1901.
Degrees	A.B., 1901.
Married	Emily DuBois MacKay, St. Huberts, N. Y., Sept. 26, 1902.
Children	Elizabeth, Aug. 14, 1903; Ursula, Jan. 21, 1905; John, July 21, 1909.
Occupation	Agriculturist.
Address	West Park, N. Y.

Upon leaving college, and after taking one short trip to Jamaica, B. W. I., with my father and Charles Kellogg, I settled down here on the banks of the Hudson and figuratively and literally turned my hand to agriculture, especially the raising of choice grapes for the New York and Boston markets. I built myself a small house, doing much of the carpentry and cabinet work myself during the winter, making a comfortable home where I expect to live and die. I have done some hunting and fishing and have written for several magazines at different times. I have found this part of the world a good place to live and though I have found mankind for the most part strong where they should be weak and weak where they should be strong, they are good neighbors and better than we were led to believe in Economics 2. Gardening, poultry raising, fruit growing, reading, a little writing, planning and building some fine stone buildings and bridges, overseeing the workmen, driving my car or motor boat, occasional trips to the opera, and generally keeping up in both architecture and agriculture fills my hours brimming full. I have three children, of whom I am proud and were it not for Malthus would have three more. Though I have had a happy and interesting life there is little in it to interest anyone else so will close and add that if any of the 1901 men come this way I will be glad to see them and myself and car are at their disposal. The station master can tell them where I live. I have written short and continued articles for Collier's Weekly, Country Life in America, The Craftsman, Leslie's Weekly, the Garden Magazine, and Forest and Stream.

STEPHEN HAYES BUSH

Born	Dorchester, Mass., Sept. 15, 1878.
Parents	Charles Frederick Bush, Emily Kendall Hayes.
School	Boston Latin School, Boston, Mass.
Years in College	1897-1901.
Degrees	A.B., 1901; A.M., 1902.
Married	Rachel Evans Mather, Springdale, Iowa, June 26, 1903.
Children	Millicent Ellen, Oct. 15, 1904.
Occupation	Professor of Romance Languages.
Address	(home) 420 Dubuque St., Iowa City, Iowa. (business) State University of Iowa, Iowa City, Iowa.

Since graduating I have led the life of an ordinary college professor, one of the kind usually not given space by newspaper reporters. I was made head of the department of Romance Languages at the State University of Iowa in 1906, following a year at Harvard spent in graduate study and teaching. I have held this position since then in a department which has constantly grown with the university. Since leaving college I have gone to Europe three times, the last time for seven months prior to the war, when I travelled through Portugal, Spain and very thoroughly over the whole of France. I have spent the uneventful, but fully occupied life of a university professor, with the usual routine of classes, committees and administrative duties incident to the running of a department of many students and a good many instructors. I have never had the pleasure of holding offices of importance and am not in the least likely to. My report sounds as if I had been through dull years, but in fact my life has been full of intense enjoyment both in hours of work and hours of escape from work. I have edited: Le Duel, by Lavedan (edition for classes, Holt). I have written articles on Amateur Athletics, Life of Words, Lawrence M. Byers, Professor of Law. Member: Triangle Club, Iowa City, Modern Language Association of America, Societé des Anciens Textes Francais, Paris, Sigma Chi Fraternity, Chapter of University of Iowa, Iowa City Country Club.

Address	(home) 4 Colliston Road, Brookline, Mass. (business) 733 Boylston St., Boston, Mass.

From 1901 to 1906 nothing important took place. In 1906 I began selling automobiles. From 1907 to 1914 I was selling Stevens-Duryea cars in Boston for the J. W. Bowman Company, agents. In 1914 I took the agency for Simplex Cars for New England. I have had two very successful years with a bright future. Member: Harvard Club of Boston, Harvard Club of New York, Boston Athletic Association, Boston Athletic Club Hockey Team for four years, during which time it was amateur champion of the United States.

PATRICK HENRY CAREY

Born	County Roscommon, Ireland, Dec. 8, 1876.
Parents	Thomas Carey, Bridget Agnes Cummings.
School	Hebron Academy, Hebron, Me.
Years in College	1898-1901.
Degrees	A.B., 1901 (1902).
Married	Katherine Regina Nolan, Portland, Me., July 17, 1905.
Children	Kathleen, Aug. 29, 1906; Patrice, June 11, 1908; Henry Clark, Dec. 31, 1909.
Occupation	Publisher.
Address	(home) 564 Fourth St., Brooklyn, N. Y. (business) 80 Lafayette St., New York, N. Y.

In September, 1901, I got a job with the Boston News Bureau, with no salary, however, for the first few months. I remained with the News Bureau until 1905, writing financial articles for this publication and for the Wall Street Journal, receiving a salary from each organization. From July, 1905, until November, 1906, I was employed as statistician by H. W. Poor and Company, in Boston. Since December 1, 1906, I have been editor and manager of Poor's Manual, which has in the meantime grown from a single annual publication of about 1,700 pages into several publications, issued daily, weekly, monthly, and annually, aggregating about 23,000 pages. To take care of this thirteen-fold expansion, a printing plant was installed in 1912; so that I have had an opportunity to study the printing business as well as the publishing business. Needless to say, I have had my nose pretty close to the grindstone. Nevertheless, I have found some time for other things.

I have been deeply interested in Hebron Academy, my fitting school, of which I am a trustee, and to which I feel that I owe much because of its great influence on the course of my life. I visited Europe in 1911. I like chess and tennis (opposites, but both may be strenuous) and I am extremely fond of golf, although I have never yet made a respectable score. I am looking forward to the pleasure of attending the Quindecennial on at least two days. Member: Harvard Club of New York, Brooklyn Chess Club.

Occupation	Lawyer.
Address	(home) 161 Shurtleff St., Chelsea, Mass. (business) 201 Pemberton Building, Boston, Mass.

Since graduation I have been in the practice of law in Boston. My practice is largely criminal. In 1912 I was elected a member of the Massachusetts legislature and re-elected in 1913 and 1914, serving in the general court in 1913, 1914 and 1915. I had the honor and pleasure of voting for Hon. Grafton D. Cushing for speaker, and for Hon. Channing Cox, the latter a classmate at the Law School, and both splendid Harvard men. I was house chairman of municipal finance, also house chairman of legal affairs. In the fall of 1915, I was a candidate for mayor of Chelsea, but was defeated. Member: Robert Lash Lodge, A. F. and A. M., and Royal Arch Chapter Shekinah, A. F. and A. M., Chelsea Lodge No. 938, B. P. O. Elks, Chelsea Lodge No. 439, Eagles, Court Mystic No. 92, Foresters of America.

School	Gymnasium, Halle an der Saale, Germany, and Oahu College, and Morgan School, Clinton, Conn.
Years in College	1900-1902.
Degrees	A.B., 1901.
Married	Anna Ellison Haviland, New York, N. Y., June 3, 1903.
Children	Anna Haviland, Nov. 3, 1907 (died Dec. 1, 1907); Northrup Haviland, Nov. 3, 1910.
Occupation	Commercial Engineer.
Address	(home) Davenport Neck, New Rochelle, N. Y. (business) 30 Church St., New York, N. Y.

I spent the year 1901-1902 at Harvard, doing special work, mostly graduate. The summer of 1902 I was doing special work at Cornell University, entering the Graduate School that fall and obtaining broad training in mechanical, electrical and hydraulic enginering. I was indentured as general apprentice, February, 1904, with the Allis-Chalmers Company, at Milwaukee. While there I was responsible for a large part of the electrical equipment of their new shops, including special testing, the largest in the world. I came to New York in July, 1906, to supervise installation of water-works at Washington, D. C., remaining until June, 1909, as construction engineer in New York and Detroit. In the fall of 1908 I went abroad on work, on completion of which I made an inspection trip of hydroelectric installation, and took European shop practice. Returning in May, 1909, I left the Allis-Chalmers Company to enter the employ of the General Electric Company in June of the same year for special exploitation (commercially) of turbines to mechanical application. This field developed largely into hydraulic engineering, although at one time I also had charge of large gas engine work. My work brings me constantly in contact with novel devices and new developments of all kinds requiring analytical and technical reports. At present (since November, 1915), I am devoting myself as specialist engineer (commercially) to electric furnace work. I have written various technical articles and reports. Member: New York Electrical Society, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, American Institute of Electrical Engineers, American-Electro-Chemical Society, National Electric Light Association, Association of Harvard Engineers, Harvard Engineering Society, New York, Machinery Club, New York, Engineers Club, New York, Oahu Country Club, Hawaii, Association of Iron and Steel Electrical Engineers, Corresponding Member Faraday Society, London, England.

HARRIE ROGERS CHAMBERLIN

Born	Ashtabula, Ohio, Aug. 7, 1879.
Parents	Carey Wiard Chamberlin, Harriet Anna Rogers.
School	Boston Latin School, Boston, Mass.
Years in College	1897-1901.
Degrees	A.B., 1901; A.M., 1902; B.D. (Rochester Theological Seminary), 1905.
Married	Elizabeth Almaria Lamson, Toledo, Ohio, June 29, 1910.
Occupation	Minister.
Address	274 Tremont St., Newton, Mass.

From Harvard I went to the Rochester Theological Seminary to prepare for the Baptist ministry. My degree of Master of Arts was granted me in 1902 for work actually done before graduation. I finished the seminary course in 1904, but remained three years more in Rochester as assistant pastor of the Lake Avenue Baptist Church of that city. Then in the fall of 1907 I became pastor of the Baptist Church in Morgantown, W. Va. The town is the seat of a large state university, and I enjoyed for two years the privileges of a college church and community, checkered with many interesting experiences in the rough life of the mountains. In December, 1909, I accepted the pastorate of the Immanuel Baptist Church of Newton, Mass., where I still remain. The following summer I was married. The last six years in a suburban church have yielded few events, but have been rich in varied work calling out almost every sort of capacity. I spent the summers of 1905 and 1910 travelling in Europe, and the summer of 1913 on the Pacific Coast. I have done considerable literary work on religious and social themes. Member: Twentieth Century Club, Boston, Theological Circle, Boston, B. B. Club, Boston, Brotherhood of the Kingdom, New York.

HENRY PORTER CHANDLER

Born	Indian Orchard, Mass., March 19, 1880.
Parents	John Henry Chandler, Abbie White Smith.
School	San Jose High School, San Jose, California, and Leland Stanford, Jr., University, Stanford University, California.
Years in College	1898-1901.
Degrees	A.B., 1901; J.D. (University of Chicago), 1906.
Married	Helen Firman Mack, Joliet, Ill., March 27, 1907.
Children	Margaret Mack, Jan. 24, 1914.
Occupation	Lawyer.
Address	(home) 1110 East 53d St., Chicago, Ill. (business) Room 1309 30 North La Salle St., Chicago, Ill.

Upon leaving college I became a member of the faculty of the University of Chicago as associate in English, giving courses in English composition, argumentation, and oral debates, and coaching the university debating teams. While I was at Harvard, I formed the plan of ultimately becoming a lawyer, and after two years in Chicago I therefore dropped half of my work of instruction to study law in the University Law School. Thus I combined teaching and studying for a year. During this time I became a member of Phi Delta Phi law fraternity. In the summer of 1904, I became secretary to President Harper and relinquished my teaching. In this position I continued until the death of President Harper in January, 1906. Following his death, I served President (then acting president) Judson in the same capacity until July 1, 1906. Meanwhile I had become a student in the Law School, from which I was graduated in June, 1906. When I resigned as secretary to the president, I began the practice of law with the firm of Tolman, Redfield and Sexton. I have been associated with this firm ever since and became a member of the firm in October, 1914. In my practice I have given special attention to the law of municipal corporations, condemnation, and special assessments. Member: Quadrangle Club, City Club of Chicago, Chicago Bar Association, all of Chicago, Ill., Illinois State Bar Association.

Occupation	Assistant Manager Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York.
Address	353 Bridge St., Springfield, Mass.

Having been fortunate in the possession of a kind-hearted father, who desired me to inherit some of his tribulations, I was drafted into the life insurance business, upon my graduation, instead of realizing my youthful dream of bossing a country newspaper and "sagaciating around" while the help did the work. When I become a millionaire, I shall still try to realize that dream; but Judge Branch, who knows a great many things (and most of them are so) says that I will never become a millionaire. I am now beginning my fourteenth year as assistant manager for the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, for which my father has long been the New Hampshire and Vermont manager. Our territory has recently been widened to take in the western Massachusetts office at Springfield, and we are just now moving the Manchester establishment to that city, which will be general headquarters. I expect to spend the next year or two roaming over northern New England and living in my suit-case. Aside from keeping busy and trying to hold my job by surrounding myself with brighter men than I am, as Carnegie advises, I have done little worth noting since my wife came down to Boston and took me home from the decennial. In 1913, and again in 1914, I was president of the New Hampshire Life Underwriters' Club, the state association of general life agents. The club has since recovered, and is now so happy at our impending departure that they have just given my father and myself one of those "here's your hat, don't hurry" complimentary banquets, to which it took two policemen (considerably damaged in transit) and a pair of handcuffs to bring us. It was a nice, tearful time; the accompanying moisture was not wholly confined to tears, and they made us some fine speeches and farewell presents. I have written no books, and, finding my nature growing more peaceful with the advancing years, do not contemplate any immediate foreign travel. On my last trip to Canada, they nearly shot me for a German spy, and once is enough. However, I have carried one travelling-bag over a quarter of a million miles on my regular beat, punching up "passive village agents," and have worn out two or three others besides. For recreation, I take to the woods as often as possible, play with a strictly amateur printing office, and admire from afar the scintillating jurisprudence of Judge Branch. I get a good deal of fun out of living, and my avoirdupois continues to increase faster than my bank account. I am still very glad to be a Harvard man, although some of the neighbors hint that I seem to be getting over it, which is not true in the slightest degree. Any statement of that kind is mendacious and misleading, and any man who would make it, in his sober moments, is an undesirable citizen who would lick his wife and rob the baby's bank to buy rum. Member: Calumet Club, Manchester, N. H., New Hampshire Life Underwriters' Club, Manchester, N. H., New England Fat Men's Club, 32d degree Mason.

HAROLD BENJAMIN CLARK

Born	New Rochelle, N. Y., Dec. 8, 1878.
Parents	Benjamin Stephen Clark, Mary Jane Conklin.
School	Madison School, New York, N. Y.
Years in College	1897-1901.

Degrees	S.B., 1901.
Married	Dorothy Q. Pardee, Hazleton, Penn., Jan. 12, 1907.
Children	Benjamin Schuyler, Feb. 16, 1908; Ario Pardee, Sept. 26, 1909; Dorothy Q., July 28, 1910; Kate Schuyler, Oct. 16, 1912.
Occupation	Banker.
Address	(home) Apple Hill, New Canaan, Conn. (business) White, Weld and Co., 14 Wall St., New York, N. Y.

After leaving college, I took part, in the fall of 1901, in the track games between Harvard and Yale against Oxford and Cambridge Universities. In October, 1901, I entered the employ of Moffat and White, bankers, at 5 Nassau Street, New York. In November, 1906, I was admitted to general partnership in this firm. On May 1, 1910, the name of the firm was changed to White, Weld and Company, and the offices moved to 14 Wall Street, New York. I served in Squadron A, National Guard, New York, for five years as a private. I served as a member of the admissions committee of the Harvard Club of New York for three years and as treasurer of the Country Club of New Canaan for the past two years, and I still hold that office. I was elected a director of the Columbia Trust Company, New York, in 1909, and have served on the board continuously since. On February 17, 1916, I was elected to the executive committee, on which I am now serving. In 1910, I purchased a small farm in New Canaan, Conn., where I live most of the year, coming to New York only for the winter months, and each May I take my vacation in Canada, trout fishing. Last year, 1914, I helped to organize a machine gun company, with motor transportation, and served with it at Plattsburg as second lieutenant and later as first lieutenant and acting regimental quartermaster; and at present I am working as a member of the finance committee, for the first training regiment, raising funds for recruiting next summer's camps. I am also interested as a trustee and member of the finance committee of the Five Points House of Industry. Member: Harvard Club, Squadron A Club, University Club, Down Town Association, New York Stock Exchange Luncheon Club, all of New York, University Club, Chicago, Country Club of New Canaan, New Canaan, Conn., Laurentian Club, Province of Quebec, Canada, Tokeneke Club, Darien, Conn., Harvard Club of Boston.

Occupation	Lecturer in English, University College, Toronto, Ont.
Address	(home) 96 Oakwood Ave., Toronto, Ont. (business) University College, Toronto, Ont.

Since graduation I have been occupied almost entirely with academic work. After obtaining my A.M. in 1902, I taught English and French for three years in the University of New Brunswick, Fredericton, N. B. I then returned to Harvard for my Ph.D., which I obtained in 1907, my subject being English Philology and my thesis on the Robin Hood Ballads. In the fall of this year I was appointed lecturer in English in University College, Toronto, a position which I still hold. During the summer sessions of 1907, 1909, 1910, 1912, and 1913, I taught English at the University of Indiana, Bloomington, Ind. For three years I have been acting president of the Canadian Folk-Lore Society. I have written: Ballad and Epic (Journal of American Folk-Lore, 1908), Ph.D.

Dissertation, The Gest of Robin Hood (University of Toronto Studies, 1909), part of notes in Representative Poetry, a volume of selections for college use, edited by Professor W. J. Alexander and myself (University of Toronto Press, 1912), Percy's Reliques of Ancient English Poetry (Proceedings of Ontario Educational Association, 1913). Member: Canadian Folk-Lore Society, Drama League, and English Association, Toronto.

My "life" is four-fold. As president of Cole Brothers Lightning Rod Company and as president of Cole Realty Company I have managed to feed, clothe and partially educate three lively children,—with the assistance of my advertising business. But the fourth domain, which is neither manufacturing, real estate nor advertising, has, of late, occupied a good deal of my time:—in short I belong to the vast body of American playwrights, with hopes, convictions and only partial accomplishment. Between the four interests and one's social life, this decade and a half has been full to overflowing. I have written sundry semi-technical articles on advertising in Printer's Ink and similar publications; brochures and leaflets on the action of lightning and construction of lightning rods; a three-act comedy (of course!) in the hands of an agent, with the hope of early production (of course!) and several one-act plays. Member: Harvard Club of New York (non-resident), The Players, St. Louis.

In June, 1901, George Canterbury, T. H. Sweetser and I went abroad to look things over, and, while they finished their work in about three months, it took me fifteen more months. In November, 1903, I went into the office of George A. Fernald and Company, bankers, and, having survived a panic and a war, I am still actively engaged in the same work. I have been interested in several city and town water companies here and in the West and expect to devote considerable time to this sort of work. I have recently formed a corporation known as the Homa Oil Company, to take over and operate oil leases in Oklahoma and, while the company is still in its infancy, it already owns the leases on over four hundred acres of oil-producing land in Okmulgee, Okla., and has at the present time seven producing wells, and several new wells are now being driven. Oil and water, while not good mixers, are nevertheless much needed in these days of automobiles and baths. The things to sell are the things people have to have. I entered Harvard in my junior year. My senior year was graduate work, the courses having attendance of 12 to 20 men, mostly graduates from South and West. As a result of the above I have practically no acquaintances in 1901. For various non-important reasons I have neglected to attend various gatherings; but some day I expect to begin building up an acquaintance of 1901 men. From 1900 to 1909 practically all of my time, outside of that devoted to the six years Graduate School period activities, was devoted to tutoring in mathematics, engineering, physics and astronomy, the first three of which I specialized in. Since 1906 I have devoted an increasing amount of time per year to developing certain mechanical devices (my own inventions). Some heating, ventilating and cooling systems; three types of steam turbines and a turbo air compressor constitute the larger size devices. During the past four years much of my time has been devoted to developing, first, a balanced rotary valve gasoline engine, possessing much simplicity over the standard poppet valve engine, and also showing a large increase in efficiency; second, an automatic lighting and extinguishing device for exterior gas lamps, by means of which more than five dollars per lamp per year can be saved over the hand-lighting system. The manufacture of these machines has been started and they will make their appearance on the market in the near future. In conclusion I may say that it would take a very large book to contain a detailed daily account of my activities since graduation.

Two years after graduation were spent at Yale in the Forest School, from which I was graduated in 1903, with the degree of M.F. I entered the United States Forest Service and from 1903 to the early part of 1907, I was engaged in government work in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Texas, California, Pennsylvania, and the Adirondacks, in New York; and also in administrative work in Washington, D. C. In 1907 I left the government service and took charge of the woods department of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad, living in Northern Adirondacks. In the fall of 1908 I returned to the United States Forest Service, and was located at the district headquarters, Missoula, Montana, as assistant district forester for the district, embracing the government forests of northern Idaho, Montana and Minnesota. On January 1, 1910, I again left the government service and became secretary and manager of the Western Pine Manufacturers' Association, an organization embracing the lumber manufacturing plants of Montana, Idaho, eastern Washington and eastern Oregon, with headquarters at Spokane, Wash., where I now live. Since coming to Spokane I have had the pleasure of serving as secretary of the Harvard Club of Spokane for nearly two years. I have written a bulletin of the Department of Agriculture on "Sugar Pine and Yellow Pine in California;" pamphlet: A Fire Protective Plan at McCloud, Cal. Member: Spokane Club, Spokane Tennis Club, Spokane Amateur Athletic Club.

Occupation	Professor of Fine Arts.
Address	(home) 7 Cutting Apartments, Ann Arbor, Mich. (business) Memorial Hall, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Mich.

As I was registered in the Graduate School during both years of my attendance at Harvard (1900-1901 and 1901-1902), I realize I am included in the class of 1901 more by courtesy than by right. In 1900 I received the degree of A.B. from Brown University, and came to Harvard for further work in the Fine Arts, receiving the A.B. in 1901 and the A.M. in 1902. The two following years I spent in travel and study in Europe, most of the time as a student in the American School of Classical Studies in Rome. Since then I have alternated periods of teaching in America (Brown, Wellesley, Washington University, University of Michigan) with periods of residence in Europe. Since 1911 I have been Professor of Fine Arts in the University of Michigan.

Address	Vineyard Haven, Mass.

After leaving Harvard, I became submaster of Winthrop (Mass.) High School, teaching science and mathematics. I taught there four years. Next I went to Lebanon, N. H., where I was principal of the high school for five years. I then transferred to Uxbridge, Mass., as principal of the high school. After staying in Uxbridge two years, I passed the Massachusetts Board of Education examinations for a superintendent's certificate and accepted the position which I now hold. I have been in this position nearly four years. I have not done much worthy of special mention. I have been doing the work of my profession as it seemed to me it should be done, daily striving to render returns in accordance with the ennobling ideals and true principles of citizenship, always associated with the name of Harvard. Address	(home) 3910 Travis St., Houston, Tex. (business) Houston Electric Company, Houston, Tex.

In December, 1901, I entered the employ of Stone and Webster, and since that time have been in their employ as clerk, student, and operating official of street railway and lighting companies. From January, 1903, to May, 1905, I was stationed in Ponce, Porto Rico, as student and manager of the Ponce Railway and Light Company, a street-railway, light, and power company. In May, 1905, I returned to the United States. On August 1, 1905, I assumed charge of the Houston Electric Company, Texas. On March 1, 1913, I assumed, in addition to the position of manager of the street-railway lines of Houston the position also of manager of the Galveston-Houston Electric Railway Company, a high speed interurban electric railway operating between Houston and Galveston. As manager of both of these public service corporations it has been necessary for me to keep closely in touch with public affairs in Houston and Galveston, and in this way I have served in various organizations and committees for the advancement of this portion of Texas. I am a member of all the clubs and organizations in this part of the State of Texas that make for the building up of Houston, Galveston, and South Texas.

I attended the Harvard Law School in 1902, and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology from 1903 through 1905, graduating in mechanical engineering. I spent that summer abroad and was then employed by Manning, Maxwell and Moore, becoming mechanical engineer for their four brass factories located at Boston, Mass., and Bridgeport, Conn. In March, 1910, I entered the employ of the E. I. duPont de Nemours Powder Company, at Wilmington, Del., with whom I am still associated as head of the mechanical department of their experimental station located at Wilmington. In October, 1915, I was sent to Taltal, Chile, to install and test their nitrate oficina (Oficina Delaware) a new process and apparatus of my own invention for the extraction of nitrate of soda. I am still occupied with this work, but expect to return within a few months. I have written technical articles on Safety Valves, read before the United States Board of Supervising Inspectors, and the American Society of Mechanical Engineers (Transactions, A. S. M. E. for 1909). Member: American Society of Mechanical Engineers, New York, N. Y., University Club of Bridgeport, Conn., Harvard Club of Wilmington, Del.

My life has been rather uneventful. I have not won a great name nor riches. The practice of law in a small country town in a conservative state like Vermont, where there is comparatively little business, does not permit of one reaching very high levels. Up here a lawyer, in order to make both ends meet, has to do a kind of department store business, law, real estate and insurance. Out of the three I have made a satisfactory living; but that is about all. I find conditions in the country very narrowing, so little is going on that most people stand still and fail to appreciate that other people are doing things and that other districts are going ahead. I have tried to fight off this narrowing process as much as possible and when I get a little money ahead I run away to Boston, New York and Washington and try to see what you other fellows are accomplishing. In 1909 I made a fortunate real estate deal and blew the proceeds on a trip to Europe. In 1912 I won out in a hard fight with typhoid fever and, in order to get away from one of our famous Vermont winters, I went to the West Indies for a short visit. This last winter I took an extended trip through the West visiting the expositions. No very important or lucrative political plums have fallen into my lap. I was one of the Vermont delegation to the National Republican Convention of 1908 when W. H. Taft was nominated. Well anyway Taft had enough votes to secure his nomination before it came Vermont's turn to vote. I have held the usual run of town offices. Just at present I am school director and last year served as superintendent of schools.

After graduating from college I entered the Harvard Medical School, completing the usual four years' course without discredit. Then I was fortunate enough to receive an appointment as house officer on the East Medical Service of the Massachusetts General Hospital, a service from which I derived much benefit, as well as much pleasure. In June, 1906, I went to Europe for further medical study. After twelve months of travel and study, the latter mostly in Göttingen, Vienna and Dresden, I returned to Boston and started the practice of medicine. I might qualify by saying that I made ready to practice medicine, for during the months that followed the hanging out of a shingle on Beacon Street, very little practice came to my doors. For the next eighteen months I was resident in Boston, and managed to keep my time filled with hospital work and teaching in the Harvard Medical School and with a little private practice, which came very slowly. In the fall of 1908, an opportunity to do work in Lakeside Hospital, Cleveland, Ohio, under Dr. Charles F. Hoover, arose, and I decided to take advantage of it. The year spent with Dr. Hoover was most interesting and advantageous, and after leaving Lakeside Hospital, I decided to remain in Cleveland and work out my problem at this place. The seven years since I came to Cleveland, have been full of hard and interesting work and have been accompanied by a reasonable and gratifying amount of success. I have been privileged to do much teaching in the Medical School of Western Reserve University, and have had constant and valuable hospital experience. I am at present assistant chief of the medical department of the Cleveland City Hospital. I hold the post of associate in medicine in the Medical School, and am responsible for the teaching of physical diagnosis during the second and third years of the course. I am still a bachelor, and, from all indications, I judge that I shall remain in this state, which as the years go by seems less and less enviable. Member: Tavern Club, Mayfield Country Club, University Club, all of Cleveland, Cleveland Academy of Medicine, The Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, The Council of Sociology of Cleveland, Association of American Immunologists, American Medical Association, Harvard Club of Boston.

Degrees A.B., 1901; S. B. (George Washington University), 1910; E.M. (Michigan College of Mines), 1912.
Occupation Chemist.
Address Bureau of Chemistry, Washington, D. C.

I was appointed assistant state chemist of Florida in the summer of 1901. I resigned, November, 1905, to accept a position as assistant chemist in the United States Bureau of Chemistry. I resigned, September, 1911, to take up mining, after a year's work at the Michigan College of Mines, where I received the E.M. degree, August, 1912. Unlooked for circumstances led to my reinstatement in the Bureau of Chemistry, to take charge of waste wood utilization work, in which work I have been engaged since November, 1912; first in North Carolina and during the past two years in the Pacific northwest, with headquarters at the State University, Moscow, Idaho. Member: American Chemical Society.

Occupation	Lawyer.
Address	(home) 237 Kent Road, Wynnewood, Pa. (business) 750 Bullitt Building, Philadelphia, Pa.

After graduation, I entered the class of 1904 at the Law School of the University of Pennsylvania. After a year there I took a year at the Harvard Law School in order to get some special first and second year courses with professors whose work I particularly admired. I then made up the work at the University of Pennsylvania in the summer and went back and finished the third year with the 1904 class at the University of Pennsylvania. In July, 1904, I entered the law office of Dickson, McCouch and Glasgow, in Philadelphia, this being the old Bullitt firm, which has since become Dickson, Beitler and McCouch. I have been practising law with them ever since. In 1910 I was given an interest, which has from time to time been increased since. In May, 1911, I was married and have since had a very happy life and two lively children, a girl and a boy, were born. I also own and operate a Ford automobile for purposes of transportation only. I spend my summers at Beach Haven, N. J., my principal outdoor amusement being sailing and fishing. I find that I feel much better and healthier when I do not take any exercise. I still have all my hair, and am not very fat (6 ft., 1-2 in., and 170 lbs., stripped). I enjoy laughing at a good joke about as much as anything I can think of. I have written a treatise on The Interstate Commerce Act, 2 vols and supplement. (George F. Bisel Company, 1909 and 1910). Member: Philadelphia Club, First City Troop.

Address	St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H.

For the first four years, after leaving college, I taught at Pomfret School. In the summer of 1902 Samuel Thurber, '01, and I went to Europe. In 1905 I was ordained deacon by Bishop McVickar, and later travelled via Europe to the Philippine Islands, where I worked with Bishop Brent in Manila, and helped him start a school for Igorot boys in the province of Benguet. After returning via the Pacific in 1907, I combined parish work in Providence with study at the Berkeley Divinity School. In January, 1908, I was ordained priest. In February, 1908, I began work at St. Stephen's Church, Boston, serving as "vicar" there till April, 1910, when I became vice-rector of St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H. In April, 1911, I was married to Miss Cornelia F. Wolcott, and after a trip to Europe, we settled at St. Paul's School, where we now live. Since July, 1911, I have been rector of St. Paul's School. I have written: The Christian Increase (sermons) (1910. Privately published.), The Truth in Youth (pamphlet), five annual reports of St. Paul's School. Member: Harvard Club of Boston, University Club of New York.

There is nothing much to add to the decennial report. My wife and children and my home life are all that any man could ask. My health is good; my business is supporting us all comfortably and is satisfactory. I have many good friends—old and new. I am working hard at interesting work. My feeling is that my future is ahead of me and I am working ambitiously, but in spite of that I have achieved contentment. I am still a partner in the firm of Frank and DuBois, fire and marine insurance brokers, in New York City. My share of the business has increased materially since decennial and, naturally, so have my responsibilities. My avocations are trout fishing, cabinet work and fiddle playing,—hobbies enough for any man. Put me down again as the most contented man in the class. The story of my life since graduation has very few additions to my "life history" as published in our decennial report. I entered the Harvard Medical School in the fall of 1901, and put in four years of hard work, except for short vacations in the summers. The summer of 1902 I spent abroad, travelling with Burnett, '01, Talbot, '00, and Storrs, '96, and studying in Jena in Germany. In 1904, suffering from an acute attack of "wandering fever" I went to Missanabie, Ontario, a settlement composed of three log-shacks and some Cree Indian tepees, bought a birch-bark canoe, picked up an Ojibway and a Cree and started north, paddling and portaging to the Height of Land, then portaging over it and striking the head waters of the Missanabie River, then down that to the Moose River and to Hudson's Bay. Seven hundred miles of paddle, pole and pack in five weeks and then back to the Medical School. Graduating in 1905, I entered the Massachusetts General Hospital, where I spent a year and a half, and then went to Vienna by way of the Azores, Madeira, Gibraltar, Algiers and Italy. In Vienna I spent nearly a year of hard work and pleasure, sandwiching in numerous little excursions to the mountains and to out-of-the-way places in Austria, Bohemia and Hungary, and incidentally acquiring smatterings of numerous dialects which have since become very useful in conducting an out-patient clinic, made up of every possible nationality. From Vienna I went to Germany, thence to Paris, England and home. Since arriving here in 1908 I have stuck to the practice of medicine, with only one real trip,—to Newfoundland and along the coast of Labrador in the summer of 1914. The trip was not a howling success, for the little steamer I was on became stuck in the ice north of Indian Harbor—though it was July —and for two weeks we froze and cussed. To make things brighter we ran out of fresh meat, vegetables and fresh water, and anybody who has lived for any length of time on oatmeal (without milk), bad salt fish and poor pork, with occasionally "salt junk" as a luxury knows that it is not like a 1901 class dinner! However, we dipped up very brackish water from the ice floes and survived. We eventually got out of the ice and started south, bringing the crews of a small steamer and several fishing vessels which had been wrecked by the ice, and at Battle Harbor, after a few days' wait, I picked up a crazy little steamer and came down the wonderful west coast of Newfoundland. Arriving at the railway I decided that all excitement was over, but not so! Soon the train went off the deliriously-built track, and for hours the train-crew and the passengers worked in indescribable swarms of black-flies and midges to bring order out of chaos. Arriving in Boston I found the thermometer at 96° (and it stayed there for ten days!) which was some contrast to three weeks of freezing to death. I hold no offices of "profit," for the physician has so many unpaid offices wished on him that he hasn't time to devote to profitable ones. I am visiting physician to out-patients at the Massachusetts General Hospital and consulting physician to the Massachusetts Charitable Eye and Ear Infirmary, and have held other appointments in other hospitals from which I have resigned. As I reported in the decennial report, "I have written no books, and as the titles of the medical articles which I have published would hardly prove of absorbing interest to the class and would paralyze the typesetter with horror, I will not mention them." Member: Harvard Club of Boston, University Club of Boston, Aesculapian Club, Boylston Medical Society, Massachusetts Medical Society, Junior Medical Review Club, Boston Medical Library, Harvard Travellers' Club.

My work at Harvard was largely along the line of applied science with some economics, history, and literature. I intended preparing for mining at the Scientific School after four years at the college; but on account of opposition by my parents I abandoned this plan and in 1901 entered the engineering department of the Illinois Central Railroad. I started as a track laboror, and spent from three months to 18 months as draughtsman in the chief engineer's office; instrument-man on location surveys in Alabama, Mississippi, Iowa and Illinois; in charge of terminal improvements in Kentucky and Illinois; assistant engineer maintenance of way in Illinois, Tennessee, Mississippi, and Louisiana, and construction engineer, on new lines, in Illinois. Since 1907, I have handled bridge construction and drainage improvements. For the past year my work has consisted of handling surveys for concrete and steel bridges, preparing plans, estimates and recommendations and the consideration of drainage problems in general. This work covers the entire railroad system. My work has made me a man without a home until the past year, when I have been able to stay in Chicago. For obvious reasons I am still single. Although Stone and Webster are not apt to consider me as being a formidable competitor, yet I feel that I have made the same progress as the average man, or a little better, and I am still young with a good stock of ambition.

Peter Harden Eley

Peter Harden Eley was born at Windsor, Isle of Wight Co., Va., September 10, 1875. His parents were Edwin John Eley and Annie Holt Harden. Harden, as he was familiarly called by his associates, was hardly more than an infant when his father died. His mother afterward married H. F. Crawford, and the family moved to Williston, in Fayette County, Tenn., in 1878. Harden received his common-school education at the Williston Academy, was graduated with distinction at the University of North Carolina in June, 1900, and from Harvard University in 1901. Under government supervision he spent one year thereafter as a teacher in the Philippine Islands, and returned to the States to occupy several positions as a teacher in southern institutions. About nine years ago his strength of mind and body failed, and with that his activities ceased. Such is the brief synopsis of his life,—a life crowned with impulse, thought and action. By nature he was endowed with splendid capabilities. He mastered with equal ease the various branches of his education. His early life and young manhood gave every promise of future honor and success. He was the author of a book entitled "An Epoch in History". He died February 9, 1916.

In the fall of 1900, not returning for final year at college, I went to work for the Lothrop Publishing Company, of Boston, where I lasted for a little over a year and then sought new pastures green in New York with the Success Magazine Company, in the advertising (ad. writing) department, for about nine months; then with the Haulenbeek Company (advertising) for about six months, leaving there to start in the publishing business in Boston as John S. Brooks and Company. We published "Stillman Gott," written by Edwin D. Sibley, '79. Incidentally the book was published in serial form in the Boston Herald, of which Fred. Whiting, '80, was the guiding spirit; and while I was at it, I had it printed at the University Press, Cambridge, of which Herbert White, '93, was the manager, and I had the books bound at the Boston Bookbinding Company, of which Norman White, '95, was the big boss. It was a good book, well printed and well bound, but the dear public couldn't buy dollar-and-a-half fiction and pay $15-$18 a ton for coal; so I quit the publishing business and went with the Morse Company, school books, covering central New York State and western Massachusetts. They sold out and I allowed myself to be "hired" by the Building Trades' Credit Agency of Boston, and here I have stuck ever since. I have bought into the business and now handle the destinies of the builders, speculative and legitimate, of all New England—from a credit point of view at least.

For the first ten years after leaving college, I can add nothing to the account written in June, 1911. This report leaves me starting for Germany, to race a sonder boat, in company with George B. Dabney, '02, and George Nichols, '00. The trip was a most memorable one, especially so, in view of all that has happened since. We were one of three boats representing the Eastern Yacht Club, to take part in a match race with three boats selected by the Imperial Yacht Club of Germany. The other two American boats were the "Bibelot", sailed and managed by Robert W. Emmons, 2d, '95, his crew being Wiggin, commonly known as commodore, and John Parkinson, Jr., '05; and the "Cima", sailed and managed by Guy Lowell, '92, his crew being Robert Harding, and a Mr. Godley, who happened to be in Paris, and filled in a vacancy caused by a number of regrettable incidents. The racing between the American boats was the keenest and best that I ever hope to take part in, and I can safely say without exaggeration, that all three American boats distinctly outclassed the German boats in almost every particular. We had the satisfaction of winning the first race, but were finally defeated by the "Bibelot", the last race being sailed in a strong wind and heavy sea. We were a long way ahead at the windward mark, but were defeated by a close margin of about 10 seconds at the finish. The racing at Kiel in which we were taking part, appeared to be a great holiday occasion for a small, comparatively well-to-do, class of Germans, who I believe had been instructed by the Emperor to try to promote the sport. I gained the impression that the interest in yachting and, for that matter, all sport, was shared by a very much smaller number of people in Germany than in this country, and I feel quite clear that their racing men have not attained anywhere near the perfection that is quite common in the best racing clubs in this country; moreover, there were comparatively few of the yachtsmen who had any proficiency at all. I think we all felt that the International Race played a very unimportant part in the general racing that was going on at Kiel, and that nobody in the country really cared or thought anything obout it. Many of us wondered if the interest would have been very much greater if the Germans had been winning. There was a considerable number of dinners and social occasions, which were entirely novel experiences to me, as well as to most, if not all, of our party. I think we all enjoyed them, and I certainly feel that we were royally entertained. At the close of the racing, our party broke up, and I spent a couple of weeks visiting a few industrial organizations where iron pyrites was being used. My work at home here centres about the use of this commodity, and I was glad of the opportunity to learn what little I could of its use in the manufacture of sulphite pulp in Germany. I found it very difficult to gain access to the plants, but was able to pick up a certain amount of information from the managers, which was of use to me. They were willing to tell me certain things, but in most cases, unwilling to give me free access to the plants. On my return to this country, I took up my regular work, in which I have been continuously and absorbingly occupied since that time. This work consists of the production and sale of copper bearing pyrites, and the gradual development of a plant at West Norfolk, Va., for the extraction of the copper from the residues. In the spring of 1913, I made a trip to Spain, and was fortunate in securing admission to two of the largest pyrites mines in the Huelva District, which mines are unquestionably the largest producers of pyrites in the world. Besides the matters of technical interest to me, the trip contained a great deal of general interest, and I look back on it as one of the pleasantest of my many wanderings. The mines in themselves could not fail to be of interest even to nontechnical persons, on account of their great antiquity. It is said that the largest one (the Rio Tinto Mine) which is now owned and controlled by English capital, was worked first in the time of the Phoenicians; then again by the Romans, and so on down to the present time almost without interruption. I returned through Madrid, where I enjoyed the hospitality of Joe Camprubi's family. From Madrid, I went to Paris; thence to London and Glasgow; back to Paris,and then home. In the fall of 1911, the Boston local section of the American Institute of Mining Engineers was organized, and I was elected secretary, in which capacity I served until 1914. A very small amount of my time during the last year, has been devoted to the Melones Mining Company, which I have had the pleasure of visiting with my father, who is the president of the company. The mine is located in Calaveras County, California. I am now temporarily filling the position of treasurer of the company ,but this does not entail any very exacting duties. My recreation during these last five years has been much the same as in the preceding ten. I am as fond as ever of yachting, horseback riding, tennis and skating, and hope that I may continue so. How fast time flies! Our decennial anniversary seems but yesterday, and yet as I read over my own story in our class report of 1911, the events mentioned recall a life that seems almost of a different world,—so much have the pressing occupations of the present crowded out of my thoughts the things that five years ago were but of yesterday. I have been busy, and I am glad of it. I have enjoyed it. During the last five years, my life has been much less varied than during the first years after college. I fear that I have confined myself more to the rut of my business; but that rut has been wide enough for me to enjoy the work. In the fall of 1911, my partnership with Mr. Henry S. Thompson was expanded into a partnership with Philip Cabot and Henry S. Thompson, which carried on the business of developing water-powers. After one promising year, however, the partnership of Cabot, Thompson and Eustis was dissolved, when Thompson found an opening he liked better. With the breaking up of this partnership, my attention has centred more and more on metallurgical or mining problems. The operation and expansion of family properties have occupied most, but not all, of my time. I have particularly enjoyed being able to give some time to investigation of different metallurgical problems. In the spring of 1915, I wrote up the results of a long series of experiments in washing smelter smoke, which had been conducted by one of our family companies, and was fortunate in receiving from our Alma Mater for the paper the degree of S.D. I am now working on a complex nickel iron ore. Such investigations, which fit naturally into my work, are one of the pleasant features of it; but I enjoy most the constant association with active men, and the opportunity for competition which my business offers. It takes me frequently into the busy cities of our eastern coast: Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington and Norfolk; and the opportunities to meet the men in my line of business in these cities, and to keep in touch with what they are doing, and to compete with them furnish life's greatest interest. Of course, the travelling is irksome, and I often wish that I could fly, but for me that is not yet. I feel that I have had to specialize, and while the concentration on special matters is most interesting, I regret, and try to fight against, the narrowing of my field. I try to keep a little in touch with the many activities that aim to improve conditions about us, the associations that work for the many changes that we so much need,—the different schools and the charities. My preference would be to place first the work that aims to improve our government; but circumstances have forced before me the schools of the South that are beginning to teach the negroes of the South to help themselves by teaching them how to work. I have met no finer people anywhere than those who are giving their lives to this work. I honor them, and I have enjoyed my slight association with them. I have been able to travel for pleasure some, having spent one summer in Norway, and one spring in Jamaica and eastern Cuba. For recreation, the simple pleasures of home, and the country and seashore, are my main reliance; but I still can enjoy a good dance and a good play. DWIGHT DURKEE EVANS

Born	St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 25, 1878.
Parents	David Gwynne Evans, Julia Durkee.
School	Smith Academy, St. Louis, Mo.
Years in College	1897-1901.
Degrees	A.B., 1901.
Married	Elmira Zoe Lee, St. Louis, Mo., April 18, 1906.
Children	Mary Lee, Jan. 27, 1911.
Occupation	Tea Importer's Representative.
Address	(home) 681 Oakland Ave., St. Paul, Minn. (business) 108 Brokerage Building, St. Paul, Minn.

After graduation I returned to St. Louis, Mo., entering tea and coffee business controlled by my father. In 1902 I spent a year in southwestern Colorado in the cattle business, returning to St. Louis and continuing tea and coffee business in 1903. Married in 1906, visiting Cuba on wedding trip.

In 1909-1910 I spent four months with my wife hunting and fishing on Cataline Island, Cal. Continued in tea and coffee business in St. Louis, Mo., until September, 1911, and then resigned to accept position as Northwestern representative of Carter, Macy and Company, New York City, tea importers, making my headquarters in St. Paul, Minn. In 1914 I spent six months in Japan as assistant buyer for my firm, returning to St. Paul, Minn., late in 1914 to continue my work in the Northwest. While living in St. Louis, Mo., I took an active interest in rowing as a member of the Century and Mound City Boat Clubs, during the years 1901-1911, inclusive. In 1909-1910 was successful in bringing James Wray, late Harvard coach, to St. Louis for the summer months, which improved rowing methods and conditions there. Since removing to St. Paul the nature of my business has prevented further interest in rowing, but has afforded much opportunity for travel in the United States, Canada and Japan. Member: Yokohama Club, Yokohama, Japan.

After leaving the Law School in 1903 I entered the office of Benjamin Tuska, New York City. Was admitted to the New York bar early in the following year. In the fall of 1904 I entered the employ of the Joseph and Feiss Company, Cleveland, manufacturers of men's and young men's suits and overcoats. Spent three to four years in different ends of the business. Most of this time was taken in learning the manufacturing end of the business thoroughly. After improving and systematizing the manufacturing, was made general manager of the clothcraft shops of The Joseph and Feiss Company at the end of 1908. Spent most of the time since building up the manufacturing organization of this concern and developing new methods of manufacture and special methods of handling men along lines of scientific management. Articles written are: Scientific Management Applied to the Steadying of Employment, and its Effect in an Industrial Establishment (appearing in The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, Philadelphia, September, 1915, publication No. 926), Personal Relationship as a Basis of Scientific Management (read before the Society to Promote the Science of Management, Philadelphia, Pa., October 23, 1915, and appearing in their November, 1915, bulletin). After two years of college life, I was compelled to leave the University and employ my meagre wits and faculties in keeping the omnipresent wolf from the portal. His bark has sometimes been heard but thus far he has not been able to insert his head. My intention was to teach school, but after some experience in night schools I decided that I was not temperamentally fitted for the work and I obtained a position as private secretary to a street railway "magnate." During my occupancy of this office I took the civil service examinations for the position of observer in the United States Weather Bureau. In this endeavor I was successful and received an appointment in June, 1901, which assigned me to duty at Columbus, Ohio. I was assigned in order to Parkersburg, W. Va., New Haven, Conn., Philadelphia, Pa., and in September, 1904, by very good fortune and untiring effort, I managed to obtain an assignment to Providence. In June, 1911, after 10 years' service, I sought for and was pleased to get a transfer to the United States Customs Service as inspector, a position which I continue to hold and with which I am quite content. During my term of office in the Weather Bureau I delivered a few talks and lectures on meteorological matters and wrote an article occasionally for the daily papers. As a whole I have not had a very eventful life and would prefer the shadow to the spotlight. I will close with a short quotation from Pope which always appealed to me and which I have tried to follow as closely as possible:

> "Honor and shame from no condition rise,
> Act well your part; there all the honor lies."

For an account of my life up to 1911 the reader is respectfully referred to the third report of the class of 1901, dated June, 1911. In 1912 I received the degree of Ph.D. from Harvard. The following year I lived in Cambridge and taught chemistry in Boylston Hall. I then, in September, 1913, removed to Providence, R. I., and became assistant chemist of the Rumford Chemical Works, where I spend my time manufacturing Rumford Baking Powder. Soon after the war started, another man and I started the Blackstone Chemical Works, for the manufacture of aniline oil for dyestuffs. We are still in the dyestuff game, and have erected some small plants for others, to make aniline oil. Under the name of the Erik H. Green Company we are also dealing in dyes and chemicals. I have written a few scientific articles in chemical journals.

Having completed the necessary courses for my A.B. degree at the mid-year examinations of my senior year, and having obtained leave of absence from the college authorities, I went abroad, visited Morocco, Spain, Italy, France, England, and returned home in the summer of 1901. In the autumn of 1901 I entered business as a clerk in the employ of the Waltham Watch Company. After spending three months in the Montreal office, nine months in the Chicago office, and one year in the London office of that company I was transferred to the home office at Waltham, where I have been ever since. In course of time I became assistant to the president and in 1911 I was elected director, vice-president and general manager of the Waltham Watch Company, which position I now hold. Since graduation, the most important events in my life have been my marriage and the arrival on the scene of my three children. My principal aims consist in trying to live up to my job, to be a success as a family man and to extract a reasonable amount of pleasure and amusement out of life. Sports: polo, hunting, golf, travel. Member: Algonquin Club, Harvard Club, New Riding Club, of Boston; Myopia Hunt Club, Hamilton; Jewelers' Club, Boston; Eastern Yacht Club, Marblehead; Harvard Club, and 24-Karat Club, New York City.

Postgraduate study, foreign travel, and teaching have occupied most of my time since leaving college. The first two years I spent in Washington at the Catholic University of America on graduate studies, chiefly philosophy and English. In the summer of 1903 I made an extended tour of Europe in company with my two brothers, visiting Germany, Austria, Italy, Switzerland, France, England and Ireland. In September I returned to the University in Cambridge for my A.M. degree, which I took the following June (1904). I then went to Europe for two years, devoted to study of the Fine Arts. The first winter I was in London and Oxford, working in the museums and libraries. I spent the spring (1905) in Florence and the summer in Siena. The following year was given largely to travel and study in Mediterranean lands. I visited Naples and Sicily in the winter, Greece, Crete, and Constantinople in the spring (1906) and returned to Italy for the early summer. For the rest of the year, until my return home in September, I was engaged in studying at the chateaux and cathedrals of France. Before my return I was appointed assistant in the department of Fine Arts at Harvard. I began teaching when college opened in September, 1906. The following year I was appointed Austin teaching fellow. I gave a course in the Summer School of 1907, after which I spent the remainder of the vacation in England. In the spring of 1908 I was appointed instructor in Fine Arts. After our marriage in July, 1908, my wife and I travelled in western and southern France until time to return for the re-opening of college. The summer of 1911 I spent in Spain. Returning to Cambridge, I continued teaching until the close of college, 1912, when I took my family to Europe for two years' residence in England, France and Italy. We did all our travelling, some 13,000 miles, by automobile, including two trips south to the Mediterranean and along the Riviera to Pisa and Florence, and two return journeys over the Alps, through France, to England. Travelling in this way afforded the ideal combination of pleasurable recreation, with the opportunities for visiting places of interest and studying the collections and monuments along the way. When the war broke out in August, 1914, we had fortunately returned to England, where we experienced no particular discomfort excepting the uncertainties attendant upon securing return passage to America.

School	Cambridge Latin School, Cambridge, Mass.
Years in College	1897-1901.
Degrees	A.B., 1901.
Occupation	Bond Salesman.
Address	(home) 8 Chauncy St., Cambridge, Mass. (business) 55 Congress St., Boston, Mass.

Since leaving college I have had experience in various lines of business, but for the last eight years I have been selling bonds. For a time I was with Jackson and Curtis, but left them to take my present position with Halsey and Company, Inc. (Boston office of N. W. Halsey and Company.). Have nothing to report as to positions of honor or trust, and as to marriage, can only plead not guilty. Judging from the reports heard of other members of the class, that field of human activity seems to be well cared for. Have not acquired the "club" habit but instead have amused myself trying to make a "flivver" do the work of a Packard. "It can't be done, Hinckey; it can't be done!" Member: Salem Club, Salem, Mass.

Occupation	Lawyer.
Address	Care of Messrs. Morgan, Grenfell and Company, 22 Old Broad St., London, E. C., England.

I have been engaged since graduation from the Law School in the practice of law, my tendency being to specialize in corporation law, and more recently in international corporation law. From September, 1904, to September, 1906, I worked with Richardson, Herrick and Neave, Boston. From September, 1906, to April, 1910, I worked with Storey, Thorndike, Palmer and Thayer, Boston. From April, 1910, to October, 1910, I had a severe illness and could not work. In October, 1910, I became a partner of Stimson, Stockton, Livermore, and Forbes, Boston, leaving the firm in November, 1911, to become counsel in Paris, France, for the Brazil Railway Company, being named general counsel in 1913. In October, 1914, shortly after the beginning of the war, the Brazil Railway Company went into receivership, and I have since then been acting as counsel for the receiver. I have recently been retained also by the American International Corporation, and am acting as counsellor for the War Relief Commission of The Rockefeller Foundation.

I was never much of an athlete—still less a student. For three years I labored faithfully in vain to make almost every team Harvard produced, while father paid the bills less and less patiently. I registered in all the "cinch" courses in the curriculum, and passed examination in some. Painfully shy, and knowing only my roommate when I entered with a class of 1800 strangers, I became very fond of the theatre in Boston, and the beautiful surrounding country through which I enthusiastically walked, bicycled and skated. I soon owned a canoe on the Charles, and not long after made frequent excursions as far as Wellesley. Hugo Parton and Jerry Hatch were my beaux ideal. It was at a suggestion of father's, forcibly expressed, and I imagine with the faculty's heartfelt relief, that I left this pleasant life, and with bag, baggage, and bicycle, descended upon New York City in quest of fortune more than fame, in June of 1900. It was hard to leave those of my class whom I had known, many of whom I have not seen since. And I have never quite forgotten any of them. I always had more sentiment than sense, which is expensive. Landing in New York with twelve dollars and unlimited inexperience, luck led me to the Brooklyn Rapid Transit office where I secured a job as typewriter. After a few months, I was promoted to investigator of accidents, and later assistant claim agent. I had a hall bedroom near Piel's brewery; and on Sundays I listened to the band concerts in Prospect Park, bathed at Brighton Beach, and "did" Coney Island. My next job, collecting rent for the McVickar Realty Company, took me across the river to Manhattan in the tenement districts of the East side, from Houston Street to Brooklyn Bridge. Passionately fond of the water I spent many happy hours wandering among the tall-sparred ships moored along the river front, watching the discharge of their odd cargoes from many foreign ports, to all of which the smell of tar and babel of strange tongues lent the glamor of Stevenson's romance. I then became assistant advertising manager for the Siegel-Cooper department store, the "Meet me at the Fountain" emporium. With 72 departments to write advertising for continually, I found it extremely hard work, although the pay was good. In a short time I had not a new idea left to put into print. Then I would go out to Van Cortland Park for a round of golf, or admire the lions at the Bronx Zoo. From this I drifted as advertising solicitor to the "American Queen", a woman's household magazine with offices on Union Square. Tiring of the big city, I returned to my home town and for three years worked at the Erie City Iron Works as machinist, engine tester, boiler maker, draughtsman, and office assistant. Then I decided to go into business for myself, and built a factory where I manufactured stationery, dress and toilet articles from mother of pearl and other shell imported from Africa, Japan, etc. In three years my business lost nearly $18,000. So I sold the machinery, rented the factory, and became a cow puncher on a Wyoming ranch. I also prospected for copper ore in the Rattle Snake Range of the Rockies. Then I returned to Erie and opened a stock and bond brokerage office as correspondent of Spencer Trask and Company, of New York. After the panic and hard times came I turned to local real estate mortgages, in the brokerage of which I have now specialized. I helped organize two divisions of the Pennsylvania Naval Reserve at Erie, and, as lieutenant, have, at various times, been ordered by the Navy Department to Newport, New York, Philadelphia and Hampton Roads, where detailed as junior officer on battleships, scout cruisers, and a submarine. I have sailed for practice cruises, battle and target practice. In October, 1913, I was detailed to the U. S. S. Florida, attached to the Atlantic fleet, when it sailed from Hampton Roads for a Mediterranean cruise. Landing at Naples 15 days later, I had 19 days shore leave, during which I saw most of Italy, part of Switzerland, and a bit of France. In March, 1914, I sailed from New York on the Hamburg American liner Cincinnati for Naples. On board I met a girl and her brother, who was an architect, who were on their way to study the art of Italy. They agreed to join a party of my friends which I was to meet at Naples, and we began together the study of medieval history, cathedrals and fleas. From Naples we spent some weeks in Rome, and then motored to Florence, by way of Orvieto and Siena; then to Milan, Lake Como, Lucerne, Interlachen, and up through Dresden, Munich and Berlin to Brussels and Antwerp, sailing from Rotterdam for New York. By the end of that summer the lady had agreed to darn my socks and share my salary and sorrows; so we were married at Cooperstown, N. Y. And nothing much has happened ever since. I have written: Sermons on Home Cooking Versus Interior Decorating, Little Journeys, or the Technique of a Manicure, Past due, Please remit! Member: University Club, Erie Yacht Club, Kahkwa Country Club, Board of Commerce, Young Men's Christian Association, all of Erie, Pa., West Millcreek Township Federated Poker Players Home Circle, Amateur Samsons, Great Unwashed.

Occupation	Manufacturer.
Address	(home) 116 College Road, Lake Forest, Ill. (business) 122 South Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

I left college on leave of absence in February, 1901, to accompany my father to Mexico. My father left in about a month and I remained there until June, the guest of a Mexican family in Mexico City. I had a position in a warehouse office for a time, and in April accompanied a party of engineers through the state of Chiapas, making a preliminary survey of the Pan-American Railroad. June, 1901, I returned to Cambridge for my degree. In July, 1901, I became chemist for South Chicago Furnace Company, iron manufacturers. In September, 1902, I became blast furnace apprentice at Illinois Steel Company plant at South Chicago. In January, 1903, my furnace exploded, killing some of us, and my father persuaded me to leave the position on the ground that an only son had no right to assume the risk. I went into my father's office and loafed for six months. In September, 1903, I obtained a job as laborer at the Waukegan, Ill., plant of the North Shore Gas Company, in which my father was the principal stockholder, and learned something of the manufacturing end of the business. In July, 1904, I became vice-president of the company. My father died August 14, 1904, and I assumed the presidency of the United States Silica Company, a producer of glass sand, one of his interests. I also became, with Charles G. Dawes and H. H. C. Miller, of Chicago, a trustee of my father's estate. In the fall of 1904, I became a director of the Monroe National Bank, of Chicago. In 1906, I organized the Palestine Light, Heat and Power Company, which now distributes gas to Palestine, Texas, and am still vice-president and treasurer of the company. May 12, 1906, I married Grace I. Leslie, in Winnetka, Ill., and lived in Winnetka thereafter until after her death in the winter of 1908. In the fall of 1908, I took an apartment in Chicago. My daughter and I lived there and at Onwentsia Club, Lake Forest, for the next five years. In January, 1913, I married Margaret Lawson Baxter, at Knoxville, Tenn. August 22, 1915, twin sons, Volney William and Archibald McGhee, were born to us at Easthampton, Long Island, where we had a cottage. In addition to the positions already mentioned I am director of Dawes Brothers, Inc., Metropolitan Gas and Electric Company, Union Gas and Electric Company, and treasurer of Gas and Electric Improvement Company, all of Chicago, Ill. Member: Chicago Club, University Club, Casino Club, Saddle and Cycle Club, all of Chicago, Ill., Onwentsia Club, Lake Forest, Ill., Winter Club, Lake Forest, Ill., Battery C, First Field Artillery, Illinois National Guards, Fort Sheridan, Ill., Travellers Club, Paris, France.

After graduating in the class of 1901 I went to the Harvard Medical School, graduating in 1904. I went into the general practice of medicine at Chelsea, Mass., at once. One year later I married Rachael L. Wyner. I did well in practice. On April 12, 1908, my house and all my possessions were burnt to the ground in the great Chelsea fire. Two months later I went to Europe to finish specialization along lines of ear, nose and throat work. I went to London, Berlin, Vienna, Budapest and through most of the large cities of Germany. I returned the latter part of 1909, and settled down to the practice of the diseases of the ear, nose and throat at 419 Boylston Street, Boston. I have succeeded quite well in building up a practice. I have received appointments as visiting surgeon to the ear, nose and throat departments of the Boston City Hospital and Mt. Sinai Hospital, of Boston. I have my home in Brookline and things are prospering with me. I have written an article on the function of the tonsil, and an article on a new tonsil operation. I have invented a nasal splint, a septum and tonsil knife, a grasping forceps, and a tonsil needle holder. Member: American Medical Association, Massachusetts Medical Society, New England Otological Society, American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology.

After law school, my interest in boys' club work brought me the acquaintance of James J. Storrow, an old Harvard man and a good citizen of Boston, who financed my plans for a boys' club house and put me in charge of it. So for ten years I have been trying to pass around some good Harvard gospel among the boys of the West End House and have helped to turn the steps of many fine fellows toward our college. Perhaps a boy or two is today a wee bit better man because of the West End House. And at the same time, I was trying to practise law and save enough out of it to support my wife and growing family. Their needs and that practice have grown and have eaten away my time for personal work with the other fellow's boy. From now on, I hope to see more of my own boys. It is my intention to slip in a little Harvard spirit with their breakfast food, and maybe they will get to college, and if God is good, they will be more useful servants of Harvard than their dad has been. In other words, classmates, I have begun to notice, as you have noticed, that fatherhood is a mighty fine and engrossing occupation. Member: Boston City Club, Prospect Lodge, A. F. and A. M., Dorchester Royal Arch Chapter.

After graduating from Harvard I entered the Rochester Theological Seminary, Rochester, N. Y. During my seminary course I did missions work and some evangelistic work, and the last year in the seminary was pastor of the Carter Street Mission, a branch of the Second Baptist Church of Rochester. I received a call to the pastorate of the First Baptist Church of Rumford Falls, Me., in the fall of 1904, and was ordained in that church January 12, 1905. The greatest event of my Rumford Falls pastorate was meeting Miss Pickering, of Bangor, Me., which resulted in marriage. From Rumford Falls I went to Skowhegan, Me., as pastor of the First Baptist Church, and from there to Manchester-by-the-Sea, Mass., where I became pastor of the First Baptist Church. While at Manchester, I had occasion to solicit funds from the summer residents to help reconstruct the church building and put in a new pipe organ. I found my being a Harvard man was a help. Many of those I met and who gave assistance were Harvard men or were kindly disposed to a man who was a Harvard man. From Manchester I went to the pastorate of the Worthen Street Baptist Church of Lowell, and from Lowell I came to the Mattapan Baptist Church where I am located at present. The fall of 1914 I started to give drama sermons once a month at my church. These are impersonated sermons. They have proved a distinct innovation in the method of preaching and they are very attractive to those who have in many cases been indifferent to the call of the Church. I have given these sermons successfully not only in my own church but in other churches and I use them also in evangelistic work. A pastor's life is a varied and a busy one. In addition to my church duties I go out once in a while to conduct special evangelistic meetings in other churches. At present I am one of the evangelists associated with the Evangelistic Association of New England. I also take an interest in the work of the Evangelical Alliance of Greater Boston, and serve as one of the directors of that organization. Member: Evangelistic Association of New England, Evangelical Alliance of Greater Boston, The Boston Baptist Ministers' Conference, The Mattapan Baptist Church of Milton, Mass.

WALTER ARCHER FROST

Born	Amenia, N. Y., Dec. 18, 1876.
Parents	Simeon Taylor Frost, Phoebe Wheeler.
School	Meriden High School, Meriden, Conn.
Years in College	1897-1901.
Degrees	A.B., 1901; LL.B. (University of Wisconsin), 1904.
Married	Susan Winifred McCurdy, Baddeck, C. B., Canada, Dec. 18, 1905.
Children	Georgina, July 25, 1908.
Occupation	Writer.
Address	1672 Seventy First Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

After graduating from the University of Wisconsin Law School in 1904, I acted as clerk for one year in the law office of Hayes, Williams and Baker, 70 State Street, Boston, then practised for nearly four years in Green Bay, Wis. Then I came back to Boston, and practised there for three years and a half, having my office in the Exchange Building, 53 State Street. Then I came to New York to be the editor of the Peoples' Magazine, from that went to the Munsey Company, and from there to act as literary editor of Good Housekeeping Magazine. After a year of that, I left editorial work and since then have been giving all my time to writing fiction and special articles. My family and I spent the past eighteen months in a bungalow I have on the shore of the Bras d'Or Lakes, in Cape Breton, Nova Scotia, Can. There I finished another novel and a lot of short stories. The country is a paradise in the summer and a marvel in the winter, for it is only sixty miles south of Newfoundland, and we had seventy miles of pack ice off the coast in the middle of May. But the lakes, almost shut off as they are from the sea, were clear of ice by the middle of April, and after that we had blue water again until we left, late this fall. The spruce covers all the land. In the winter we lost the deep green of the spruce under feet of snow. Then what they call an easterly, a mighty gale from the northeast, came to us and blew for weeks steady as a trade wind, and bared our thirty miles of clear ice for us to skate on. We skated a great deal,—got our supplies by skating a mile and a half to the town for them; and we did a stack of ice-boating and snowshoeing. Until then I had never seen the Northern Lights and the moon and stars reflected in the ice, and it was indescribably lovely. To get material for stories, I worked as a member of a wrecking crew, and helped build an "ice breaker", which the ice broke promptly. Now we are back in civilization again. It has many compensations; but the freedom of the open has a glory and a charm all its own. I look back with gratitude to the winter we spent in the North, and hope ultimately to have another there. Doubleday, Page and Company published my first novel, The Man Between, in 1913. I have sold about one hundred and fifty short stories, novelettes, special articles, etc., to magazines including The American Magazine, The Metropolitan, The World's Work, and from those slanting downward. Member: Authors' Club, New York City, American Institute of Graphic Arts, New York City, Royal Cape Breton Yacht Club, Baddeck, C. B., Canada, Union Boat Club, Boston, Mass.

Within a few days after graduation, in company with several other "One" men, John Jennings, Gene Douglass, Billy Hill, Leo Logan, Louis Bonelli and Jack O'Donnell, I started for the Philippines, a member of the first expeditionary force of teachers sent out by this government to instill into the natives the principles of civilization. After a year and a half there, crammed full of interesting experiences, including a trip to Japan and China, I developed an illness which forced me to return to the United States. Speaking of my own sickness recalls the terrific epidemic of Asiatic cholera which swept over the islands in 1902 during which Jack O'Donnell, alone, and at his post, died of the disease there amongst the natives whom he was serving,—a worthy son of "One", indeed, and a man whose memory we should not forget. After several weeks' recuperation at home, I began to look for a job, finally landing one with a local (Boston) steel company at the magnificent salary of $5.00 per. This proved to be not especially exciting; and when there came an opportunity to go to work for a railroad construction firm in Alabama which was building a section of the Seaboard Air Line from Birmingham to Atlanta, I accepted promptly. Life in the Philippines had been exciting, but was nothing as compared with the experiences I had in the mountains of southern Alabama, where gun-play was an almost daily occurrence, and human life held to be of small value. All the while, though, I was pining to get into medical work; so, after six months in the South, I gave up there and came North. As it was in December, and too late in the year to gain admission to the Harvard Medical School, I decided to waste no more time, and so went up to Brunswick, Me., and entered the Bowdoin Medical School. At the end of two years there, during the last of which I taught pathology, I transferred to the Harvard Medical School, and was graduated in 1907. That fall I went into the Massachusetts General Hospital as a surgical interne, remaining there until March 31, 1909. I immediately opened an office in the South End, which I occupied until September 1, 1910.

My next move was to Commonwealth Avenue, where for the next four years I was associated with Dr. Farfar Cobb as his assistant. In the fall of 1914, I left Dr. Cobb and opened my present office. In 1912, I was appointed consulting surgeon to the Whidden Memorial Hospital, Everett, Mass.; in 1914 was elected president of District 16 Conference of the Boston Associated Charities, and re-elected in the fall of 1915; in April, 1915, I was commissioned first lieutenant in the Medical Corps of the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, and attached to the Coast Artillery Corps; I have held three six months' appointments at the Boston City Hospital as fourth assistant visiting surgeon; on January 1, 1916, I was appointed examining surgeon of the Massachusetts Accident Company. I have written occasional articles for medical journals, an article on Asiatic cholera for the Boston Herald, 1911. Member: Massachusetts Medical Society, American Medical Association, Boston Medical Library, Aesculapian Club, Massachusetts Society of Medical Examiners, Harvard Club of Boston.

ARTHUR HOLDEN GILBERT

Born	Newton Centre, Mass., April 29, 1879.

Occupation	Banker.
Address	(home) Hotel Wadsworth, 10 Kenmore St., Boston, Mass. (business) Care of Merrill, Oldham and Company, 35 Congress St., Boston, Mass.

After leaving college, I was with Foote and French, bankers, until 1906, mostly on the floor of the stock exchange. In 1906, I went with Merrill, Oldham and Company, and have been with that firm ever since. I sold bonds for them in Boston for about three years, and since that time, have been connected with their corporation department, which investigates and purchases bond issues of railroads and public utilities. This has involved a great deal of travelling to almost all parts of the country. I have had very little time for outside activities, but have kept some connection with golf affairs, being at present secretary of the Massachusetts Golf Association. Member: Harvard Club of Boston, Harvard Club of New York, Country Club, Brookline, Brae Burn Country Club, West Newton, Papyrus Club, Boston.

Occupation	Lawyer.
Address	(home) 904 12th Ave., North, Seattle, Wash. (business) 1408 Hoge Building, Seattle, Wash.

After leaving college, I attended the New York Law School for one year, and later studied law in the office of Charles H. Barrows, in Springfield, Mass., where, after being admitted to the bar, I practised law for several years, until 1906, when I went to the Panama Canal Zone. This was soon after the commencement of excavation, sanitation and civil government there by the United States, and the work was in a formative and very interesting stage. While there I was appointed a district judge of the Canal Zone, and held that position until I left the Isthmus in 1908, to come to Seattle, where I now live, having been associated in the practice of law here with four other Harvard men, Frederick Bausman, '83, Daniel Kelleher, '85, R. P. Oldham, '01, and, later, Walter L. Nossaman, '12, though the first named, Frederick Bausman, has recently been removed from the firm by appointment to the supreme bench of this state. Member: Harvard Club, United Spanish War Veterans, Ranier Club, Commercial Club, Seattle Fine Arts Society, all of Seattle, Wash.

Occupation	Lawyer.
Address	(home)) 9 River St., Concord, Mass. (business) 84 State St., Boston, Mass.

In October of 1901, I entered Boston University Law School and completed the course there in June, 1903, when I received my degree. I was admitted to practise law at the Massachusetts bar in August, 1903. In September, 1903, I went into the office of Carver and Blodgett, and remained there for three years. In September, 1906, I opened an office at 60 State Street, Boston, and remained there in practice by myself until September, 1907, when I became the junior partner in the firm of Carver, Wardner and Goodwin. I continued a member of that firm until July 1, 1912, when Joe Procter and I started the firm of Goodwin and Procter, which has since become Goodwin, Procter and Ballantine, upon having Arthur Ballantine, '04, join us. I have continued to live in Concord, Mass., ever since I was graduated from college. In the summer of 1904, I enlisted in Battery A, First Battalion Field Artillery, M.V.M., and continued my connection with that organization as an enlisted man until May, 1911, when I was commissioned second lieutenant. In February, 1913, I was commissioned first lieutenant, and resigned with that rank in February, 1914. Member: Tennis and Racquet Club of Boston, Harvard Club of Boston, Concord Country Club of Concord.

RALPH WELD GRAY

Born	Longwood, Mass., Jan. 19, 1880.
Parents	Samuel Shober Gray, Caroline Balch Weld.
School	Noble and Greenough's School, Boston, Mass.
Years in College	1897-1901.
Degrees	A.B., 1901.
Occupation	Architect.
Address	(home) 7 Mount Vernon Place, Boston, Mass. (business) 19 Congress St., Boston, Mass.

After graduation, I entered the cotton business in Houston, Texas, being in the office there of my uncle, Mr. Stephen M. Weld. I went to New York, still in his employ, early in 1902, where I lived until the summer of 1904. That summer I spent travelling in Europe. The following autumn I gave up the cotton business and undertook the study of architecture at the Ecole des Beaux Arts in Paris, France. I returned to Boston in the autumn of 1907, where I have lived ever since. I am now practising architecture there, under the name of Ralph W. Gray, architect, having no partners. I am at present secretary of the Boston Architectural Club, secretary of the Committee on Education of the Boston Society of Architects, and chairman of the Boston Committee for the Fraternité des Artistes Fund. I have in the past travelled quite extensively in southern Europe. Occupation	Manufacturer.
Address	(home) 214 Buckminster Road, Brookline, Mass. (business) 170 Summer St., Boston, Mass.

After graduating from college I entered business with my father for the manufacture of wool substitutes, in the fall of 1901, spending about a year in the mill. The uneven tenor of business under many varieties of the tariff occupied my whole attention until 1908, when, with a friend, I took a month's pleasure trip through the Southwest and West, going as far south as Mexico and the Grand Canyon and to the Pacific Coast. The following year I was married to Lillah C. Bearse, of Brookline, building a house in the country near Walpole, Mass., where I served as secretary of the newly-formed Board of Trade. After two years of rural life we removed to Brookline, where we still live, surrounded by three children to comfort the old age of quindecennialites. For a number of years I have been interested in the Associated Charities of Boston, and at present am president of the District 3 Conference in South Boston. Member: Harvard Club of Boston, Chestnut Hill Golf Club, Brookline.

ROGER SHERMAN GREENE

Born	Westborough, Mass., May 29, 1881.
Parents	Daniel Crosby Greene, Mary Jane Forbes.
School	Tsukiji School, Tokyo, Japan.

Years in College 1897-1901.
Degrees A.B., 1901; A.M., 1902 (1903).
Occupation Educator or Social Service Worker.
Address No. 2, San T'iao Hutung, Peking, China.

After graduation I remained in Cambridge one year in the Graduate School, taking courses in economics and government, with a view to entering the government service. In 1903 I was engaged as private secretary by the American Minister to Brazil, and served in the legation at Petropolis, Brazil, for six months, after which I entered the Consulate-General at Rio de Janeiro in a subordinate capacity. In the spring of 1904, shortly after the outbreak of the Russo-Japanese War, I was transferred to Japan, where I served for a year and a half as vice-consul, first at Nagasaki and later at Kobe. At the close of the war, in the fall of 1905, I was appointed commercial agent of the United States at Vladivostok, Siberia, where for six months I was in charge of Japanese interests, pending the return of Japanese consular officers to Russia. In 1907 I was transferred to Dairen, the Japanese port in South Manchuria, as consul, and after a [illegible] there, to Harbin, the Russian railway centre in North Manchuria, where I witnessed the great epidemic of pneumonic plague in the winter of 1910-1911. These six years in northeastern Asia gave me a somewhat unique opportunity to observe the conflict between Russian, Japanese and Chinese interests in that part of the world, from the point of view of each of the nations concerned. In the fall of 1911, I was appointed consul-general at Hankow, in Central China, and arrived there just before the outbreak of the revolution which overthrew the Manchu dynasty. In the spring of 1914, I was given a special leave of absence to accompany, in a journey through China, a commission sent out by the Rockefeller Foundation to investigate medical conditions in that country and to report upon the desirability of undertaking some systematic work for the improvement of those conditions. Upon presentation of the commission's report, the foundation decided to undertake the work and formed for this purpose an organization called the China

Medical Board of the Rockefeller Foundation. In considering plans for this work, it seemed desirable to have in China a representative of the board to report upon the various projects in which the board was interested, and in other ways to assist in carrying out the plans which had been adopted. I was appointed to this position in November, 1914, with the title of resident director in China. I had, in the meantime, definitely severed my connection with the state department, under which I had that summer been appointed consul-general-at-large, or inspector of consulates, for the Far East. I came to China and established my headquarters at Peking, in August, 1915. I find my new work extremely interesting, but we have been such a short time in the field that I have little to report, other than to say that our main efforts at first are being directed towards improving medical education. With this in view, we are reorganizing and strengthening an existing school in Peking, established by a union of missionary societies, and hope to assist in the development of one or more other medical schools and of hospitals in various parts of the country. I have written: Annual trade reports on Vladivostok, Dalny, Harbin, and Hankow (in Commercial Relations of the United States, 1905-1913), and minor articles in Daily Consular and Trade Reports. Member: American Society of International Law, American National Red Cross, National Conservation Association, Harvard Clubs of New York and Boston, India House, New York, Peking Club.

Degrees	A.B., 1901; LL.B., 1905.
Address	Care of The Rockefeller Foundation, 61 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

I was graduated from the Harvard Law School in June, 1905. In February, 1906, I became law clerk and assistant to

Hon. W. Cameron Forbes, secretary of commerce and police, Philippines Government. On November 15, 1907, I became secretary of the Board of Rate Regulation, and on May 1, 1909, assistant to the director of public works. On February 3, 1910, I became assistant director of public works, and on July 1, 1910, director of public works. I have general charge of the construction and maintenance of public works in the Philippine Islands (except in city limits of Manila), including road and bridge construction, irrigation, buildings, artesian wells, and water supply systems, on which the Philippines Government expends annually between four and five million dollars, U. S. currency. I resigned from the above position February, 1916, to become director of the War Relief Commission of The Rockefeller Foundation, which work will probably require residence in Europe for the next five or six months.

I left Harvard in the freshman year to become a private in the 1st Massachusetts Regiment, U. S. V., and after being mustered out I waited a year and then entered Brown University, where I was graduated. After a year of miscellaneous writing and newspaper work in New York and Boston I returned to Brown as an instructor in English. After six years of that I went to Princeton as a graduate student for three years. Then I got married and came to Lancaster. I have edited Specimens of English Composition, (Scott, Foresman and Company, 1909). I am at present revising the manuscript of a College Rhetoric to be published in the fall by the same firm. Five days after commencement day in 1901, Messrs. Stone and Webster, of Boston, constructing engineers and managers of electric railway, electric lighting, gas and water-power companies in various parts of the United States, came to my rescue by giving me a job as an office boy. The present finds me in the same firm. On January 1, 1912, I was admitted to partnership. Outside of business, my chief interests and problems consist of four children, the three eldest of whom are constantly in training for the activities of the University; the fourth will endeavor to make her brothers travel the straight and narrow path. Other interests have been my very pleasant associations with the Class of 1901 as treasurer and chairman of the class committee, and as treasurer of the Harvard Alumni Association and the Harvard Alumni Bulletin for a number of years. Since its organization in 1908, I have enjoyed a close relationship with the Harvard Varsity Club as a member of the executive committee, and nothing has contributed more to keeping me young at least in spirit as this association with the undergraduate athlete.

Another influence of this nature is my connection with Middlesex School, Concord, Mass., as a member of the board of trustees. Until the Administration objected legislatively, I enjoyed a few years' experience as a director of the First National Bank of Boston. My chief interest of a charitable nature has been as a trustee of the Milk and Baby Hygiene Association, Boston. On commencement day, 1914, I was elected an overseer, by far the highest honor which has fallen to my lot during the last fifteen strenuous years. Member: Harvard Club of Boston, Harvard Club of New York, Union Club, Boston, Tennis and Racquet Club, Boston, City Club, Boston, Exchange Club, Boston, Economic Club, Boston, Milton Club, Milton, Mass., Hoosic-Whisick Club, Canton, Mass., Longwood Cricket Club, Brookline, Mass.

Occupation	Real Estate Broker.
Address	(home) 405 Broadway, Maumee, Ohio. (business) 612 Madison Ave., Toledo, Ohio.

Soon after graduating I went to Burlington, Iowa, and became associated with the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad in the engineering department. I remained there nine months, when I returned East on account of my health. In May, 1902, I became connected with the Bethlehem Steel Company at South Bethlehem, Pa., specializing in nickel steel. I remained with this company for a year and a half and then came to Toledo, Ohio, where I entered the real-estate business with The Irving B. Hiett Company. I have been connected with this company ever since, in the capacity of vice-president and sales-manager. I am also interested in several other real-estate companies, the Swan Creek Lumber Company, the Erie Decorating Company, and the Bond Outdoor Advertising Company. Two years ago I bought a residence in the suburban town of Maumee, where I am raising four boys to send to Harvard. Since living in Maumee, I have taken an interest in town affairs and am president of the Maumee Improvement Association, president of the board of Trustees of Public Affairs of the village and a member of the board of Trustees of the Carnegie Library. I am a member of the Toledo Commerce Club and the Toledo Real Estate Board.

Degrees	A.B., 1901 (1902).
Occupation	Importation and Selling of Crude Rubber.
Address	18 Williams St., New York, N. Y.

Since leaving college I have been in the rubber business most of the time. I have seen many branches of the business, manufacturing, etc., and the crude end from personal experience in Mexico and the Far East. In going to the Far East I went via San Francisco and came back via the Suez Canal or in other words went round the world. Since returning from the Far East about four years ago I have led a quiet life and have done nothing worth mentioning or exciting and interesting. Married	Julia Stewart Paul, West Roxbury, Mass., July 25, 1906.
Children	Alexander James, Jr., Nov. 1, 1908; Harrison, Nov. 18, 1909; Virginia Lee, July 2, 1912; Paul, Dec. 9, 1913.
Occupation	Architect.
Address	(home) "The Cliffs," R. F. D. Route A, Wilmington, Del. (business) 307 Church Building, Wilmington, Del.

Left Harvard at end of freshman year to complete the architectural course at the University of Pennsylvania. After receiving my degree in 1901 I went directly to New York City and entered the office of Tracy and Swartwout, architects, where I remained seven years. A short time was spent in the Boston office of Mr. Guy Lowell, architect, before entering the office of McKim, Mead and White for a period of five years. From October, 1910, to October, 1911, my time was given to travel and the study of architecture in Europe. The time was spent mostly in Italy studying Italian Renaissance. From 1913 to 1914 I was immediately connected with the planning and designing of "The Yacht Club," of New York City, having had charge of that work in the office of James Gamble Rogers of New York City. In July, 1915, I formed a partnership with Clay Meredith McClure of New York City to practise architecture under the firm name of McClure and Harper, with office in the Church Building 10th and Market streets, Wilmington, Del. Member: City Club, Wilmington, Del.

Occupation	Banker.
Address	(home) 155 Adams St., Milton, Mass. (business) 19 Congress St., Boston, Mass.

From 1901 to 1906 I was connected with Harper and Brothers, publishers, New York City, and in 1905 went to Denver, Colorado, for this firm. I remained in Denver two years and finally decided to pull out of the publishing business altogether. After this I settled in Boston and was associated for three years (1906 to 1909) with Lee, Higginson and Company, bankers. I moved out to Milton, renewing my acquaintance with a number of classmates who were also living in that locality. In 1909, I left Lee, Higginson and Company to go with Bertron, Griscom and Company, bankers, of New York, and soon was made manager of their New England office with headquarters in Boston. In 1913 I again changed and became manager of the New England office of E. W. Clark and Company, bankers, of Philadelphia, with whom I am now associated. Since college I have acquired a wife, two youngsters, twenty-five hens, a one-lunged automobile, and thirty-five pounds of avoirdupois.

In the summer of 1901. I went abroad for nine months, and upon my return entered the employ of the Boston Herald Company, where I remained until the spring of 1907. During that time I worked in the exchange room, in the electrical department, in the machinists' department, on circulation and upon advertising. Upon my father's death, in 1907, the care of his estate fell upon me, and I was obliged to give up active newspaper work. At that time I became a director in the Boston Herald Company, retaining that office until July, 1910. In 1907 I also entered the directorate of Warren Brothers Company, and held that office until about the end of 1913. January, 1912, I became assistant publicity manager of Warren Brothers Company, and am at present employed in that capacity. Member: Neighborhood Club, West Newton, Mass., Newton Boat Club.

I do not know of anything in connection either with my life or my work that would make necessary or justify any addition to the sketch submitted five years ago. At any rate I am five years older. I am holding the same position that I held five years ago although I did have an offer to take charge of similar work in Kansas City, Mo., at a slightly higher salary; but I thought it wiser to bear present ills than to fly to others unknown. I have added nothing to my published works, unless I anticipate an essay submitted in a prize contest some months since; but as all the articles were said to be so superior, mine included, the judges have not as yet awarded me the prize. In connection with my work, however, I have published a series of syllabi on the courses offered by my school. As a further diversion, a few years ago, I revived an old dream of invention and wealth: had one patent issued; another allowed; made sundry other models more or less patentable; spent more than enough money to carry me to the quindecennial and back with a surplus, and am still calmly waiting for the realization. I am a member of the Board of Provident Hospital, Baltimore, and president of the Maryland Colored Health Association. I have patented a music cabinet for playerpiano rolls, April, 1915. Since graduation, I have been engaged in teaching. In September, 1906, I became head of the department of foreign languages; vice-principal, February, 1909; principal, November, 1909. I have written an article: Vocational Education (Education, November, 1910). Member: American Academy of Political and Social Science, Philadelphia, Pa.

WALTER STERN HEILBORN

Born	Boston, Mass., Sept. 11, 1879.
Parents	Jacob Heilborn, Mathilda Stern.
School	English High School, Boston, Mass.
Years in College	1897-1900.

Degrees	A.B., 1901; LL.B., 1903.
Married	Aimée Paula Gallert, Boston, Mass., Jan. 1, 1908.
Occupation	Lawyer.
Address	(home) 603 West 138th St., New York, N. Y. (business) 31 Liberty St., New York, N. Y.

My story is uneventful. After practising law in Boston, two years in the office of Brandeis, Dunbar and Nutter, and six months for myself, I moved to New York where I was soon admitted to the firm of Gallert and Heilborn, of which I am still a member. We have represented the Department of Remedial Loans of the Russell Sage Foundation in its campaign against the loan shark and the result has been the practical elimination of the loan shark from his practices in New York County. In connection with that work I was appointed a deputy assistant district attorney in New York County, which position I held until December 31, 1915, from January 12, 1914. I was in charge of the usury bureau. In connection with that work I assisted in drafting penal and remedial legislation. With the success of Tammany, I no longer occupy official position and devote all my time to my private practice. Member: Phi Beta Kappa, New York City.

Address	1429 No. 21st St., Philadelphia, Pa.

First I served a short apprenticeship in my father's retail store in Washington; after which in my inexperience I became secretary-treasurer and manager of a large dairy products, oleomargarine, and ice concern, with ambitious projects for sanitary products but not enough capital or teamwork to pull it through. My interest in machinery was developed while there in the erection of refrigerating plants and other complex apparatus. Then I was for a short time only in the wholesale and manufacturing embroidery business in New York; but my fondness for machinery and independence led me to purchase a small factory (in Philadelphia), making in small quantities a very poor product. The idea of starting small but absolutely independently and with a chance to develop along mechanical lines appealed to me strongly and for the past nine years I have had my hands full. When I began I employed four men. Now I have twenty, and at times thirty. Since a year or two my friends are beginning to realize that the enterprise has justified itself; but from the start the work itself has been sufficient justification to me. I have been in Europe four times, twice in connection with my present business. I have a number of patents on appliances which I make and have some pending now on a machine for the rapid production of military rifle stocks and other irregular shapes. I trust that the censor will do his duty with the above material, as I regret that my post-college life has till now little in it likely to interest my classmates. Member: City Club of Philadelphia, Franklin Institute of the State of Pennsylvania.

After graduation, I spent one year in the Graduate School and the following year was instructor in mining in Harvard University. In the summer of 1903 I went to the silver-gold mining camp of Tonopah, Nevada, where I got a job as a miner, and left, when engineer of two companies the following year, to take a job as superintendent of some gold property in South Carolina for Fred and Gus Eustis of our class. Later I was assistant superintendent at a mine in which they are interested in Canada. In 1906 I went back to Tonopah, Nevada, as chief engineer and geologist for three of the mines, and a few months later was made superintendent for two of the properties. Early in 1908 I went with the Goldfield Consolidated Mines Company, in Goldfield, Nevada, and was general superintendent in 1909-1910. Since 1911 I have been engaged in consulting work with my office in New York City, and have made frequent trips to various parts of the United States, Canada, Mexico, Central America and Cuba in connection with mining, part of the time being associated with the Mines Management Company, with the title of "Consulting Engineer" and part in independent practice. At present I am engaged in consulting work in connection with copper mining in Arizona and Cuba, iron mining in New Jersey, and with an exploration syndicate which is investigating mining properties in various places. Member: American Institute of Mining Engineers, Harvard Club of Boston, Harvard Club of New York.

In July, 1901, after a hard struggle not to be turned down on account of lack of practical experience I was appointed to take charge of the development of a copper mine at Terrazas, Chihuahua, by Mr. H. L. Hollis, of Chicago. In the summer of 1902 I was transferred to the Cubo Mining and Milling Company, of Guanajuato, by Mr. Hollis, and there I have done the major part of my mining work. I began in Guanajuato as engineer and occupied positions as mine superintendent, mill superintendent, and general superintendent. In 1904 I returned to Somerville to be married to Luella Parker Winship, whom I had met during my last year at college. I returned with her to Guanajuato, and our first son was born at the Cubo Mine in December of 1904. In the summer of 1905 I resigned my position in Guanajuato, and returned to Somerville. Then followed a period of migrations including Sonora, Mexico, Costa Rica, California, Nevada, and finally, in January, 1910, I returned to Guanajuato as general superintendent of the Cubo Mining and Milling Company. There I have remained ever since, excepting those times when for political reasons the Americans had to leave the country. My wife and children have been sent to the United States and have come back so many times that their journeys can be compared to a shuttle. Yes, in 1914 after the taking of Vera Cruz by the United States naval forces we were among the "refugees" and went from Guanajuato to Vera Cruz during the midst of the excitement. That is a story in itself, but suffice it to say that we were scared, thoroughly and completely, and it made an impression on my elder boy that he will never overcome. I returned to Guanajuato only a week ago after seven months in the States waiting for the situation in Mexico to clear, and now I am back here, and the same old questions are coming up every day. We are attempting to put in operation a splendid 40-stamp mill and cyanide plant that has been shut down for two years. The prospect does not look bright. I am wondering whether I should not have taken out more insurance before coming down. Member: American Institute of Mining Engineers, New York.

After graduation I attended the Harvard Law School for three years, receiving the degree of LL.B. in 1904. While in the Law School I was a member of the Kent Law Club. In July, 1904, I was admitted to the Suffolk bar of Massachusetts and later to practise in the United States Circuit and District Courts. I became associated with the law firm of Foster and Turner (Reginald Foster, Yale, '84, and William D. Turner, Harvard, '84), at 87 Milk Street, Boston. In 1906, I became associated with the law firm of Hayes, Williams and Baker, at 16 State Street, Boston, and in 1908 was made a partner, the firm becoming Hayes, Williams, Baker and Hersey, the other members being William Allen Hayes, Harvard, '84; Henry M. Williams, Harvard, '85; Judge Harvey H. Baker, Harvard, '91. I continued a very active practice with this firm until 1915. In that year I became connected with The Texas Company, 17 Battery Place, New York City. I have taken an active part in church work and politics; have been a member of the corporation of the Hingham Institution for Savings; member of the Hingham school committee; Hingham Republican town committee; executor and administrator in numerous cases; trustee of various real estate trusts and estates; and director in several corporations; member of parish committee First Unitarian Church, Hingham; lecturer of the Hingham Grange; chaplain of the Royal Arcanum; public administrator for Plymouth County; justice of the peace; notary public; title examiner for the Land Court of Massachusetts. For the last fifteen years my time has been largely spent in observing the follies and foibles of this old world of ours. At first, obeying the common human impulse, I made a few attempts in the direction of human ambition, known to the elect, as getting on; then, perceiving the utter vanity of all things human, I desisted and am now following the role of a detached philosopher. My pursuit of things now is, indeed, of the highest inasmuch as it consists in the highly laudable ambition of scaling mountain peaks. That is the be-all and end-all of existence for me, at present; but, should the turn of the wheel of fate revolve but a fraction differently, I should have a different story to tell. Since I was graduated from the Harvard Law School in 1903, I have been engaged in the general practice of law in New York City. This simple statement of my activities comprises thirteen years of the strenuous life which has carried me all over our own country and to many places abroad. It is often true of the general practice of law what General Sherman said of war. That is what prevents it from becoming monotonous. You never can tell where your case may blow up. Trench warfare has nothing on those sappers and miners of the law, who undermine your legal defences or attack your position with burning liquid fire of hot-air oratory. There is still a lot of that. It is both offensive and defensive—chiefly the former. In many a legal conflict I have encountered fellow sons of Harvard, and a truce has invariably been declared, while we talked over "the good old days" and learned with pride of the achievements of some classmate which brings home the truth of the old saying, "That peace hath her victories as well as war." Up to January 1, 1915, all my spare time was occupied in doing research work with Dr. George W. Crile along the lines of hemorrhage and transfusion, the effects of many kinds of stimuli on the brain cells, development of material tending to show the presence in the body of a so-called "kinetic" group of organs (i.e. those most immediately concerned with the transformation of latent into kinetic energy), and, most particularly, the application of all these data to securing as nearly a shockless surgical technic as possible. The studies of brain-cell changes and of the kinetic organs, lasting over several years, are shortly to be published by Dr. Crile with Dr. J. B. Austin and myself as collaborators. My other work along medical lines has been that of the general practitioner. On May 22, 1915, at Atlantic City, the most thrilling event of my life occurred in the form of a trip in an aeroplane two thousand feet above the surface of the land and sea at a speed of from thirty to ninety miles an hour, according as we went with or against the thirty-mile wind. In these days such an event is of so common happening that it would hardly be worth recording if it were not for the personal reaction produced. As long as I live I shall recall the olive-green salt marshes spread with the silver tracery of large and small water channels, the toy-like boats, the moving dots on the land that I knew must be people, and above all, the glorious rush which the aeroplane made as we volplaned down at a speed of about one hundred and ten miles an hour from the two thousand foot level,—a rush which ended safely on the surface of the water. A second flight added to the wonder of the first one, but first experiences come only once. I defy any human being to experience for the first time what men have dreamed of doing for as long as they have matched birds in flight, and be blasé about it! I have been teaching philosophy in various places, to wit: Andover Theological Seminary, 1904 to 1906; University of California, 1906 to 1908; Yale University, 1908 to 1914;

Princeton University, 1913 to 1914; Harvard, 1914 to date. This may sound a bit monotonous; but teaching philosophy is always an adventurous, and sometimes highly dangerous, occupation. Beside this, circumnavigating the country, on the inside, has its own advantages. Everyone should do it. It is especially interesting to a Harvard man to learn by inside experience the merits, etc., of some of our honorable rivals. I have written a book: The Meaning of God in Human Experience (1912), and a number of articles mainly interesting to technical students. Some of them are put together in Widener Library under the head, Papers on College Education, Papers on Logic, etc. Member: Harvard Club of Boston, American Philosophical Association.

Occupation	Mechanical Engineer.
Address	(home) 1800 Tioga St., Philadelphia, Pa. (business) Fletcher Works, Glenwood Ave. and 2d St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Since graduation I have worked hard to do justice to my profession, starting at the bottom as a machinist in the Goodyear shops of the United Shoe Machinery, advancing to the draughting and designing departments of the McKay shops of the same company. In the years 1903 to 1905 I was designer and assistant chief draughtsman for the Kidder Press Company, Dover, N. H., manufacturers of printing presses, paper handling machinery and special machinery. In 1905 and 1906 I was mechanical engineer and chief draughtsman for the George P. Clark Company, of Windsor Locks, Conn. I returned in 1906 to the Kidder Press Company, where as occasion required I served in the capacity of designing engineer and chief draughtsman. In 1915 I took up the duties of chief draughtsman for The Fletcher Works, Schaum and Uhlinger, of Philadelphia, Pa., with which concern I am at present writing. Member: Moses Paul Lodge, No. 96, A. JOHN ROBB HOLMES, JR.

Born	Zanesville, Ohio, July 5, 1877.
Parents	John Robb Holmes, Julia Marsh Potwin.
School	Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass.
Years in College	1897-1898.
Occupation	Unoccupied.
Address	88 So. Los Robles Ave., Pasadena, Cal.

After leaving Harvard as a result of illness I entered the University of California mining department. My work here enabled me to enter the junior year in the University of Alabama and I made this second change for the reason that I expected to practise my profession of mining engineer in the South. Once more, however, I was compelled to leave college as a result of illness. The following ten years were spent in a battle with ill health. During this time and in recent years I have devoted much time to the study of philosophy. I have made some original investigations along this line and I am now engaged in writing up the one discovery which appears to me to be of some permanent value. The title of my book is "The Creative Absolute", and its purpose is to resolve the antinomy which this title appears to contain. I have also made certain investigations of a mechanical nature and have applied for letters patent on a multiple-drum gas floor furnace. I have written: The Government, the Trusts, and the Workingman (Published).

SYDNEY ARCHIBALD HOLYOKE

After graduation from the Law School I entered the law office of Fletcher Ranney, '83, in 1905, and practised law with him until 1913. In 1913 I removed to 11 Pemberton Square, Boston, and since then have been engaged in general practice of law at that address. Member: Harvard Club of Boston, Waban Tennis Club.

Ferdinand Oden Horstmann

Ferdinand Oden Horstmann was born in Philadelphia, October 3, 1877, and died in Washington, D. C., June 29, 1912. He was graduated from St. Mark's School and entered Harvard in the fall of 1901. He only remained in college two years. After leaving college, he went into business in Philadelphia, and lived there from 1904 to 1907. In 1907 he removed to Washington, and did not take an active part in business. He was tremendously interested, however, in golf, and the game both in this country and in England became not only a hobby but a study. He played both in America, and in England and Scotland, where he was a member of the Royal Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews; he was also a member of the Metropolitan, Alibi, and Chevy Chase Clubs, of Washington, D. C., the Racquet and Tennis Club, New York, and the Racquet Club, Philadelphia. He was a splendid player, and at various times he served as chairman of the golf committee and captain of the team of the Chevy Chase Club, Washington, D. C. He died very suddenly from heart disease on June 29, 1912. His nearest surviving relatives were his two sisters, Mrs. Sidney Small, of Toronto, Canada, and Mrs. John Boit, of South Natick, Mass.

I have written papers on Dreams, etc., printed in Journal of Abnormal Psychology, or read before scientific gatherings, Columbia University.

GEORGE MILLER HOSMER

Born	East Somerville, Mass., Aug. 30, 1879.
Parents	Charles Bass Hosmer, Mary Pray Staples.
School	Somerville Latin School, Somerville, Mass.
Years in College	1897-1901.
Degrees	A.B., 1901.
Occupation	Teacher.
Address	(home) 13 Arlington St., Somerville, Mass. (business) Somerville High School, Somerville, Mass.

In September, 1901, I was hired as a substitute teacher in the Somerville Latin School, taking the classes in preparation for Harvard in Latin, algebra and geometry,—classes usually taught by my own revered preparatory teacher, Miss Sarah W. Fox, who had a year's leave of absence for travel in Europe. The growth of the school the next fall permitted my retention; so that I have been able to settle in my native town and teach for fifteen years consecutively in my own high school. I have considered myself fortunate in having classes year after year fitting for Harvard and Radcliffe and the other colleges, in the subjects: Latin, Greek, German, plane and solid geometry and algebra. In 1904 I was promoted to be sub-master, and for ten years had the pleasure of working under Dr. George L. Baxter of the class of 1865. At the combination of the Somerville Latin School and English High School to form one Somerville High School in 1911, on the retirement of Dr. Baxter, I was made head of the German and Greek departments, working together thus with three of our women teachers who were my own former instructors. In the summer of 1913 I travelled in Europe for the second time, visiting principally Holland, Switzerland and Germany, staying for one month at Freiburg in Baden. This trip has proved very helpful in my teaching of German, especially as I made close observations of the scenes in Schiller's "William Tell." I am a member of the Somerville Harvard Club, and have the opportunity of knowing personally the boys for whom we recommend the club's annual scholarship of $100. The time that most men devote perhaps to club-life I have turned rather to the activities of my early church home where I have a class of twenty young women in Sunday School and act as chairman of the church executive committee.

CHESTER HARRIS HOWE

Born	Malden, Mass., July 25, 1881.
Parents	Josiah Robert Howe, Annie Harris.
School	Malden High School, Malden, Mass.
Years in College	1898-1901.
Degrees	A.B., 1901; B.D. (University of Chicago), 1904.
Married	Annie Clara Thompson, St. Anne, Ill., Nov. 28, 1906.

Children	Harris Winchester, Jan. 1, 1909; Ruth Thompson, Jan. 29, 1912.
Occupation	Minister.
Address	39 Franklin St., Framingham, Mass.

After my graduation I spent a year at the Rochester Theological Institution, Rochester, N. Y., and then went to the University of Chicago, where I received my B.D. degree. During my divinity course I had summer pastorates at Danbury, N. H., and Meredith, N. H. I also served as assistant pastor of the Fourth Baptist Church of Chicago, where I was ordained April 17th, 1904. My first regular settlement was at North Billerica, Mass., a small mill town, where most of my parish was made up of English and Scotch woolen workers. After four and a half years of happy work in personal touch with our great industrial problem, I accepted a call to another industrial community, Framingham, Mass., where I am still residing, as pastor of the Park Street Baptist Church. With each year I find an ever widening field of service. When I entered Harvard the ministry had never occurred to me as my life-work. As the result of an experience which Winston Churchill has so vividly described in A Far Country, I came to a conviction that I ought to enter the ministry. If Hugh Paret, Churchill's character, had entered the chapel at that crisis in his career, his whole life would have been different. With grateful heart for guidance into a life-work that brings me daily joy and the assurance that life is worth living when lived in service for mankind in the spirit of Jesus Christ, I send greetings to all the friends of 1901.

Occupation	Teacher; Secretary of the Middlesex School.
Address	(home) Middlesex School, Concord, Mass. (business) Thoreau Museum of Natural History, Concord, Mass.

As since my graduation I have always been a master at the Middlesex School in Concord, Mass., my life has been without exciting incidents. The happenings for the first ten years have all been recorded in the past class reports and need no rehearsing. The most important event of the past five years, if not of my life since graduation, was my sabbatical year, which extended from July, 1911, until September, 1912. In July I went with my wife to Newfoundland to collect lichens, returning in time to sail August 1, for England. We spent the summer in Normandy, going to Paris in September, where I entered the Sorbonne. I spent the winter in completing "in residence" my work for a doctor's degree on lichenological research, published my thesis, and received the degree of Docteur de l'Universite (in Natural Science) in the spring. We lived in the Latin quarter, and while I studied my wife and small daughter enjoyed the wonders of Paris. Outside of my family I saw most of Russell Greeley, who painted, God bless him! an oil canvas of my wife which is as refined in setting and soft in coloring as his early work for the class gave promise. The portrait has been universally admired. I spent many pleasant hours with Professor W. M. Davis, then exchange professor at the Sorbonne, and attended the Yale dinner of the Harvard Club of Paris which had its birth that year. We returned directly to London where I spent six weeks in further botanical study at the British Museum of Natural History. On our voyage home the ship ran out of coal and we proceeded to Halifax under half steam. The other three events that are of interest to me in my quiet country life, that may be worth recording, was first the birth last May of a son, secondly my withdrawal from partnership in the boys' summer camp known as South Pond Cabins, and lastly my appointment to the secretaryship of the Middlesex School. During the last two years, only by the most constant and painstaking care by Dr. George C. Shattuck, my health, which was seriously affected by overwork in Paris, has been restored to its normal frailty. I am therefore enjoying to the utmost my work at Middlesex. As house master of Hallowell House, which bears the name of Colonel Hallowell, whose place on the Board of Trustees his son and our classmate now holds, I feel surrounded with the Harvard spirit and that of Nineteen-hundred and one. Continually in touch with the university through our graduates and my interest in rowing, I fail to mark the passage of time. I look forward to the life of an octogenarian with the confidence of Mark Twain. I have written: Monograph of the Ulmaceae of the United States and Canada, about 350 pages of scientific botanical literature in various botanical magazines. Member: Boston Society of Natural History, Biological Society of Washington, American Ornithologists' Union, Royal Societies Club of London, Harvard Club of Boston.

Children	Henry Francis, 3d, July 31, 1908.
Occupation	Lawyer.
Address	(home) Croton St., Wellesley Hills, Mass. (business) 53 State St., Boston, Mass.

Immediately after graduation I spent three months in Europe. In September, 1902, I entered the Harvard Law School with the class of 1905 and received my degree in June, 1905. In September of that year I entered the office of Hurlburt, Jones and Cabot. For the first two years I went through the usual cub lawyer routine which consisted of carrying the papers and taking notes in court, at the same time endeavoring to learn by observation the way to try cases. In my third year of practice I began trying cases and my work in the law has developed along the lines of a trial counsel, although I am able to mix with the tedium of trials a reasonable amount of general office practice. In January, 1910, I became a member of the firm. My trial work is in the civil side of the court and consists largely of defending various corporations and individuals. Recently I have been called in a good deal by other lawyers to try their cases. My amusement consists in trying to develop a summer place which I have at Lake Winnipesaukee, N. H. Member: Harvard Club of Boston, Railroad Club of Boston, Mangus Club, Wellesley Hills, Mass., The Country Club, Wellesley Hills, Mass.

Children	Helena, Aug. 2, 1911; Janet Braman, May 7, 1915.
Occupation	Electrical Engineer.
Address	(home) 43 Dwight St., Brookline, Mass. (business) Tremont Building, Boston, Mass.

After leaving college, I was connected with the engineering department of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company for several years, the first part of the time with headquarters in Boston, but from September, 1907, until January of last year in New York. At that time I resigned my position with the telephone company, and became associated with a firm of production engineers and accountants in Boston, where I am now located. I made a trip to the Pacific Coast in the spring of 1913 and have spent several summers in camping in various parts of Canada. Otherwise my life has been uneventful. Member: Harvard Club of Boston, Harvard Club of New York.

Address	(home) 9 Woodcrest Ave., White Plains, N. Y. (business) 9 Desbrosses St., New York, N. Y.

I began work with the Golden Gate Manufacturing Company in 1901 and I am now secretary-treasurer. During the past eighteen months much of my time with the company has been devoted to developing two new articles: first, a new type of sheet steel one-piece expansion bolt (Savage expansion bolt), and, second, the Thermor Waterless Hot Bottle—an improvement on the familiar metal hot-water bottle. I am also interested in the Elko Prince Mining Company of Nevada, of which I am secretary-treasurer. In the fall of 1913, I spent about six weeks in England, France and Belgium. Locally in White Plains I am treasurer of All Souls Church, and a trustee of the Roger Ascham School (Scarsdale, N. Y.). I enjoy active outdoor life and my children all love the open country as much as I do. Member: University Club, White Plains, Harvard Club of New York.

Occupation	Dentist.
Address	(home) 57 Rockview St., Jamaica Plain, Mass. (business) 220 Clarendon St., Boston, Mass.

After graduating from college I was employed by the New England Telephone Company for a couple of years, when I decided to take up dentistry. I was graduated from the Harvard Dental School in 1908 and have been in practice ever since here in Boston. Most of my friends ask me: "Why did you take up dentistry? It must be awful" to which I reply—"Not half so disagreeable as a great deal of medical work." Furthermore it is a field open to constant improvement, and with widely different branches, any of which call for a great degree of mechanical skill and good conscientious judgment. The latter far too often being lacking, due in a large measure to lack of time on the operator's part, or the preference of a determined individual. However, I am happy in my work, and, with a wife to whom I can always turn in happiness or in sorrow, what more could I ask? Member: Harvard Club of Boston, Massachusetts Dental Society.

I wish I knew how to make my life interesting to my classmates. But it is a most uneventful life,—that of a college professor, studying and teaching, and trying to pay bills. What I find in the realms of gold cannot always be converted into current coin, acceptable to the butcher, the baker, the candlestick-maker. You know there is a pretty general feeling that a professorship, like virtue, should be its own reward. Having said all of this, I suspect I stand forth as one of the most sordid members of the class of 1901. But this isn't so. I care for wealth only because it enables one to purchase experience for class reports. I could have gotten along without the money, of course, if I had the sense and courage to be a stout vagabond or a sturdy beggar, instead of a valetudinarian teacher. Then I could have furnished what we scholars call "material". Member: Modern Language Association of America.

Address	(home) 14 St. Charles Ave., Atlanta, Ga. (business) 84 Peachtree St., Atlanta, Ga.

After graduation from the Hephzibah High School, Hephzibah, Ga., in 1887, I entered the medical department of the University of Georgia at Augusta, from which I received my degree of doctor of medicine in 1890. I then practised medicine in Keysville, Ga., till 1895, when I entered Harvard as a special student, going the next two years to Dummer Academy, at South Byfield, Mass. In the fall of 1898 I returned to Harvard and remained there till 1901, when I received the degree of A.B. I went directly to Forsyth, Ga., in 1901, where I taught English and history in Monroe College (for girls), now Bessie Tift College, for two years. I was secretary of the faculty and acting president during short absence of the president. I was elected second lieutenant of the Quitman Guards, the local military company at Forsyth. After marrying, in 1903, I took some courses in the Harvard Medical Summer School and returned to Atlanta, Ga., where I have been practising medicine ever since October of that year. I was an assistant in physiology in the Atlanta School of Medicine, and was teacher of physiology in the Southeastern Dental College for two years, and am now instructor in clinical medicine in the Atlanta Medical College (medical department of Emory University). I am a member of the executive committee of the Atlanta Baptist Association, chairman of the executive committee of the Atlanta Baptist Sunday School Association, and a deacon in Jackson Hill Baptist Church. I have given a few lectures to boys and young men on hygiene and to the girls in the night school as well as talks before the parent-teachers organization in this city. I have written a few insignificant papers of a sociological and medical nature. Member: Fulton County Medical Society, Medical Association of Georgia, American Medical Association, Masons, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Khorassans, Modern Order of Praetorians, Atlanta Associated Charities, and was secretary of the Georgia State Sociological Society for five years.

Upon leaving college the shoe manufacturing world demanded me and I penetrated its mysteries from top facing to outersole. Was with the first concern some ten years, during which time I attended my wedding and established the family seat in Hingham. Was called to another shoe house which had noticed my 1901 brand of ability, but in about a year found that the call didn't listen very good to me in that particular spot, so, still hearkening to the siren tones of the shoe trade I followed it to Lynn and moved my family seat, root and branch (two branches by this time), to Nahant, a lovely place in summer, but oh, you winter! "About this time," as the almanacs say, I became acquainted with the possibilities of the metal stamping game. This was in 1912, and, in company with a 1897 man who was a good scout in spite of his inferior "class," bought into the game. Have been sitting in ever since, though behind a little at times, and, as the cards are running pretty well, guess I'll stick in. During my early business career, I found that my physical measurements were eminently adapted to the dimensions of a Pullman berth; so I have devoted my activities to the selling end. Therefore I have travelled up and down and across these United States frequently, not to say often. Last winter it was my good fortune to observe at close range several of our members at their leisure on the world-renowned, to hear them tell it, Pacific Coast. To them I touted the quindecennial, as I felt in duty bound. If they don't come, it will not be because of lack of funds for they are all prosperous. In Los Angeles all the traffic cops touched their hats to another 1901 man and myself as we went down the main street. That's how 1901 is looked upon there. This 1901 man was a "native son," meaning that he had lived there over a year. I am proud of the fact that I have always been a National Leaguer. Never have I seen any reason to flop to the Red Sox, even in those days when an 1899 man, Mel Hunnewell, and myself made up half the attendance at the old Walpole Street grounds. Many weary years did we go rewardless, but, believe me, we had "ours" in 1914 when the Braves copped. The 1899 man was a good sport and of course you know "Hunny." And if Bill James' arm had been right in 1915—oh, well—the Red Sox were fair, very fair. Watch this year, though. In closing I wish to call particular attention to my membership in the National Geographic Society. This is a final indication of success in life; for does it not show that one must have accumulated by thrift and industry the $2.50 necessary for the subscription to the magazine? Member: Harvard Club of Boston, Harvard Club of New York, National Geographic Society.

Upon leaving college, I entered the class of 1904 at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and remained there for three years as a special student in architecture. From 1904 to 1907, I continued work in architecture, both in Boston and New York offices. In 1908 I started in independent practice in Boston, and in February, 1909, I entered into partnership with Henry W. Rowe, of Boston, under the firm name of Rowe and Keyes, architects, with offices at 1123 Broadway, New York, and 161 Devonshire Street, Boston. In August, 1911, I dissolved partnership with Mr. Rowe and since that time I have practised alone in Boston; from 1911 to March, 1914, at 35 Congress Street, and since March, 1914, at 78 Devonshire Street. In 1912 and 1913, I was employed as consulting architect for the directors of the Port of Boston, and during that time I designed the head house for the Commonwealth Pier 5 at South Boston. I was also employed as architect for the Boston Fish Market Corporation from 1911 to the latter part of 1914, and designed and had charge of the execution of a group of five buildings at South Boston for this corporation. I have also been retained as architect for a number of other commercial buildings, and have in addition done considerable residential work, including houses for Bob Sayles, Russell Stearns and Tom Gray, of 1901. At the present writing I am building a house at Marblehead Neck for B. Devereux Barker, of 1901. Member: Boston Society of Architects.

To begin with, I did not want to go to college,—but I do not regret having gone as years go by,—and I did want to go to an art school; but to the end the only thing that meant much to me was bitterly opposed and that may account for much or little. After leaving college, my health—never very good—began to fail and the two businesses I engaged in had no attractions for me and I, in consequence, the less for them. By February, 1904, illness drove me from New York to Cuba for the balance of the winter and, from then till the fall of 1908, I lived at Saugatuck, Conn., and till June, 1912, at Norwalk, Conn. At irregular intervals, and in most unresponsive surroundings, I did manage a bit of painting, but a severe nervous breakdown in 1907 put an end to what very little of value was being accomplished. By February, 1912, things having gone from bad to worse, and being then alone in this world, Dr. G. M. Phelps, '02, took me in hand and to some purpose, and, accompanied by a young M.D. I removed to Old Lyme, Conn. In February of the following year my fourth resident M.D. accompanied me on a trip that included Algiers, Naples, Patras, Trieste, Venice, a long stay with friends at Cannes, Paris, Cowes, London and Liverpool. I returned to Old Lyme in very much better health, got in a fair summer cruising, and April, 1914, found me temporarily settled at New Rochelle, N. Y., once more amid congenial surroundings. Since then I have steadily picked up, got in two good summers racing and am in a fair way to as complete a recovery as can be expected; but I should not spend the winters north. The art work is still in abeyance after a lapse of over eight years, and whether its loose ends will ever be revived is a question that only the future can answer. In 1913, I became interested in the Atlas Advertising Agency, Inc., of New York City, largely composed of Harvard men, of which I am an officer and director, but my actual connection with its activities has of necessity been very slight.

Immediately upon my graduation from college I went to the Philippine Islands to take a position as teacher in the public schools then under the direction of Fred W. Atkinson, '90. On the trip from San Francisco to Manila by government transport, Thomas, I visited Honolulu and on the way home, three years later, I spent several weeks in China, Japan and Canada. Since triennial I have taught three years, written for newspapers and magazines for eight years and now I am engaged in Aeolian Hall, New York, as a Christian Science practitioner which is the result of my healing from nervous breakdown in 1912. In 1913-14 I had the privilege of taking several courses in the Graduate School of Philosophy in Columbia University. In May, 1914, I enjoyed a trip to Europe and was at Le Touquet on the Pas de Calais when the war broke out. I am very happy to be a member of the great living body of Harvard men and I deem it a special honor to be as of the class of 1901. I have written short stories: The Stranger Within the Gates, The Life Cure, The Awakening of Dr. Conroy, The Trial of Professor Strong, Everybody is a Philosopher.

I was admitted to the bar in Pittsburgh, Pa., in September, 1903, and began practice with the firm of Way, Walker and Morris, with whom I remained till November, 1904, when I came to Cleveland. Cleveland had been my home before entering Harvard, and I began in Pittsburgh only because my parents had removed there prior to my graduation. Pittsburgh grew less and less attractive to me as time went on, till its atmosphere, manners, and methods became so irksome and distasteful to me that my health was injuriously affected. I determined to return to congenial Ohio, and was admitted to the bar here in December, 1904. I then formed a partnership with Alfred A. Benesch, Harvard, '00, Law School, '03, with whom I had roomed for two years while in the Law School. This partnership endured for six years, when I became assistant county prosecuting attorney. The "uplift movement" which proved disastrous to most Republicans in the campaign of 1912, left us high and dry, and returning to private practice, I became associated with P. J. Brady, one of the best-loved and most highly esteemed members of the Cuyahoga County bar. This association, which proved very pleasant, was short lived, for Mr. Brady unfortunately died in November, 1913, after an operation. I then formed a partnership with Robert D. Morgan, which still exists under the name Kornhauser and Morgan. During the year 1910, I served occasionally as acting police judge, by appointment. In 1912, I was chosen permanent chairman of the Cuyahoga County Republican convention. The session proved to be the most turbulent in the county's history, the Roosevelt forces attempting to gain control of the convention; but we frustrated their efforts. I was a delegate to the state Republican convention in the same year. I was president of the Western Reserve Club, 1911-1912; member of the Taft committee of one hundred, 1912. I have, for several years, been a member of the board of governors of the Educational League, a national organization for the higher education of orphans, and of the board of the Home Finding and Child Placing Bureau of this city. I served as president of Cleveland Lodge, Independent Order of B'nai B'rith, 1907-1908, and again 1911-1912. I am now president of District No. 2, I. O. B. B., which comprises Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico, and Wyoming. I have written: President Taft, and the Extra-Constitutional Function of the Presidency (North American Review, October, 1910). Member: The Western Reserve Club, Cleveland (director), Harvard Club of Cleveland, Cleveland Lodge, I. O. B. B., Cleveland, Euclid Council, Royal Arcanum, Cleveland, Educational League, Cleveland.

After graduating I studied for four years at the University of Innsbruck, Austria, at the end of which time I was ordained to the Catholic priesthood by the bishop of Brixen, Austria. Returning to this country the same year, I entered the Jesuit novitiate (New York, Maryland Province), at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., where I spent two years. After a year's teaching of Greek and Latin in Buffalo and Baltimore, I took a two years' special course in philosophy at Woodstock, Md., the Jesuit House of Higher Studies. Leaving there in the autumn of 1910, I spent nearly a year in chaplain work in the various institutions on Blackwell's Island, New York Harbor. I look back to this year with all its strenuousness, as a year of remarkable and valuable experience, and despite the sombre surroundings, as a lesson in hopefulness. Being then nervously considerably below par, and unfitted for desk or class-room work, I welcomed, in the fall of 1911, my transfer to the open air life of a missionary in St. Mary's County, Maryland,—the old English Jesuit mission, founded at the time of the first settlement of Maryland. My life here, since 1911, has gradually built me up physically, and given me as well an insight into the life of one of the most interesting and little-known sections of the United States: a country utterly unchanged by immigration, of delightful climate and natural charm, and inhabited exclusively—as to whites—by good, old-fashioned people, who have changed little since they first landed from England, over 270 years ago. A good deal of my work has been also with the colored people of Southern Maryland, who are of a distinctly higher class than are usually found elsewhere; peaceable, docile, and easily developed. Being a Jesuit, and leading, therefore, somewhat of a soldier's life, I do not care to prophesy. Whether I continue to develop my work here, or whether the desk or the school-room call me back, I find that the experience of the past will be an ever more penetrating key to unlocking the opportunity of the future. The sum and substance of a priest's work is always the same: to unite men to each other by uniting them to God. I have written various articles in the Jesuit weekly, America (appearing between 1910 and 1915), the article Hierarchy (translated for the Catholic Encyclopedia). Member: Society of Jesus.

Address	(home) 611 South Pine St., Santa Maria, Cal. (business) First National Bank Building, Santa Maria, Cal.

While at Harvard I specialized in chemistry and allied subjects. After leaving, on account of serious railroad accident, I went to South America and engaged in mining in various branches, including nitrates, gold, silver, emeralds, and prospected for these and for petroleum. This work covered Colombia, Venezuela, and northern Brazil, the headwaters of the Orinoco-Meta system, etc. Was one of a party of three which rediscovered the famous lost emerald mines of Somondoco in Colombia. Presented rare crystallographic emerald forms found there to Museum of Mineralogy, Columbia University, New York City. In 1905 I returned to New York City, worked along metallurgical lines and also attended Columbia University School of Mines, graduating in 1909 with the degree of Engineer of Mines. In 1910 received degree of Master of Arts in geology and completed all residence requirements for degree of Doctor of Philosophy-Geology as a major. Since 1910 have been engaged in petroleum geology and engineering in California. 1910-12, resident geologist in Sunset-Midway oilfield for the Kern Trading and Oil Company (subsidiary of the Southern Pacific Railroad); 1912-15, chief geologist Kern County Oil Protective Association, and in charge of all operations for 1913-1915, with headquarters at Taft, Cal. The association was a coöperative movement on the part of 80 per cent. of the oil producers of California to overcome water infiltration—a conservation measure. It secured the enactment of the present laws on this subject. The writer drew the first draft of the technical part of the present law; 1912-1915, consulting geologist for Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé Railway Company, fuel department, at Los Angeles; 1915, consulting petroleum geologist and engineer for department of justice of the United States; 1915-1916, deputy state oil and gas supervisor for California, under department of petroleum and gas of the California State Mining Bureau. Have been in charge at various times of the work of the bureau in the following oilfields in California: Midway, Sunset, McKittrick, Kern River, Simi Valley, Santa Maria, Lompoc-Purissima. In 1912, in response to a request of the department of mines and metallurgy of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition (San Francisco, 1915,) for suggestions for a petroleum exhibit, the writer suggested a large "peg model" of the famous Sunset-Midway oilfield with the idea of fostering the introduction of this excellent method of representing underground structure and conditions in oilfields. This was approved and the model was designed and its construction supervised by me. This exhibit was awarded the only Grand Prize for California mining exhibits and was described by the jury of awards as "a model of great technical, educational and industrial value." A gold medal was awarded the writer as a collaborator in the exhibit. I have written an article dealing with the exclusion of water from oil-producing strata in the oilfields of California (Western Engineering Magazine, November, 1914). Member: American Institute of Mining Engineers, Engineers' Club of San Francisco, Press Club of San Francisco, Harvard Club of San Francisco, Petroleum Club of Taft, American Mining Congress.

	(business) 70 Kilby St., Boston, Mass.

Since the autumn of 1904 I have been associated with George H. McFadden and Brother, cotton merchants, and have been a partner in the Boston firm during the last few years. I am a member of the executive committee of the New England Cotton Buyers' Association, a director of the Chicopee Manufacturing Company, a member of the Corporation of the Provident Institute for Savings, and belong to the Boston Chamber of Commerce. Aside from business I am actively interested in the Boston Harvard Club, having been a member of the building committee formed in December, 1911, under the leadership of Mr. Robert F. Herrick, and have been a governor of the club since its opening in October, 1913. For several years I have been a director of the Massachusetts Babies' Hospital, and a trustee of Hathaway House School, Milton. Recently I have become interested in the American National Red Cross, first, as a member of the state emergency committee, and lately as vice-chairman of the Boston Red Cross Chapter.

I was admitted to practice at the bar of Lebanon County in December, 1902, and thereafter, for a matter of three years, sat and waited, as is the tradition of the profession. Came a day of high resolve, when I tossed the book into the corner, untangled my limbs and lowered my heels to earth. Results followed,—nothing startling or monumental, but results nevertheless. A brief catalogue of these would include: the organization of a national bank; the rousing of a small town from an age-long lethargy and the transformation of the same into a sprightly model borough; the organization of a foundry company and the invention of what is now a staple article of commerce for manufacture thereby; and considerable political agitation of the hectic progressive variety. My political ambitions have uniformly failed of realization. I am, however, today an attache of the auditor general's department of Pennsylvania, serving in the capacity of law clerk in the corporation bureau. Lacking ubiquity, I have taken in a law partner, the name of the firm being Lehman and Belney. Work presses me from all sides. I am in it up to my neck, but enjoying it thoroughly. Why doesn't one of our English highbrows elucidate a method of writing these vainglorious reminiscences without such shameful repetition of the personal pronoun. Member: Lebanon Club, Lebanon, Pa.

WALTER LEATHERBEE LEIGHTON

School	Roxbury High School, Boston, Mass.
Years in College	1897-1901.
Degrees	A.B., 1901; A. M., 1902; Ph.D. (University of Virginia), 1908.
Married	Helen Prosser Field, Newton Centre, Mass., Nov. 15, 1912.
Occupation	Educator.

On graduating with 1901, I harbored a minimum regard for money, a decent regard for my fellows, and a maximum regard for "number one." Now, in my thirty-ninth year, I cherish a maximum regard for money, a continued decent regard for my fellows, and a minimum regard for the first number. The difficulty of corralling money, a varied career amongst men, and the conscience of Mrs. Leighton have reduced me to this viewpoint. My first job out of college was substitute teacher in the Boston English High School. My first regular position, secured through the Harvard Appointment Office, was instructor in English at Washington University, St. Louis. A climacteric struggle for the doctorate degree occurred in my thirtieth year, while acting as teaching fellow at the University of Virginia in Charlottesville, Virginia. From September, 1908, to June, 1910, I soared on a Parnassus as assistant professor of English literature and composition at Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio. During 1910 to 1911, lured by prospect of big pay, I took a chance at Lehigh University, South Bethlehem, Pa., substituting for a professor away on leave of absence On his prompt return, I found myself afloat. During 1911 to 1912, I managed to crawl under cover as instructor in English at the University of Maine, in Orono, near Bangor. About this time I awoke from celibate visions of world greatness by getting married, and became harnessed near my own and wife's people to work-a-day service as teacher of English in the Cambridge Latin School. This medium position, which proved to be far more pleasant and profitable than I had anticipated, was held for two years. In late September, 1913, the board of superintendents of the Boston school system enabled me to realize for the first time that teachers are occasionally awarded, like clergymen, more than $1400 per annum. So here I am at present, junior master of English in the Boston English High School. I have written: Ibsen's "Peer Gynt" (The Arena, N. Y., January, 1902), Whitman's Note of Democracy (The Arena, N. Y., November, 1902), Henry Thoreau, an Estimate (The Arena, N. Y., November, 1903), French Philosophies and New England Transcendentalism (University of Virginia, June, 1908), A Snapshot of George Meredith (Twentieth Century Magazine, Boston, Mass., March, 1910), Literature for Relief, (Twentieth Century Magazine, Boston, Mass., December, 1910), Hints on Improving Instruction in English Composition, (Education, Boston, June, 1912). Member: New English Teachers' Association, Boston, Harvard Teachers' Association, Cambridge, Harvard Club of Boston, Sons of the Revolution in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Boston, Men's Club, First Congregationalist Church, Newton Centre.

Since the date of the last report (June, 1911), I have continued practising law in Denver, Col. After three and one-half years of to me delightful association with Edward C. Stimson, Esq., I opened an office for myself in the Equitable Building, Denver, March 15, 1913. Since then I have sailed under by own flag. Although the work of a lawyer in general practice ranging from railroad receiverships to drawing wills, from bankruptcies to quieting titles, from estates of decedents to acting as special counsel for two railways in the defence against a host of actions for damages, is interesting and important to the practitioner himself, frequently to his clients, and, at times, even to his adversaries, it affords rather dull material for a class report. To me, however, it has all seemed so much worth while and has proved so engrossing that, during the last five years I have found time for no such incidental pleasures as travelling abroad or getting married. Member: University Club, Denver, Col., Rocky Mountain Harvard Club, (of which I am one of three trustees).

Left college at close of term of 1898 to go into banking business. Have been in it ever since. Had bad luck with houses I worked for as some of their securities went wrong. I finally decided to take nobody else's word on securities, so went into business for myself in 1912, handling nothing but government, state and municipal bonds, working on the principle that it's "better to be safe than sorry." Have had excellent success. I am also something of a farmer, being the proprietor of Wee Laddie Farm at Charlton, Mass., where I have 4200 apple trees and about 200 acres of land. Member: Exchange Club of Boston

Immediately after graduation, I started on a trip to Europe and there joined a congenial group of fellows. A trip of four or five months was planned, but unfortunately my letter of credit would not stand the racket, and the trip was shortened to about eight weeks. Early in October of 1901 I entered the employ of the Walworth Manufacturing Company as foundry clerk and spent a couple of hard years learning the manufacturing end of the business. Later I was transferred to the retail sales department. After an experience of about three years in this service, the wholesale sales department, and more particularly that division dealing with high-pressure power-plant valves and piping, claimed my attention. This work I found to be very interesting and it took up much of my time. In 1908 I was elected a director of the company and in 1913 vice-president. I have given much thought and time to the study of general cost and accounting practice, selling and advertising schemes and cooperative competition, which is to me a very interesting subject. I am director of the Malleable Iron Fittings Company of Branford, Conn. having been elected in 1910. My travels have not been extensive, consisting mostly in business trips to New York and Chicago. However, in 1909 I made a short trip abroad and in 1913 enjoyed a couple of weeks in Bermuda. Member: The Country Club of Brookline, Cohasset Golf Club, Engineers Club of Boston, Harvard Club of Boston, Harvard Club of New York, Exchange Club of Boston.

There is not much for me to say. I have been engaged for the most part in general law practice, with a leaning toward admiralty. Some years ago I became interested financially in the Shawmut Steamship Company, owning and operating ocean freighters, and at the present time most of my time is occupied in the affairs of this company. My travels have taken me to Europe, the Argentine Republic, Uruguay, Brazil, Porto Rico, Cuba, Mexico, all since graduation. I have been fortunate in having good health, and have been up to the average in business prosperity Member: Harvard Club, Union Boat Club, Union Club, St. Botolph Club, Somerset Club, all of Boston.

Occupation	Teacher.
Address	(home) 50 Concord Ave., Cambridge, Mass. (business) The Country Day School, Newton, Mass.

Since graduation I have taught in three schools: the Hill School, 1901-1906, the Lake Placid School, as Associate Principal, 1906-1909, and the Country Day School for Boys of Boston, 1909 to date. My chief subjects are English, Latin and Greek, together with general supervision of physical exercise. My main outside interests are singing and rowing. In October, 1914, I won the Junior Single Sculls in the N. E. A. R. A. Regatta and in the spring of 1915 rowed on the 2d Union B. C. eight. I sing in the choir of St. Paul's Cathedral, Boston, and in the Harvard Alumni Chorus. My summers are spent at South Orleans on Cape Cod. Member: Union Boat Club, Boston, Mass., Harvard Alumni Chorus, Boston, Mass.

I spent a year abroad from July, 1901, to the fall of 1902, travelling as far as St. Petersburg, now Petrograd, in company with my sister. I was in the Law School from the fall of 1902 to June, 1905. I travelled West with my mother, following graduation from the Law School, going up to Alaska and returning East via Banff, Canada. I have been in New York since admission to the bar in 1906,—struggling to pay my bills, as an attorney with a strong leaning toward business matters and real estate. I am a director of the Grunert Realty Corporation, Inc.; also a trustee of the Maine Wesleyan Board of Education. Member: Harvard Club of New York. Association of the Bar, New York City, Portland Lodge of Masons, Portland, Me., Portland Club, Portland, Me.

In the summer of 1901, I entered the educational department of the Philippine Islands. I was stationed at the town of Malinao, Province of Capiz, Panay Island. During the spring months of 1902, I spent a very enjoyable vacation in Japan and China. Before reaching my station again it was necessary for me to put in a couple of months cruising through the Philippine Archipelago, owing to delays and detours because of the prevalence of Asiatic cholera in the islands. In October, 1902, I was transferred from Malinao to Calivo in the same province and island as Malinao. The approach of cholera to our island caused a complete suspension of school-work, one third of the inhabitants succumbing to the dread disease. In January, 1903, I left Manila for Boston, but did not arrive home until April, 1904, spending the year and a half in travelling the greater part of Asia and Europe. Upon returning to Boston I commenced my immediate studies for the priesthood. With this object in view, I spent the scholastic year 1904-1905 at the Catholic University of America, at Washington, D. C., in the study of philosophy. While travelling in Europe in the summer of 1905, I decided to make my course of theology there, and entered the University of Innsbruck, Tyrol, Austria, that fall. John La Farge of our class had finished his course therein the previous spring. After three years, I was ordained in July, 1908. I remained the following year to complete my studies. After returning to Boston in 1909, I was stationed at St. Joseph's Church, Medford, Mass., for three years. Since 1912 I have been assistant at St. Edward's Parish, Montello, Mass. We have just completed here a beautiful English gothic church with a seating capacity of 2,200. It is one of the chief architectural ornaments of Brockton. At all times it would be a great delight to me to have 1901 men stop over to inspect this attractive edifice and likewise to commemorate "auld lang syne".

Occupation	Superintendent Lead Departments, Harrison Brothers and Company, Inc.
Address	(home) 5032 Spruce St., Philadelphia, Pa. (business) 35th St. and Gray's Ferry, Philadelphia, Pa.

My first employment was with F. D. Moulton and Company, New York. I began the study of engineering at Armour Institute, Chicago, and later studied at Stevens Institute, Hoboken, and, having acquired the necessary foundation for manufacturing work, took a position with the United Lead Company, and was soon placed in charge of their works at Buffalo. I came from there to Philadelphia, to the chemical manufacturing works of Harrison Brothers and Company, Inc., as superintendent of lead departments.

Address	(home) Heath St., Brookline, Mass. (business) Longwood Ave., Boston, Mass.

After a short trip through Europe I went into business as a clerk in Boston for five years. I had another vacation of travel for a few months and then tried the real estate business for two years more. From this I went into the Harvard Medical School from which I was graduated in 1912, having been married in the meantime. This last performance, I may add, has been my one great success. As biological chemistry was to me the most interesting branch of the physician's work, I have stuck to that, working chiefly at the laboratories of the Harvard Medical School and the surrounding hospitals. At present I am doing research work at the Huntington Cancer Hospital, which keeps me out of mischief, at least during working hours. Though I was in college with the class only one academic year and a month or two of another, the fact that the class has kept me on the list has always given me much pleasure. I was for a time on the editorial staff of the Springfield (Mass.) Republican, then went back to Harvard to the Law School, from which I was graduated in 1905. I was occupied in legal and financial work in Boston and in Toronto, Canada, till the fall of 1908, when I came to New York, and after engaging in financial work with one of the bond houses for several years I began practising law. As an interest outside of my profession I have been connected with the work for business education, and hold an appointment as visiting professor of finance at the Amos Tuck School of Administration and Finance at Dartmouth College. I am now practising as a member of the firm of Lyon and Lilly. I have written: Capitalization—a book on corporation finance—(Houghton Mifflin Company, Boston, Mass.); Principles of Taxation, (Houghton Mifflin Company, Boston),—originally a report as counsel of committees of the Investment Bankers Association; Joint Account Forms and Some Considerations of the Law of Joint Accounts (published by the Investment Bankers Association); Constitutional Limitations on Classification for Taxation (Published by the Investment Bankers Association). Occupation	Lawyer.
Address	(home) 196 Whipple St., Fall River, Mass. (business) 125 Granite Block, Fall River, Mass.

I was graduated from the Harvard Law School in 1903. I began the practice of law in the office of John W. Cummings, of Fall River, September, 1913, and remained there till October, 1906, when I began practice for myself and have followed law up to date. I received a commission in the Massachusetts Naval Militia in December, 1905, and qualified to navigate naval militia ships. I believe the stand Secretary Garrison took against the militia in formulating a plan for the national defence a proper one. I served one term of two years in the city council of Fall River and served on a committee which drew up a new charter (commission form) which has not been submitted to the voters. I have followed the general practice of law in Fall River and Bristol County, and all Harvard-Yale football games since 1897. I assisted Irving Brokaw in the preparation of his book on The Art of Skating (American Sports Publishing Company, 1913).

After graduating from Harvard with an engineering degree in 1901 I went directly with Stone and Webster and gained some experience in every department of the Boston office work. In 1902 I went to Houghton, Mich., as electrical engineer, subsequently becoming superintendent of Houghton County Electric Light Company about 1903. In 1905 I was made manager of Houghton County Traction Company and Houghton County Electric Light Company, both Stone and Webster properties. In this position I served for several years until 1909 when I was transferred to Minneapolis as assistant to Mr. A. W. Leonard, at that time vice-president and manager of the Minneapolis General Electric Company. During some of the trying times of this company and until 1912 when Stone and Webster sold the company, then very successful, I held the position of assistant general manager. In June, 1912, I returned to the Boston office of Stone and Webster and took up expert work for the firm in connection with the examination, analysis, and organization of new properties and for other interests, bankers, etc. In November, 1913, I went to Seattle as assistant to vice-president of Puget Sound Traction, Light and Power Company, which position I held until Mr. Leonard's election to the office of president, when I was appointed manager of the company, and in December, 1914, was made vice-president in charge of all operations on Puget Sound. Member: Rainier Club, Seattle, Wash., Seattle Golf Club, Seattle Tennis Club, Earlington Country Club of Seattle, Harvard Club of Seattle, American Institute of Electric Engineers of New York.

PETER ARTHUR McINTYRE

Born	Milton, Mass., Aug. 24, 1880.

Degrees	A.B., 1901 (1902).
Occupation	General Contractor.
Address	(home) 168 River St., Mattapan, Mass. (business) New Lexington, Ohio.

In the autumn of 1901 I entered the employ of Abram French and Company (now dissolved), Summer Street, Boston. I left about February 20, 1902, and entrained for West Milton, Ohio, where I entered the employ of the D. C. and P. Traction Company, a 35-mile trolley line then under construction. I started as track inspector, went through various positions, foreman, etc., to grade of paymaster until the road was finished and put in operation. I left there about October 1, 1902, in company with one A. S. Swank (my present partner) on a general "hoboing" trip. I wound up alone and broke in Louisville, Ky. I finally found temporary relief as "cub" clerk on a river boat running to Evansville, Ind., at wages, nil. I took typhoid fever, sent home for money and crawled home to die about January 15, 1903. I got well and worked for Stone and Webster Company on construction of trolley from Mattapan to Blue Hills, Mass. On completion of the same, I became general factotum with T. H. Gill Contracting Company, on boulevard construction between Milton and Readville, then with Frank B. Gilbreth Company, Boston, and next with Coleman Brothers, on construction of Nahant boulevard. It was at this time that it slowly dawned on me that, if the last three-named firms, however well-reputed, could get by on their intelligence, there was some chance for me. So, with assets of $7.00, I landed a $25,00 contract for sewer and launched forth as a captain of industry, about August, 1905. I had some success and kept expanding till 1907, when I went "broke" first time in New Hampshire, in the panic of that year. I got into New Hampshire and drifted into construction of state roads. I stayed in the state four years in which time I dabbled in automobile business on the side, owning and operating a garage at Suncook. The boom in New Hampshire went off with the advent of the bull-moose governor (Bass). I sold the garage, went into New York state, and formed a partnership with old friend Swank. We enlarged, went after business and got it. The New York grafters also went after us and "got" us to the tune of $28,000. We stayed four years in New York state and are now in Ohio for our third year. We are about on our feet again in good shape. I have a six-mile road on here at New Lexington, with a brick laid on concrete base. The road goes through forest and swamp, and is inaccessible to team-haul. I have built a standard-gauge railroad and own and operate a 50-ton locomotive, which takes railroad cars out on work. It is the first time on record that a standard-gauge road has been attempted for temporary purposes, and I have been written up in all the construction magazines in the country. I am located in the heart of the coal, gas, and oil district, and am dabbling a bit in oil wells. If any of you boys are itching for a good, fast, sporting, make-or-lose-a-fortune-in-30-days' gamble, let me know and I will connect you with reliable people and information here. Member: B. P. O. Elks, No. 364, Hornell, N. Y., Free Masons, Blue Lodge, of Canton, Mass., Chapter, Council, of Hornell, N. Y., Commandery, of New Lexington, Ohio, Grotto, of Zanesville, Ohio.

Albert Heminway Michelson

Albert Heminway Michelson, Worcester Academy '97, American Consul at Cologne, died at his post and in the line of duty on the 9th day of June, 1915. He had been designated by Ambassador Gerard, on behalf of the English government, to inspect German prisons where Englishmen were confined, and had just finished his arduous and exhausting round of visits and completed his report when he was stricken with pneumonia and died within four days. He was the son of Albert A. Michelson, the eminent physicist, and Margaret Heminway Michelson, and was born at Annapolis, Md., in 1877. His father at that time was a young ensign in the navy, acting as assistant in the physical laboratory. He prepared for college at the Worcester Academy, entered Harvard with the class of 1901, and was graduated in due course. During his junior year, he became interested in the consular and diplomatic service as a possible career. At that time, the changes in the methods of consular appointment, first advocated by President Cleveland, had begun to free the service from its political aspects, and Michelson was one of a number of youths of promise to whom the service of their government in foreign lands seemed a useful and attractive career. At the beginning of his senior year, he was appointed United States consular agent at Charleroi, Belgium, with leave of absence until graduation. Charleroi is a manufacturing city, the centre of the glass industry, gloomy as a place of residence, but the headquarters of European socialism. Michelson's keen intellectual enthusiasms and his very human sympathies soon brought him into contact with that small group of brilliant men who at that time directed the socialistic propaganda in Belgium, and in fact in all Europe. He became to an unusual degree the friend and confidant of these men. This relationship influenced considerably his attitude toward life, and, until his death, he was ever interested in reform movements. For six years he remained in Charleroi, for advancement in the consular service at that time was slow. In 1907 he received his promotion and appointment as full consul at Turin, Italy. Here he found life peculiarly congenial. The consular office was a busy one, and the opportunities for encouraging American trade abundant. In a remarkably short time he mastered the language and became a much respected and well-known figure in the life of the city. In 1911 he was appointed with the Hon. Francis B. Loomis, American commissioner to the International Exposition at Turin. In his report to the state department, Mr. Loomis, who was commissioner general, refers to Michelson as "one of the experienced practical experts on foreign trade in the government service and one of our most efficient and accomplished consuls". His work in connection with the Exposition was so efficient, that he was, in the following year, appointed by the president sole American delegate to the International Conference on Expositions, held at the invitation of the German government, at Berlin. He was next appointed consul at Hanover, Germany, but this appointment was understood to be temporary and, just before the close of his administration, President Taft awarded to Michelson the much-desired appointment at Milan. The Democratic senate refused to confirm this appointment with many others made by President Taft and, under the direction of Mr. Bryan, the post went to another. During the early months of the war, he was at Hanover and early in 1915 received his promotion to the important post at Cologne. Sir Edward Grey has sent to Albert's family copies of his prison reports. They have been published by the English government and form part of "White Book No. 11". As his executor, I have before me many of his official reports to the department of state and the answers thereto. Commendation and praise was the repeated attitude of the department of state. There is possibly one amusing exception. While at Charleroi, Albert undoubtedly suffered at times from a rather persistent homesickness. One day there burst upon the smoke and gloom of that dingy city Buffalo Bill's Wild West show in all its glory. Such a breath from home must have been a great refresher to Albert. At any rate, it seems that the manager of the show induced him to review the usual preliminary procession in a more or less public and official manner. I am inclined to think that the department in a tactful way, appreciating the significance of this boyish escapade, intimated that it was not the duty of consuls officially to review passing shows, American or otherwise, from the balcony of the consulate. Albert would never admit to me the receipt of any such reminder, always maintaining that he was simply doing his duty in fostering American trade. Michelson was trusted and respected by men of affairs in the cities where he represented our government. Capable of strong and lasting friendships and chivalrous toward women, his personality was graced by discriminating sentiment and an ever-persistent idealism.

James Rumrill Miller

James Rumrill Miller was born in New York City, March 13, 1880. His parents were Charles Philip Miller and Grace Rumrill. Early in life he removed to Springfield, Mass., where he fitted for college at the Springfield High School. He went the full course at Harvard and on graduation received the degree of A.B. cum laude. While in college he was a member of D. K. E., Hasty Pudding Club, Institute of 1770, Owl Club (Phi Delta Psi), Signet and Springfield Club. After graduation from Harvard, he was a clerk for two years in the New York Security and Trust Company. From 1903 to 1907 he was a bond salesman representing (in Western Massachusetts) Messrs. Jackson and Curtis, of Boston. He then became vice-president of the Chapin National Bank of Springfield and in 1912 was elected its president, which office he held until his death. He married Marjorie Helen Coats, Springfield, Mass., Oct. 9, 1907 and had one son, James R. Miller, Jr., born April 10, 1909. In the fall of 1915 he suffered a severe breakdown which he endured with great courage. Two years previously, through a bad fall, he suffered severely from concussion, from which it was thought he never fully recovered. He died at the Butler Hospital in Providence, May 10, 1916. In business Miller was an able banker of considerable promise. He entered the Chapin National Bank young in experience as its active executive and soon earned the confidence of the community by conscientious work and sound judgment in the successful development of the business of the bank. As a man, Miller possessed a strong character, a bright mind and sunny heart. While his death has deprived his wide acquaintance of much they have much to cherish from his true friendship and fine nature.

Nothing much to write. I was more or less busy for a time as an engineer. I am now trying to get a living by a small farm and prospecting in Canada. I am just going into this; so cannot say much. Up to this year, since 1909, I have been an electrical engineer, not so good as the best nor as bad as the worst, but find it better to try to live independently as much as possible and am farming. Work a good deal at engineering until things brighten up a little. I go to Toronto meetings of Harvard Club occasionally. Member: Harvard Club of Toronto, Toronto, Ont.

Address	(home) 924 Thirteenth St., N., Fargo, N. D. (business) Agricultural College, N. D.

The year after graduation I spent at Rochester Theological Seminary, and the two years following at the University of Chicago. I then received an appointment in the department of English and philosophy of the North Dakota Agricultural College, where I have continued since. The year 1906-1907 I spent in study at Oxford and in travel in Great Britain and on the Continent. On my return I was made head of my department. My marriage followed the next year. Since then my college work, my wife and babies, my interests in the life of the city have kept the days reasonably full and not unhappy. Perhaps I ought not to omit mention of an agreeable summer spent at the University of Wisconsin in 1912, and of the Arcadian joys of our summer camps on the Minnesota lakes. I have written the following articles and addresses: Intercollegiate Contests, Student Life at Oxford, The Concentration of Wealth, The High Cost of Living, The Socializing of Family Functions, Materialism as a Religion, On a Gloucester Fishing Boat, On a Cattle Steamer to Europe, The Social Influence of the Bible, A Student's Religion. Member: North Dakota Association of English Teachers (president, 1912-1914), National Council of Teachers of English (director, 1912-1915), Fargo Pan-Hellenic Club (president, 1913-1914), Commons Club of Fargo (organization for the discussion of civic and social problems) (president, 1914-1915), Grand Free Lecture Association (president, 1915).

School	Springfield High School, Springfield, Mass.

Years in College 1898-1901.
Degrees A.B., 1901; A.M., 1902; LL.B., 1904.
Married Amy Angell Collier, New York, N. Y., Oct. 3, 1907.
Occupation Lawyer.
Address (home) 152 East 37th St., New York, N. Y.
(business) 40 Wall St., New York, N. Y.

From 1901 to 1902, I attended the Harvard Graduate School, and taught economics in Harvard College, and attended the Harvard Law School. From 1902 until 1904, I attended the Harvard Law School and taught economics in Harvard College, and during part of this period was an editor of the Harvard Law Review. About this time, I published two books: "The Rise and Progress of the Standard Oil Company" (Harpers, 1903) and "Trusts of Today" (McClure, Phillips and Company, 1904). After graduating from the Harvard Law School in 1904, I entered the law office of Simpson, Thatcher and Bartlett, New York City, and was admitted to practise in New York in November, 1904. From 1906 to 1908, I was legal secretary to Mr. Justice Blanchard of the New York Supreme Court. From 1908 to 1910, I was associated with the law firm of Rollins and Rollins, New York City. Since May, 1910, I have been in independent practice with my own office and organization. Under appointment of the state and federal courts, I have been receiver of a number of concerns, including the Hotel Gotham Company, the Pierrepont Hotel Company, the Hermitage Hotel, and the Fulton Street Railroad Company, all of New York City, and have acted as special master and referee in several heavy litigations and as special commissioner to determine awards for substantial amounts of improved property in lower Manhattan taken by condemnation in the construction of the subway extension and the harbor improvement. Though a general practitioner, I have been devoting an increasing proportion of my working time, during the past few years, to counsel work in matters relating to state and federal anti-trust laws, advising in these matters a variety of business interests, and dealing in this connection with officials of the Department of Justice and the Federal Trade Commission and some of the state commissions. On public phases of this subject, I have had occasion to serve on a number of committees, and to address and otherwise coöperate with a number of organizations; among them, the National Civic Federation, the National Foreign Trade Council, the National Association of Manufacturers, the Western Economic Association, the American Academy of Political and Social Science, the Association of the Bar, the American Patent Law Association, various local, state and national trade associations and commercial bodies, and other societies and associations. Whatever addresses and articles I have published, during the past few years, have been by-products of my professional work in this field. They include articles on various problems arising under the Sherman Act, the relation of the anti-trust laws to patents, and the development of the law relating to combinations and unfair competition, and have appeared in The Atlantic Monthly, The North American Review, The Harvard Law Review, The Yale Law Journal, and various other magazines and legal, economic and technical periodicals. Member: Union League Club of New York, Harvard Club of New York, India House of New York, Merchants Association of New York, Association of the Bar of New York, American Bar Association, American Patent Law Association, Washington, D. C.

After graduation in 1901, I returned to Harvard one year for the degree of master of arts. During this year I also assisted in the department of English. In the fall of 1902 I accepted the position of master of English at the Asheville School, Asheville, N. C., where I remained for seven years. I then held a similar position for one year at the Mackenzie

School, Dobbs-Ferry-on-the-Hudson, N. Y., which I resigned in order to re-enter the Graduate School at Harvard for the further study of English. From the fall of 1910 to June, 1913, I was working for my Ph.D.,—during the first two years as a resident student and also an assistant, and during the third year as a travelling fellow on the Rogers Fellowship, residing chiefly at 3 Gordon Street, Gordon Square, London, W. C. Since I received the degree of Ph.D. I have been teaching at Trinity College, Durham, N. C., as assistant professor of English. Next year I am to be promoted to a full professorship. I have written Berkeley's Influence on Popular Literature (the South Atlantic Quarterly for July, 1915, Vol. XIV, No. 3), Did Leibnitz Influence a Pope (accepted, but not yet published, by the Journal of English and Germanic Philology), The First of the Militants in English Literature (accepted by the Nation, and now in proof).

Occupation	Architect.
Address	(home) 3367 Sedgwick Ave., New York, N. Y. (business) 3 West 29th St., New York, N. Y.

I was connected with the Library Bureau from July, 1901, until October, 1910, as vice-president and director of the company and of several allied companies. In December, 1910, I joined in partnership with John Jardine, William W. Kent, '82, and Clinton M. Hill in the practice of architecture in New York City, the firm (formerly D. and J. Jardine and Jardine, Kent and Jardine) being styled Jardine, Kent and Hill, which, upon Mr. Kent's retirement in 1912, became Jardine, Hill and Murdock. Mr. Hill and myself are the active partners, Mr. Hill being the designer and I the business manager. We are working up a sizable practice, having successfully designed several large office building structures in New York City, and buildings of more or less importance in other cities, including the recently completed building for the Harvard Crimson at Cambridge. Member: Harvard Club of New York.

It takes a better story than mine in the Third Report to stand telling twice. So I am not going to begin the account of myself ''since graduation, bringing it down to date'', but instead make the report of 1911 a part of this by reference and continue from that date. I don't like to be reminded of Copey's ''pretty good egg''. So you may take me where you left me in the Harvard Law School with two up and one to play. I holed out the next year,—June, 1912, and have been in the hole ever since. The lure of the wild was in my blood,—that ''old spring fret'' that Kipling tells about; something bit me, anyway, and I came to the Puget Sound country (with the accent on the Pu). I was a stranger, and they did the rest. I'm still here. After investigating the sage brush, wheat fields, and orchards of the Columbia Valley I arrived in Tacoma. just in time to assist in the annual Harvard-Yale meet at the Country Club. I finished the evening by filling an inside straight, taking the pot, and going back to town with the conviction that I liked Tacoma. So I bought a straight-brimmed Stetson hat, and a cut of "star", commenced to say calf with the "a" as in hat and add an "er" to the name of the city, and settled down to acquire a law practice. That was nearly four years ago and I have been acquiring ever since. The details of the story would be neither interesting nor fit to print, for the way we do the acquiring in this country is to bluff the other fellow all the time we aren't bluffing ourselves; in short, it is the land of the bush league and the BS. Everyone is active, at any rate. And they have a way of allowing one to get into things. I am secretary-treasurer of the Harvard Club of Tacoma; secretary-treasurer of the Washington Game Association; president of the Tacoma Bait and Fly Casting Club. I have but one regret, and that is that I shall be unable to be with the other members of the "Only One" this June. But, here's how!

Address	(home) 18 Norman Road, Newton Highlands, Mass. (business) 68 Essex St., Boston, Mass.

After two years in the Harvard Medical School, a long illness gave me a year's vacation, during which I got a taste of business life. I decided that I would continue in business, and have ever since been associated with my father in the firm of John H. Nichols and Son, manufacturers and wholesalers of fancy knit goods. On June 8, 1910, I married Mary Frances Kimball, of Brookline. We lived in Brookline three years and in 1913 removed to Newton Highlands. I can report nothing of special interest to the class, having neither published any books nor held any political offices. Just at present we are content to lead "the simple life" and to watch carefully over the education of our two children. (business) U. S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md.

After being puffed by Professor Hanus for a thousand dollar superintendency in an Iowa town, I condescended to take a one-man job of teaching a country high school at Hubbardston, Mass. The next year I went to the Attleboro (Mass.) High School, and added athletics as a side line. After a year, I succumbed to the temptation of becoming a real ''prof.'' and found myself the head (and tail) of the English department in a small college at Bridgewater, Va. After two years there as this and coach and end on the football team, I tried to capitalize my new athletic reputation, and went to Wenonah (N. J.) Military Academy as instructor in English and athletics. For two years I wore a khaki uniform and grabbed a few dollars from ''The American Boy'' for my articles on ''How to Play Baseball''; then I took a shot at an instructorship in English at the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, and have ever since been sticking to my luck, teaching Hill's Rhetoric, naval history, Shakspere, constitutional law, and general culture to the future Farraguts of the navy. In spite of my purely New England origin and predilections, I have become very much of a Marylander, and seem to have settled down on the banks of the Severn. But I have to take a month off every summer and breathe a few whiffs of Northern air and view the latest changes in the Yard. I have done some graduate work at Johns Hopkins, but even Chaucer loses something when not imbibed from the Kittredgean fount. I am a member of the leading Harvard club, the Annapolis Harvard Club, first alphabetically, of eight members. Since coming to Annapolis I have become interested in Parson Weems and his Cherry Tree story, and have even been able to get Professor A. B. Hart to palm off my theory of its origin on an unsuspecting public. I have contributed several articles on this to the magazines and newspapers, and have also written to some extent on naval education. I have written: Parson Weems (National Magazine, February, 1909), Poe's Balloon Hoax (The Nation, October 27, 1910), The Truth about the Cherry Tree (New York Herald, February 19, 1911), The Development of Naval Education (Education, April, 1915), Leadership and Freedom (United States Naval Institute Proceedings, January-February, 1916,). Member: Annapolis (Md.) Harvard Club.

Address	804 West Green St., Urbana, Ill.

For two years after graduation I studied in the Graduate School, being an Austin scholar in 1902-1903. Then I became instructor in Latin and Greek at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., where I remained for three years, the last two of which I was also registrar of the College of Liberal Arts. I then went to Germany and received the doctor's degree in classical philology at Munich in January, 1908, returning to an instructorship in Northwestern. The next year I was assistant professor of Latin and secretary of the University Club of Evanston. In 1909 I accepted a call to the University of Illinois as associate professor of classics. Was made professor in 1915. At Urbana have been director of the University Club, president of the Choral and Orchestral Society, president of the Harvard Club of Eastern Illinois. Am now secretary of the executive faculty of the Graduate School (1911—), chief editor of the Illinois Studies in Language and Literature. In religion I am a Presbyterian. In domestic politics I am independent. In international politics an American, deploring the subserviency of our present national policies to the interests of Great Britain and her Allies. Aside from my doctor's dissertation, Lokrika (Munich, 1908,), I have published about two-score technical articles in my special field, classical philology, in philological journals and encyclopedias of Germany, England and the United States. Member: Harvard Club of Eastern Illinois, Urbana, Phi Beta Kappa (honorary, while at Evanston, Ill.), Archaeological Society of America, Chicago Club, American Philological Society, Classical Association of the Middle West and South, American Historical Association, Association of American University Professors.

Occupation	Salesman of Cotton Yarns.

Since leaving college, in 1899, I have followed a strictly business career, having been connected in succession with the following concerns: American Woolen Company, Boston, Mass.; Merchants' Dye Works, Dedham, Mass.; William D'Olier and Company, Philadelphia, Pa.; Kilburn Mill, New Bedford, Mass.; and for the past seven years with Catlin and Company, New York City, as New York representative for cotton yarns. I started with no definite branch in mind, but have consistently followed the textile manufacture in both the manufacturing and selling ends. I have, however, found the latter more congenial and lucrative. I believe strongly that a college training is a distinct asset in business after the first years,—in my case, as I see it, in the habit of looking at problems in the broad aspect and the ability as far as I have it to get the various viewpoints in a matter before a decision. My principal pleasures have been the cultivation of as catholic a taste as possible in music and reading. Much of this would have been impossible without the impetus of my college courses, and this I believe to be the great benefit I received from Harvard. Member: Harvard Club of New York.

After learning how to think at the Harvard Law School, I spent three years in the office of Gaston, Snow and Saltonstall. The training received there was invaluable. In the summer of 1907, I went abroad on the now famous "Peace Ship," Oscar II. While in Stockholm, I married Elsa Marie Langborg, a native of Sweden, and we returned upon the same illustrious ship. Shortly afterwards I opened my own office and waited for clients. A few years later I became a member of my present firm, Stimson, Stockton, Livermore and Palmer, and engaged in general practice, with corporation work as a specialty. When first married I lived in West Newton where I learned that "gentleman farming" as a side issue is amusing, but not remunerative. My house there is still for sale. Historic Concord, where I now reside, is ideal for raising children and sleeping. Aside from frequent automobile tours and daily trips on the suburban train, I have done little travelling of recent years. For a number of years I have been a director in, the secretary of, the Infants Hospital. This charity was for years under the direction of the late Dr. Thomas Morgan Rotch, the father of our classmate Tom. Recently a beautiful marble building near the Medical School has been erected as a memorial to Tom for the use of the Infants Hospital. This is of particular interest to the class of 1901, not only because it is a memorial to one of its members, but because many classmates have contributed towards its erection and furnishing. Member: Harvard Club of Boston, Exchange Club of Boston, Boston Bar Association, Massachusetts Club, Boston, Concord Country Club, Concord, Mass.

Until 1906 I worked in Boston, first at brokerage, then on newspapers: the Record and the Advertiser. On the ides of March, 1906, I went to southern California and rusticated for a year on a ranch. Thence I went to Tahiti in the Society Islands (South Seas). After a visit there I landed at San Francisco and went to Nevada. I stayed in and around Tonopah for a year or so doing various and sundry things, including the Tonopah Sun. From Tonopah I returned to California to be night editor of the Morning Press of Santa Barbara. After a year and a half of this I came back to Boston and went into the advertising business, first with the Cowan Agency and then for two years in Worcester as advertising manager for J. Edmund Thompson. For awhile I was advertising manager of Gray and Davis, Boston, and then went to the Willett, Sears people (Boston) as advertising manager of the American Felt Company; later for all their companies ("Comfy" slippers, etc.). In the fall of 1915 I removed to New York to the advertising department of the Butterick Publishing Company. I have written magazine articles in Outing, Recreation, Travel, and Printer's Ink. Married	Martha Edith Winslow, Somerville, Mass., June 20, 1906.
Children	Edward Springer, Dec. 20, 1908 (died Dec. 20, 1908); Dorothy Nash, Oct. 29, 1910; Winslow Lockwood, Jan. 8, 1916.
Occupation	Lawyer.
Address	(home) Main St., Amesbury, Mass. (business) 1 Wilman Block, Amesbury, Mass.

After graduating from college I attended the Harvard Law School, getting my degree in 1904. In April of that year, while still in the Law School I opened an office for the practice of law in Amesbury, Mass., and have practised there ever since. I was admitted to the state courts in March, 1904, and to the United States court in March, 1907. I am also an examiner of titles for the Land Court. In politics I have been prominent as a Democrat in a strongly Republican district. I was a candidate for the house in 1912 and 1913 and for the senate in 1914 and was overwhelmingly defeated each time. In local politics I have been more successful, serving as moderator of the town meeting from 1910 to 1916 and on the school committee from 1911 to date, my present term expiring in 1917. I have been chairman of that body since 1912. I am a member of the local Universalist Church and chairman of its standing committee. In October, 1914, Gov. David I. Walsh appointed me Justice of the Second District Court of Essex. One of the most important things of all is the fact that I have been able to turn to Harvard several promising boys who would probably have gone elsewhere or not at all. I edited the Pettingell Genealogy (published at Boston in 1906). Member: Powow River Lodge, No. 90, I. O. O. F.; Warren Lodge, A. F. and A. M.; Trinity Chapter, R. A. M.; Amesbury Council, R. and S. M.; Merrimack Valley Lodge of Perfection, Haverhill, Mass., and am a past patron of Friendship Chapter, O. E. S. I also belong to the Amesbury Club, the Newburyport Harvard Club, and the Harvard Club of Boston.

Occupation	Journalist.
Address	(home) North Wilbraham, Mass. (business) Springfield Union, Springfield, Mass.

I have been in newspaper work in Springfield, Mass., and Brattleboro, Vt., in various capacities most of the time since leaving college. I am interested in the social service and "uplift" movements of the city, and look on the newspaper as a dominant force in bringing worth while things to pass. I now conduct the department of religious, benevolent and social service news in the Springfield Union. I am executive secretary of the Springfield Federation of Churches and connected with many of the social service organizations of the city. I am interested in outdoor sports and all wild life, chiefly birds. I was for some years vice-president and editor of the Vermont Bird Club and am now vice-president of the Allen Bird Club of Springfield. I live on a farm and like to pitch hay just as well as to write a newspaper story.

Occupation	Teacher.
Address	(home) 11 Lowell St., Cambridge, Mass. (business) Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.

I have taught in the fine arts department, Harvard University, ever since graduation, as Austin teaching fellow 1901 to 1905, as instructor 1905 to 1909, as assistant professor 1909 to the present time. I have also given courses in Radcliffe College and in the Harvard Summer School. Aside from travelling abroad for study in the summers of 1903, 1904, 1907, 1908, 1910, 1911 and 1912, I have given most of my extra time to painting, but have also published a few short articles, read papers, and given several outside lectures on painting. I have devoted special attention to the general theory of painting and of design, and have also been concerned with the development of college courses in the practice of drawing and painting. I have also had time to get a good deal of other fun out of life.

Occupation	Consulting Engineer.
Address	(home) Scarsdale, N. Y. (business) 366 5th Ave., New York, N. Y.

I have been working along as an engineer, the last four years in business for myself as a consulting engineer. That is about all except that since I have been married I wonder why I waited so long. And I get so much pleasure out of my work that I wonder why there are not more engineers. I built the first aniline dye plant to start in this country since the war and it has been successful,—also profitable and interesting. After graduation from college I entered the Harvard Law School. I was graduated from the Law School in 1904 and received the degree, cum laude, and was an editor of the Law Review. After finishing my law course, I became a member of the Massachusetts bar and resided in Boston. I spent one year in the office of Brandeis, Dunbar and Nutter, and seven years in the office of Fish, Richardson, Herrick and Neave. Then I formed a partnership with Bob Goodwin, '01, and Arthur Ballantine, '04, joined us later, and we are practising under the firm name of Goodwin, Procter and Ballantine. In 1910 I married Dorothy Worrall, of New York. We have two children, a girl of four and a boy of one. We have spent our winters in Boston, and our summers in Bass Rocks, Gloucester, where we have a summer place; until this last fall, 1915, when we removed to Milton for the winter, and we like it there tremendously. I served over nine years in the militia, several of them as a commissioned officer. Our law practice is active and varied, but largely corporation work of various kinds, principally reorganizing and financing. Member: Harvard Club of Boston, Exchange Club, St. Botolph Club, Boston Harvard Club, University Club, both of New York.

Address	(home) 820 Kilsyth Road, Elizabeth, N. J. (business) 213 Broad St., Elizabeth, N. J.

After graduation with the class of 1901, I entered the Law School the following year, but left there after two or three months to go into business. My first business venture was in connection with The Buffalo Tin Can Company, independent manufacturers of cans, and I was with this company in the capacity of bookkeeper, paymaster, etc., and finally manager, until they sold out to the American Can Company in 1905. Meantime, on November 19, 1902, I married Marguerite Dietrick, in Boston, Mass., and brought her back with me to Buffalo. When my company was absorbed by the American Can Company, I went to Boston as part of the deal to act as assistant manager of their Boston plant. After serving one year's sentence with them I bought an interest in a land developing company, originally promoted in Boston, known as Walter B. Perkins Company, with large acreage tracts in many cities, but with headquarters in Elizabeth, N. J. Here I remained since 1908, but am now conducting my business, that of general real estate and insurance, etc., under the name of Wilbur G Quincy and Company, and acting as agent for my former company. The only honor that I can claim to have earned to date is possibly the credit for having built up practically all the territory to the north of Elizabeth, known as North Elizabeth. Here I have built some thirty or forty houses, and as a consequence have built up quite some reputation as a specialist in building modern and attractive homes. In order to make this history complete, I might add that my family now consists of Mrs. Quincy and myself, two children and a dog. Member: Knickerbocker Whist Club, New York, Harvard Club of New York.

Years in College	1900-1901.
Degrees	A.B., 1901; A.B. (Augustana), 1897.
Married	Anna Marie Andersen, Dorchester, Mass., Feb. 22, 1907.
Children	Anna Marion, June 4, 1914.
Occupation	Insurance Broker.
Address	(home) 56 Mineral St., Reading, Mass. (business) 18 Post Office Sq., Boston, Mass.

Since graduation my principal effort has been to build up for myself a business that would give me the opportunity to indulge a very lively interest in school children in general, and boys' clubs in particular. It was partly because of this interest that I found my wife, who has had almost the whole supervision over one boys' club, and has shared in the direction of the affairs of another club, which has visited points of interest in the Boston Basin, from the Navy Yard to the Agassiz Museum. Incidental to the work with boys it fell to my lot to become a member of the local playground commission, on which I served as secretary for three years. However, the most important work now before me is the bringing up of our little daughter of two years, before whose advent into our lives, neither my wife nor I knew what real happiness meant. Member: North Reading Grange, Boys' Club, Reading, Mass.

LEWIS BALCOMBE REED

Born	Omaha, Neb., Aug. 30, 1880.
Parents	Lewis Seaver Reed, Lesbia Balcombe Reed.
School	Omaha High School, Omaha, Neb.
Years in College	1897-1901.
Degrees	A.B., 1901.
Occupation	Manufacturer.
Address	(home) Care of University Club, Chicago, Ill. (business) 419 People's Gas Building, Chicago, Ill.

From July 1, 1901, to April, 1905, I was in the employ of the American Radiator Company, in the treasurer's department, at Chicago. From April, 1905, to 1909, I was European auditor of the Radiator Company, travelling in England, France and Germany, principally, with headquarters at Paris. From April, 1909, to July, 1912, I was managing director of the Societa Nazionale dei Radiatori, and lived in Milan. During the three years we organized the Italian business and built a factory at Brescia for the manufacture of radiators and boilers, the company being owned by the American Radiator Company. The next three years after July, 1912, I was in America half of the time and was secretary of the United States Silica Company, of Chicago. I made an interesting trip to Panama in 1913 and one or two to Europe. I sailed a few days before the "Lusitania" last May, and landed at Bordeaux the day after she sank. Last September I sailed for England and have been in Petrograd since October, as special representative of the John Deere Company, of New York. I am uncertain how long my stay will be, but of course I hope to reach Cambridge by next June. I have missed all the class reunions, chiefly because the Atlantic Ocean is so wide; but I feel as close to Harvard as I ever have been, in every sense except the geographical. Member: University Club, Chicago, Harvard Club of New York.

THOMAS HARRY REED

(Formerly Thomas Harrison Reed)

Born	Boston, Mass., July 29, 1881.
Parents	Eugene A. Reed, Julia Ann Matthews.
School	Boston Latin School, Boston, Mass.
Years in College	1897-1901.
Degrees	A.B., 1901; LL.B., 1904 (1905).
Married	Julia Russell, Mt. Vernon, N. Y., June 29, 1904.
Children	Howard Russell, Dec. 16, 1905; Thomas Harrison, Oct. 6, 1907; Eugene Marshall, March 23, 1910.
Occupation	Associate Professor of Government, University of California.
Address	(home) 1045 Keith Ave., Berkeley, Cal. (business) 709 Balboa Building, San Francisco, Cal.

On graduating from Harvard Law School I became legislative agent of the New York Anti-Saloon League, which position I held until June, 1908; during this time I was for two years secretary of the Committee of Fourteen, which conducted the campaign against Raines law hotels in New York City. I was admitted to the New York bar in 1906. In the fall of 1908 I attended the Graduate School of Columbia University and in January, 1909, became instructor in political science at the University of California. In July of the same year I was advanced to the grade of assistant professor. In January, 1911, I became executive secretary to Governor Johnson of California, resigning in August, 1911, to return to the University as associate professor of government, which position I still hold. I have been active in politics, especially municipal politics. I was for a year and a half president of the City Club of Berkeley. I have been more and more exclusively devoting my time to municipal government and municipal corporation law. I am a member of the California bar and have done a considerable amount of advisory work for municipalities in this state. Among the more important tasks which I have undertaken was the drafting of the charter of the city of San Jose. This charter will go into effect July 1, 1916. I have written: Government for the People (Huebsch, New York, 1915), Municipal Home Rule in California (National Municipal Review, October, 1913). I contribute to the National Municipal Review the department of Judicial Decisions. The City Government of Berkeley, and numerous other articles, I have contributed to the Berkeley Civic Bulletin and other periodicals; edited (with David P. Barrows) Government and Politics of the German Empire, by F. K. Kruger (Government Handbook Series), (World Book Company, Yonkers, 1915). Member: Commonwealth Club of California, City Club of Berkeley, Harvard Club of San Francisco, National Municipal League, Faculty Club, University of California.

Parents	William Thomas Reid, Julia Reed.
School	Belmont School, Belmont, Cal.
Years in College	1897-1901.
Degrees	A.B., 1901; A.M., 1902.
Married	Christine Williams Lincoln, Brookline, Mass., July 2, 1902.
Children	William Thomas, 3d, March 17, 1903; Edith Williams, Dec. 1, 1905; Christine Lincoln, May 8, 1907; Charles Willard, Dec. 17, 1914.
Occupation	Bond Salesman.
Address	(home) 30 Webster Place, Brookline, Mass., (business) 19 Congress St., Boston, Mass.

After taking my A.B. with the class in 1901, I continued in college for another year, in order to secure an A.M. During this academic year, I coached the university eleven in the fall of 1901 and the baseball team in the spring of 1902. On July 2, 1902, I was married to Christine Williams Lincoln and left almost immediately afterward for a six months' trip to Europe. Returning in December, 1902, I went West to Belmont, Cal., where I became assistant headmaster, under my father, of the Belmont School for boys, a private boarding school, located twenty-five miles south of San Francisco. I remained there until the spring of 1905, when, not being certain that I should continue in school work, I came East for two years to coach the university eleven. At the end of those two years, I returned West to the school and remained there until Christmas of 1910, when I again came East and took a position as bond salesman with William A. Read and Company, which position I am still holding. My home is in Brookline, while my business takes me to Boston, Worcester and Hartford. With my wife and a family of four children, two boys and two girls, I have settled down for the long pull, surrounded by many delightful friends, and with the feeling that most of the things that really count in life are mine. Member: Cohasset Golf Club, University Club of Hartford.

After getting my mining degree I worked three years in various parts of the West as a miner and millman, obtaining practical experience in mining. In 1906 I began writing on mining subjects, and made mining journalism my business, until about two years ago when I came back to Portland, Ore., to attend to certain interests that I have here. Since then I have been secretary and treasurer of several land companies in which I am interested. While in journalism I was special correspondent in the field for several years for the Engineering and Mining Journal, editor of Mines and Methods for a year, assistant editor on the Mining and Scientific Press for a while, and associate editor of the Engineering and Mining World about a year. I expect within the year to go back into mining journalism as I am only temporarily engaged in my present line of work.

Since August, 1904, I have been engaged in the practice of law at Boston. While mine has been a general civil practice, I have had most to do with corporate affairs, probate matters and the investment and care of funds of individual clients and estates. On the whole my work has been that of a counsellor rather than of an advocate. It has been for the most part of private, not of public, interest. Of those events in my practice that have, possibly, some interest for the public, there are three. In 1911 I secured from the Board of Control of the City of Chelsea, then under the commission form of government, and from the Railroad Commissioners of Massachusetts, a franchise for a standard gauge, marginal, freight railroad along water front properties on Chelsea River in Boston Harbor, and in 1912 supervised the construction of that railroad. At about the same time I started and afterward directed a movement which resulted in the City of Boston building, in 1912-1913, a modern, steel drawbridge, with a fifty-nine-foot waterway. From the sixty-second Congress I secured an appropriation of eighty-five thousand dollars, and from the Legislature of Massachusetts for 1913 an appropriation of seventy-five thousand dollars, for the improvement of the navigability of Chelsea River by removing Metropolitan water mains therefrom and dredging therein a channel twenty-five feet deep at low tide, thus making the river navigable, at practically all stages of the tide, for all coastwise and most transoceanic steamships. Ever since leaving college, in 1901, I have been engaged in the public service corporation field, in so far as this refers to electric light, electric railway and gas utilities. I began work in Boston, Mass., being employed by the Boston Industrial Company, which managed and operated many electric utilities in eastern Massachusetts. When some of these properties passed into the control of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company, of Boston, I became associated with that company for a short period. About 1910, I went to Uxbridge, Mass., to develop a group of properties which afterward became the Worcester Suburban Electric Company. During this period I resided at Uxbridge, Mass. Late in 1913, I became associated with W. S. Barstow and Company, Inc., of New York. During the period in which I have been with this concern, I have been active in various branches of public utility management, mostly in connection with the operation of the properties. As this class report leaves me, I am paying especial attention to corporation statistics and to analysis of operation of the many utilities which come under the direction of this concern. I have had but little time to be active in other fields, with a result that I have made but small contribution to the advancement of general knowledge. I have presented papers on special subjects before small groups of men, among which the most ambitious effort was an appearance before the American Society of Mechanical Engineers in New York. I have held no public offices and only a few corporate ones, which were incident to the continuance of business conditions, such as director and treasurer or manager. When posible, during vacation periods, I have travelled about the eastern United States and England, but the public utility business is not liberal in vacation periods so that the various trips have been of a hurried nature. Member: Harvard Club of New York, National Electric Light Association, American Statistical Association.

Address	(home) 510 Genesee St., Utica, N. Y. (business) Whitesboro, New Hartford, N. Y.

The year following my graduation I spent in Europe and on my return was married and took up my residence in New York City, where I had charge of the erection of what is now the Warner Sugar Refinery at Edgewater, N. J. In 1904 I removed to Easton, Pa., and engaged in paper manufacturing, two years later coming to Utica, N. Y., where I have since resided and have been in the same business. Outside of business I have been interested in motoring, touring considerably, as well as taking an active interest in automobile organizations. I have been secretary of the Automobile Club of Utica for five years, was vice-president of the New York State Automobile Association, 1913-1914, president of the New York State Motor Federation, 1915, and am at present chairman of the executive committee of that organization, and also a member of the executive committee of the American Automobile Association. I am also a director of the Citizens' Trust Company, of Utica, N. Y., and a director of the Utica Chamber of Commerce. Occupation	Stockbroker.
Address	(home) 157 Bay State Road, Boston, Mass. (business) 50 Congress St., Boston, Mass.

In the fall of 1901 I entered the employ of the Old Colony Trust Company, Boston, and remained there until the spring of 1907. From there I went to F. L. Dabney and Company, stockbrokers, where I have been to the present time. I have obtained exercise by playing tennis in summer and by skating in winter. I have been an active member of the Skating Club of Boston since its organization in 1912, and for the past three years have been a member of its board of governors and its treasurer. My chief activity, outside of business, has been with the First Corps Cadets, Massachusetts Volunteer Militia. I enlisted February 10, 1903, serving continuously as follows: February 10, 1903, to February 14, 1911, as private, corporal, sergeant and first sergeant in Company A; February 14, 1911, to April 9, 1912, as 2d lieutenant of Company C; April 9, 1912, to May 11, 1915, as 1st lieutenant of Company A; May 11, 1915, to the present time, as captain of Company C. From 1912 to the present time I have been treasurer of the corps. I have taken an active interest in rifle shooting and was a member of the First Corps Cadet Rifle Team which won the state competition in 1912, 1913 and 1915, three years out of the last four. In the summer of 1915 I took a five-man company team to Sea Girt, N. J., and won two matches against company teams from New Jersey and New York. In January, 1916, I was appointed aid on Governor McCall's staff. William Rotch, Jr.

William Rotch, Jr., was born at New Bedford, Mass., August 17th, 1876, the son of Mary Rotch Eliot and William Rotch. He was graduated from The Hale School, Boston, Mass., in 1896 and entered Harvard University Lawrence Scientific School in the fall of 1897, graduating in 1901 with the degree of S.B. Except for a short period in 1904, on account of ill health he undertook no regular business actively until 1906, when he entered the electrical engineering department of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company. In 1908 he resigned this position to take up a somewhat similar line of work with the Massachusetts Electric Companies, which he pursued until his death, which occurred after a short illness, on November 16th, 1915. In a class so large as ours it was possible for many a soul to spend his four years without knowing or being known by a large number of classmates. Probably many of the finest characters lived among us without receiving the appreciation which was their due, and the loss was equally with those, who, from one cause or another, were cut off from such acquaintances. William Rotch was one of these, yet few of us could hope for or merit a finer tribute than the words below, which were written by an intimate friend about him. ''He was always ready to do more than his share when called upon, and offered his services whenever he felt he could be of use. Although he did not enjoy good health, he never complained, but made the best of things. He had a good sense of humor and was a 'jack-of-all-trades' in his home, and efficient with his hands. He was absolutely dependable and thoughtful, was fond of music and boating. He was quiet and retiring but much appreciated by those who knew him.'' There is almost more eulogy between these lines than in the words themselves. It is difficult to read them without a sense of personal loss in the death of this classmate, whether one knew him little or not at all.

My life has been an ordinary bread-and-butter one—no frills or gingerbread. My father died at the end of my freshman year, and I was therefore compelled to leave college. I subsequently entered the law school at the University of Buffalo, working in the interim as a bookkeeper at a niggardly wage. I was under the age of 21 when I left the law school, and as soon as I became of age, I took the bar examination, and as soon as I passed the same and was sworn in as a lawyer, I hung out my shingle, and struck out, and since then have played the game single-handed, with but indifferent success. Politically I am a Progressive. Formerly I was a Republican, and while such ran for state senator and was badly beaten. Member: Harvard Club of Buffalo, N. Y.

I am no B. Franklin; so this will be no classic. I taught school at Cushing Academy, Ashburnham, Mass., the year after graduation, and the year following that I taught at the Morristown School, Morristown, N. J. At the end of the two-year period of pedagogy I knew I was meant to be a lawyer; and many times since I have taken up the practice of law, when things looked dark, I have sent my mind back to school-teaching days, and reflected that I might be worse off. I have practised law in Boston since 1906, when I left the Law School at the end of my second year. My office is on the tenth floor of the building 85 Devonshire Street, and I have an associate, Seth T. Crawford—an Eli, but possessed of many redeeming qualities, nevertheless. I am not a politician, although I have mixed slightly in politics; therefore a certain delicacy together with my natural diffidence forbids my enumerating all the offices of honor or trust which I now hold or have held.

I regret that my activities of the past fifteen years have not been such as to furnish interesting reading for a class report. The endeavor to keep up with the day's work has not as yet permitted such a participation in affairs outside of business as even to indicate the outline of an entertaining story of a well-rounded life. I am partner with Dudley P. Rogers, '96, in the firm of William A. Russell and Brother, and have various other business interests as follows: Androscoggin Pulp Company, director; Arlington Mills, director; Champion-International Company, director; Eastern Texas Electric Company, director; Langtown Company, director; Merrimac Chemical Company, director; Mount Tom Sulphite Pulp Company, president and director; Nashawena Mills, director; Nonquitt Spinning Company, director; Pensacola Electric Company, director; Russell Coal Company, president and director; Russell Company, president and director; Suffolk Savings Bank for Seamen and Others, trustee; Sutton's Mills, director; Webster and Atlas National Bank, director. Member: Eastern Yacht Club, Union Club, Exchange Club, Tennis and Racquet Club, Brookline Country Club, Harvard Club of Boston, Myopia Club, Boston, Harvard Club of New York.

After graduating with my class in June, 1901, I became associated with Goldman, Sachs and Company, bankers, of New York, on July 21, 1901. On January 1, 1904, I became a partner in Goldman, Sachs and Company, and have been active in that business from that date until now, and expect to continue so for the balance of my active business life. So far I have had but little leisure time for travel, but hope, as the years pass, to devote such leisure time as I may have to visiting as many foreign countries as possible. Occupation	Farmer.
Address	Neck Road, Old Lyme, Conn.

After leaving college I started the study of law at the Columbia University Law School, New York, N. Y. As it was necessary to have some sort of a degree to enter, I got an equivalent diploma from the University of the State of New York. An operation on my knee which prevented my walking up three long flights of stone stairs at the Columbia Library and the death of my father ended my career as a lawyer. I then worked for the Standard Tile Company of St. Louis, The Delaware Trust Company, The Guaranty Trust Company, of New York, during the organization of the Steel Trust and a non-refillable bottle company, in the order named. I then worked for some time with a patent medicine concern. Some of these jobs I didn't like and some didn't like me. I made some money at some and none at others. Next I beat it to Canada and worked with the Grand Trunk Railway in developing the Temagami Forest Reserve. I ran some general stores for the outfitting of prospectors, fishermen and big-game hunters. In winter I traded with the Indians for fur; went to Hudson Bay, by dog team; got a lot of fur; prospected and found seventeen mines worth about seventeen cents; made some money in the Cobalt mines which were a few miles north of my diggings. Got mixed up in a fire and was laid up in a hospital at Toronto for about a year; moved from there here. That's about all. Member: Harvard Club of New York, Old Lyme Country Club.

HOWARD HARROP SARGENT

Born	St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 18, 1880.
Parents	William Cooper Sargent, Adele Felicia Packer.
School	Central High School, St. Paul, Minn.

Degrees	A.B., 1901.
Married	Mary Hale Cutler, St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 28, 1905.
Children	William Cooper, 2d, Dec. 11, 1906; Howard Harrop, Jr., June 5, 1911; Lucy Cutler, Feb. 6, 1915.
Occupation	Merchant.
Address	(home) 737 Osceola Ave., St. Paul, Minn. (business) 180 East 6th St., St. Paul, Minn.

I entered business, July 1, 1901, in the office of a manufacturing concern in Milwaukee (Chain Belt Company), where I put in a little over four years. In 1905 I moved to St. Paul., my native city, and was for three years engaged in the manufacture of stock food. The next four years I was engaged first in wholesale groceries, and later in automobile trucks. In 1912 I helped organize the Cochran-Sargent Company, of St. Paul, wholesalers of heating and plumbing supplies, and this will doubtless continue to be my principal business. My record includes no political honors. I was at one time (1905) a director of the University Settlement in Milwaukee, and I am, at present, secretary of the Public Playgrounds and Recreation Committee in this city. Member: Minnesota Club, Minnesota Boat Club, Rotary Club, all of St. Paul, Minnesota.

Occupation	Electrical Engineer.
Address	(home) 5 Union St., Montclair, N. J. (business) 759 Broad St., Newark, N. J.

Immediately after graduation, I entered the employ of the General Electric Company at Lynn, Mass., and stayed with them until January 1, 1908, at which time I changed to the Public Service Electric Company, headquarters at Newark, N. J., and am still with the latter company. The offices of honor or trust you mention are confined to various committees of the various electrical associations mentioned below and are undoubtedly too numerous and uninteresting to the fellows in general to mention in detail. I have written no play, books, etc., with the possible exception of the various committee reports and articles called for by the committees mentioned above. Member: American Institute of Electrical Engineers of New York, National Electric Light

Association of New York, Illuminating Engineering Society of New York, Society of Municipal Improvements of New York, Harvard Engineering Club of New York, Montclair Athletic Association.

ROBERT WILCOX SAYLES

Born	Pawtucket, R. I., Jan. 29, 1878.
Parents	Frederic Clark Sayles, Deborah Cook Wilcox.
School	Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass.
Years in College	1897-1903.
Degrees	A.B., 1901 (1903).
Married	Adelaide Kimball Burton, Providence, R. I., June 1, 1904.
Children	Deborah Wilcox, Feb. 23, 1906; Robert Wilcox, April 28, 1915.
Occupation	Curator Harvard Geological Museum; Geologist; Manufacturing Cotton Goods.
Address	(home) 263 Hammond St., Chestnut Hill, Newton, Mass. (business) University Museum, Cambridge, Mass.

After graduation I learned the financial end of the cotton manufacturing business in the Providence office of the Baltic Mills Company, of which I am one of the owners. After my marriage in 1904 I removed to Norwich, Conn., and worked in the mill, learning the technical side of the business. While working in the mill I took the International Correspondence School course in cotton manufacturing. The combination was very effective and worth while. As I was not needed absolutely in the cotton business and was much more interested in geology, it seemed best to take advantage of an offer from the geological department of Harvard of taking charge of the new Geological Museum in 1906. In 1907 I removed to Brookline, then built a house at Chestnut Hill, and moved in during the fall of 1908. In the summer of 1908 I made a geological trip to the Canadian Rockies and Vancouver Island. In the summer of 1909 I did geology in the Marine glacial clays at Rockland, Me. In 1910 I visited Florida and spent the summer in the White Mountains. In 1911 I did some geology in Virginia.

In 1912 I travelled over California. In 1913 I visited Italy, Austria, Switzerland, France, and England, and obtained much geology of interest. During these last eight years the collections of the Museum have been greatly increased. My time is not all given to geology, part of it going to business affairs and some to the Children's Museum of Boston, of which I am secretary and one of the charter members. It is pleasing to note that this little museum has an annual attendance of over 75,000 a year already, and it was incorporated in 1914. I have written: The Glacial Clays of the Maine Coast (Science, 1909), The Glacial Origin of the Roxbury conglomerate (with L. La Forge) (Science, 1910), The History of Lost River (Science, 1913), Earthquakes and Rainfall (Bulletin Seismological Society of America, 1913), The Squantum Tillite (Bulletin Museum Comparative Zoölogy, 1914), Tillite in New Hampshire (Science, 1915), Banded Glacial States of Permo (Carboniferous Age), Showing Possible Seasonal Variations in Deposition (to be published in Proceedings of National Academy of Science, 1916). Fellow American Academy of Arts and Sciences, Fellow American Association for Advancement of Science. Fellow American Geographical Society. Member: Boston Society of Natural History, Royal Societies Club, London, Harvard Travellers Club, Harvard Club of New York, Harvard Club of Boston, Massachusetts Automobile Club, University Club of Providence, Turks Head Club of Providence, Seismological Society of America (Scientific Committee).

Occupation	Banker.

After graduation I travelled for a couple of years in Europe and the East, and, on my return, went to work in a broker's office in Boston. After some years, I went to New York, where I remained a year with the same firm and then, after several months' holiday, went to a banking house. After about a year I was obliged, on account of ill health, to give up work for a couple of years. Part of this time I passed in Europe. In June, 1914, I joined the firm of Redmond and Company, 33 Pine Street, New York, of which I am now a member. Member: Somerset Club, Boston, Tennis and Racquet Club, Boston, Myopia Hunt Club, Hamilton, Mass., Essex Country Club, Manchester, Mass., Knickerbocker Club, Brook Club, Racquet and Tennis Club, Harvard Club, all of New York, Piping Rock Club, Long Island, N. Rogers Wentworth Shapleigh

Rogers Wentworth Shapleigh was born April 21st, 1878 at Newtonville, Mass. He was graduated from the Browne and Nichols School, Cambridge, Mass., in 1897, and entered Harvard University Lawrence Scientific School, from which he was graduated with the degree of S.B. in 1901. In his studies he specialized in mining engineering, and after graduation he entered the employ of the American Smelting and Refining Company at Denver, Col. Later he was transferred to the company's plant at Aguascalientes, Mexico, and from there he returned to Colorado as the head of the company's assay laboratories in Leadville. On November 14, 1907, he married

Serena Mayer Galt, of St. Louis, Mo. Never of robust health he contracted tuberculosis from which he died in 1914. Always he was a man whose courage made him master of his physical weakness. Those of his class who were privileged to know him well, will hold in very dear memory his ever present smile.

GEORGE CHEEVER SHATTUCK

Born	Boston, Mass., Oct. 12, 1879.
Parents	Frederick Cheever Shattuck, Elizabeth Perkins Lee.
School	Noble and Greenough's School, Boston, Mass.
Years in College	1897-1901.
Degrees	A.B., 1901; M.D., 1905.
Occupation	Physician.
Address	(home) 135 Marlboro St., Boston, Mass. (business) 205 Beacon St., Boston, Mass.

After graduation I spent the usual four years in studying medicine at the Harvard Medical School, and the month before graduation became a medical house-officer at the Massachusetts General Hospital, where I completed the term of 16 months to October, 1906. In October, 1916, I started around the world, going west, and to Japan, China and the Philippines. I reached Manila in May, 1907, and spent two and a half months working in the Bureau of Science Laboratory. From there I went to Java, the Malay States, Burmah, and across India from Calcutta to Bombay and then to Egypt and finally to Vienna, where I arrived in June. I studied there until March, 1908, then went through Germany and France to England and sailed homeward, arriving in June, 1908. In July I began to practise medicine. In the following autumn (1908) I was appointed assistant in clinical medicine at the Harvard Medical School and assistant physician to out-patients at the Massachusetts General Hospital. I continued teaching various clinical branches for the Medical School for five years and then resigned. I am still connected with the Massachusetts General Hospital, where I was promoted to assistant physician in 1913. About 1910-1911 I served as assistant physician and later as physician of the "Harvard Clinic" which was to be absorbed by the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital. In the summer of 1913 I spent two months in London studying the heart. In March, 1915, I went to Serbia as a member of the American Red Cross Sanitary Commission, which was sent to combat typhus fever and other epidemic diseases. Returned October 1, 1915. I have written: A Synopsis of Medical Treatment, and various short articles on medical subjects. Member: Union Club of Boston, University Club of Boston, Harvard Club of Boston, Tennis and Racquet Club of Boston, St. Botolph Club of Boston, various medical societies.

Since graduating from the Harvard Law School in 1904, I have been engaged in the practice of law in Boston in the office of Ropes, Gray and Gorham, now Ropes, Gray, Boyden and Perkins. I have been a member of the firm since January 1, 1909. I have been a member of the Ward Eleven Republican committee of Boston for about ten years. For one year I was secretary of the committee. I am now serving my third term as chairman. I am a member of the executive committee of the Republican Club of Massachusetts, and of the Beacon Hill Republican Club, and have been a delegate to a number of Republican state and district conventions, and for the last two years have been treasurer of the Citizens' Committee in charge of the campaign of the Citizens candidates for the Boston City Council. I was for several years a director of the Boston Children's Aid Society. For some years I have been vice-president and a member of the board of managers of the North Bennett Street Industrial School, and legal adviser to the Boston Society for the Care of Girls. I have recently become a member of the transportation committee of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, a director of the Boston Legal Aid Society, and a member of the legislative committee of the Massachusetts Bar Association. I was this year elected a director of The New England Trust Company. CHARLES STEPHEN SHAUGHNESSY

Born	Ashland, Mass., Jan. 1, 1877.
Parents	John Shaughnessy, Bridget Loftus.
School	Ashland High School, Ashland, Mass., and Boston University, Boston, Mass.
Years in College	1897-1901.
Degrees	S.B., 1901.
Married	Mary Veronica Kearns, Boston, Mass., May 11, 1905.
Children	Francis, March 12, 1906.
Occupation	Civil Engineer.
Address	(home) 1033 Ocean Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y. (business) Municipal Building, New York, N. Y.

For two years after graduation I was on the instruction staff of the university, holding a fellowship in engineering, 1901-1902, and an instructorship in the Bussey Institution, 1902-1903. During a short time in 1903, I was on the engineer corps of the Pennsylvania Railroad, at Altoona, Pa., where great extensions to this system were being provided in shops, yards and general equipment. In the latter part of 1903, I joined the engineering forces of the Boston sewer department and had considerable to do with the drainage in the vicinity of Stony Brook, in the Back Bay Fens, especially as it related to the development of parks and the Charles River Basin. This covered a period of three years. The project for additional water supply for New York City was being developed in 1906, and, early in that year, I started on the preliminary surveys, being located in the vicinity of Peekskill, N. Y. Later I had charge of the construction of the Catskill aqueduct in this vicinity and this gave much opportunity for enlargement in engineering as well as a great pleasure in knowing the beautiful highlands of the Hudson, over which I walked or rode, always finding enjoyment in its infinite varieties of rugged scenery. I next was engaged in the Borough of Queens, New York City, studying and planning systems of drainage and more particularly the disposal of sewage into New York Harbor. This presented problems of broad scope and brought me in touch with current practice in the disposal of municipal waste. My present work is for the Municipal Civil Service Commission of New York City as engineering examiner. This work, including, as it does, the recruiting of engineers in the municipal service, has a special attraction on account of my previous experience in the public works of New York City. It offers large opportunities for improvement in organizations and public service generally. I wrote an article: Mekeel Tunnel, Catskill Aqueduct (Harvard Engineering Journal, November, 1914). Member: American Society of Civil Engineers, Harvard Engineering Society of New York, Association of Harvard Engineers, Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, Knights of Columbus.

CHARLES FRANKLIN SHAW

Born	Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 24, 1869.
Parents	William Jefferson Shaw, Elizabeth Fawcett Stewart.
School	After about a year at High School, tutored self.
Years in College	1897-1901.
Degrees	A.B., 1901; A.M. (Columbia University), 1903; B.D. (Union Theological Seminary), 1904.
Married	Adelaide Eloise Russell, Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 24, 1906.
Children	Charles Franklin, Jr., Sept. 7, 1909; Henry Russell, Oct. 29, 1911.
Occupation	Minister.
Address	675 Hudson Ave., Albany, N. Y.

After leaving college, I went to New York City where, for three years I was a student at Union Theological Seminary and at Columbia University. During my first year in the seminary I had a small charge at Pocantico Hills. The second year I preached on Sundays in the Hall of Fame at New York University. The third year I helped to found and was first pastor of an undenominational church on the East Side of New York, which we christened ''The Church of the Son of Man.'' During this year, my last as a student at the seminary, I lived in residence at Union Settlement, on East 104th Street. I was also a member of the Ninth District Charity Organization Society and vice-president of the East Side Progressive Republican Club. I was licensed by the Presbytery of Brooklyn in 1903, and in 1904, I accepted a call to the First Presbyterian Church of Rahway, N. J., where I remained five years. During my pastorate in New Jersey I served as moderator of the Presbytery of Elizabeth in 1909. That same year I received a call to the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church, of Albany, N. Y., where I have been working for the past seven years. Last year, 1915, I was elected moderator of the Presbytery of Albany. I have served as delegate to the synod and to the general assembly of our church and as president of the Interdenominational Ministerial Association of Albany.

I entered the employ of the Newport Trust Company in January, 1902; elected treasurer of the company in 1908, and secretary as well in 1913. I am still with the company as secretary and treasurer. I have served as a member of the school committee of Newport from 1904 to 1910, and as a member of the representative council of Newport from 1907 to the present time; also served as aide-de-camp on staff of Governor A. J. Pothier, of Rhode Island, from 1908 to 1914. I am a member of various Masonic bodies, including St. Paul's Lodge, and Washington Commandery of Newport, Palestine Temple of Shriners, and Rhode Island Consistory 32d degree Scottish Rite Masons. I am serving on several boards of directors and acting as treasurer of several organizations as well as trustee of estates.

ROGER SEYMOUR SHERMAN

Born	Titusville, Pa., March 11, 1879.
Parents	Roger Sherman, Alma Seymour.

GEORGE NEWHALL SHOREY

Born	Lynn, Mass., April 15, 1881.
Parents	George Langdon Shorey, Mary Frances Alley.
School	Phillips Exeter Academy, Exeter, N. H.
Years in College	1897-1901.
Degrees	A.B., 1901; LL.B., 1903.
Occupation	Moving Picture Theatre Owner.
Address	(home) 55 Broadway, East Lynn, Mass. (business) Queen Theatre, 513 Gay St., Knoxville, Tenn.

Since graduation I have practised law two years, engaged in the advertising business, as advertising agent and writer, entered the moving picture field as manager of a theatre, then as employee of the General Film Company, of New York, for whom I established "branch" exchanges, and now own and operate a moving picture theatre in Knoxville, Tenn. The Queen Theatre, built in May, 1914, opened July 7, 1916, runs exclusively "Paramount" pictures, a ten-cent admission, and "always clean pictures,"—a business of a speculative nature but highly profitable when conservatively operated. I have lived since graduation in Massachusetts, Alabama, California, New York and Tennessee, from two to four years in each location, and am only tied to my present location by my financial interests. Member: University Club of Knoxville, Tenn.

Occupation	Superintendent of Schools.
Address	State Infirmary, Tewksbury, Mass.

I left college in the middle of our junior year, returning in 1908-1809 for my A.B. Meanwhile, I had graduated from Hartford Theological Seminary and was ordained to the ministry in the Congregational Church. After a few years in the pastorate in New England, for the most part previous to and during my theological course, I went to Los Angeles, Cal., and there organized and built a new church (Pilgrim Congregational) in a growing section of the city. In 1911, I resigned my Los Angeles pastorate to enter public school work and was appointed city superintendent in San Luis Obispo, Cal., remaining there for two years. The spring of 1914 found me back in Cambridge. At the opening of college in October, I registered for a master's degree in education, which I received the next June. I am now directing the educational activities connected with the State Infirmary at Tewksbury, Mass. Incidentally I am doing two seminaries in the department of education at Harvard.

In the fall of 1901, I entered the banking house of Kidder, Peabody and Company, and am now in the stock and bond department. Upon my marriage in 1907, I removed to Wellesley Hills. In 1911, I bought a lot and built a house in that town. I am a charter member of the Wellesley Country Club, a member of the governing board, and have served for three years on the golf committee. In 1915, I was appointed a member of a committee to investigate the matter of town planning, and although this committee reported unanimously in favor of a town planning board for Wellesley, the town has as yet taken no action. "Watchful waiting", however, has succeeded elsewhere! Member: Tiffin Club, Boston, Wellesley Country Club, Maugus Club, both of Wellesley Hills, Mass.

PHILIP JUSTICE STEINMETZ, Jr.

Born	Philadelphia, Pa., July 31, 1874.

Occupation	Minister, Head-Master.
Address	(home) 135 West Willow Grove Ave., St. Martin's, Philadelphia, Pa. (business) 1324 Locust St., Philadelphia, Pa.

After three years in the Philadelphia Divinity School I was appointed assistant to the rector of the Church of St. Luke and the Epiphany in the same city. Two years later, in 1906, I was made vicar of Epiphany Chapel and served there for six years, accepting a call to become associate rector of Calvary Church, Summit, N. J. This was in the fall of 1912. I succeeded to the rectorship on January 1, 1914. For a year and a half as rector of this parish I had a most delightful experience, in a community that exactly fulfils the dream of seminary days. There came to me, however, in the midst of these happy conditions, a request to undertake the position of head-master of the Episcopal Academy in Philadelphia. An unusual combination of circumstances and the advice of those whose wisdom I valued formed a challenge I could not resist and I have been trying since last fall to work out into this larger field and to meet in some measure the many opportunities it affords. I have had numerous invitations to preach on Sundays, so that the combination provides a variety in occupation that should call forth every resource to its fullest and best. Member: Monday Evening Club, Summit, N. J., Monday Night Club, Philadelphia, Pa., Philadelphia Cricket Club, Philadelphia, Pa.

ERICH CRAMER STERN

Born	Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 8, 1879.
Parents	Carl G. Stern, Alma M. Cramer.
School	East Side High School, Milwaukee, Wis.
Years in College	1897-1901.
Degrees	A.B., 1901; LL.B., 1904.
Occupation	Lawyer.
Address	(home) 149 Farwell Ave., Milwaukee, Wis. (business) 1332 First National Bank Building, Milwaukee, Wis.

The first three years after graduation were spent at the Harvard Law School, where I received the law degree in 1904. Returning that summer to Milwaukee, I took and passed the Wisconsin bar examinations, but did not commence the practice of law until a year later. In the fall of 1904 I went to Paris, where I spent seven months as a student at the Law School of the University of Paris, also attending numerous lectures at the Sorbonne, Collège de France, etc. I lived and associated exclusively with Parisians during this period, and it was my great privilege to enter intimately into their family life. From Paris I went via Brussels and the Rhine to Berlin, where I spent the summer semester of 1905 in study at the university. At both universities I specialized in what we call the "conflict of laws". When the university closed, I travelled first in Norway and then in Italy, and returned home in the fall. Since returning home near the close of 1905, I have been practising law in Milwaukee, for the first six years alone, and since then in partnership with Mr. Burdette F. Williams, under the firm name of Williams and Stern. More recently former Circuit Judge Orren T Williams has been associated with us as special counsel. Our firm are the local attorneys for the Fidelity and Deposit Company of Maryland, Casualty Company of America, Georgia Casualty Company and the Zurich General Accident and Liability Insurance Company. Our practice, however, is of a general nature. Shortly after returning to Milwaukee, I was asked to run for alderman of my ward, and was elected in 1908, for a two-year term. My nomination under the primary law and my subsequent election were due, in large measure, to a personal house to house campaign, an experiment which at that time was perhaps rather novel. I did not know any of the politicians in my ward until after my election. My ward was very close politically, and I failed, by a close margin, of re-election to the council in the spring of 1910. Shortly thereafter, however, I was asked to run for the state assembly, and after a spirited campaign, was nominated on the Republican ticket, and subsequently elected for a two-year term. The Republican state platform convention in the fall of 1910 made me its secretary. I was elected as a so-called "Progressive Republican", and thus belonged to the party which completely dominated the state administration and legislature of 1911-1912. The 1911 session of the Wisconsin legislature was a very remarkable one, for the quality and importance of the legislation enacted. It was my privilege to have a full share in the shaping of this legislation. My principal committee appointment was that to the committee on cities, of which I was chairman. Although I have have taken no further part in politics since 1912, I have continued to be active in various organizations of a semi-public character. Of these the university settlement has held my interest ever since I returned to the city. In addition to being a director and helping to organize a Men's Civic Club, I have at various times been in residence at the house. The so-called "Central Council of Social Agencies", a federation of all the philanthropic organizations of the city, chose me as president several successive years. Recently I have transferred my activity more particularly to the City Club, of which I am now the acting president. Henceforth more of my time will be devoted to guiding the work of the Milwaukee Citizens Bureau of Municipal Efficiency, of which I have just been made president. For four years I have been giving courses in the law department of Marquette University, a local institution established by the Jesuit Fathers. I have kept alive my love of music, and am treasurer of the Milwaukee Orchestral Association. In the field of sports I am an enthusiast for tennis and horseback riding, and have taken part in several extended canoe trips. In closing, I should like to add that I have thus far not missed a single reunion of the class of 1901. I have written: The Organization and Administration of Recreation of Social Centre Work (first given as an address before the National Education Association at its convention in Chicago in 1912, and published in The American School Board Journal for October, 1912). Member: Milwaukee Athletic Club, Milwaukee Lawn Tennis Association, University Club of Milwaukee, University Club of Madison, Wis., Harvard Club of Milwaukee, Harvard Union, City Club of Milwaukee.

Occupation	Forest Examiner.
Address	(home) Springland Cottage, Pierce Mill Road, Washington, D. C. (business) United States Forest Service, Washington, D. C.

After graduation from the Yale Forest School, I entered the United States Forest Service, with which I have been connected since 1903, with the exception of about three years. I studied forestry in Germany, France, Switzerland and Austria from April to December, 1904. I estimated a 500,000 acre timber tract in Chihuahua, Mexico, in 1908, for the Development Company of America, of New York City.

In 1909 I worked in forestry in the Philippine Islands, and, in connection with this, completed a tour around the world. Since 1910 I have been continuously connected with the United States forest service with headquarters at Washington, D. C., and about half of the time on field work in various states east of the Mississippi River. I have written: Scrub Pine (Bulletin 94 of the United States Forest Service), Forest Management of the Loblolly Pine in Delaware, Maryland, and Virginia (Bulletin 11 of the United States Department of Agriculture), The Ashes: Their Characteristics and Management (Bulletin 299 of the United States Department of Agriculture), Forest Conditions in Delaware, and a Forest Policy for the State (Bulletin 82 of Delaware College Agricultural Experiment Station), Marketing of Woodlot Products in Kentucky (Part of the Biennial Report of the Kentucky State Forester for 1914-1915). After completing my course in the Rochester Theological Seminary I held pastorates in Breckenridge, Minn., Atlanta, Ill., and Sewickley, Pa. (Baptist Churches). Since leaving the latter place I have been mostly in and near Rochester, N. Y. A slight handicap in my health and a kink in my theological views has brought me more and more into outdoor work. Three years I was chaplain at the State School, Industry, N. Y. During which time I was also part owner and manager of the Long Trail Camp for Boys, which took canoe trips in Ontario. At the time I was married I took up this farm, and, having acquired most of the knack of handling the tools and the animals, I am doing a large part of the work with my own hand labor. I am doing some preaching. It is likely, however, that some kind of clerical or professional work will entirely supersede the farming which has nearly served its beneficial purpose in my life.

After graduation I taught school for three years,—one year at the Bordentown Military Academy, Bordentown, N. J., and two years at Powder Point School, Duxbury, Mass. In September, 1904, I accepted a position as travelling salesman in New Hampshire for the National Biscuit Company and was in this position until May, 1906, when I was sent to

Concord, N. H., to open a branch office. From there I was promoted to several larger agencies as sales manager in the following years, and in 1911 was offered a position in the eastern department of the company at their New York office which I accepted. Here I stayed until February, 1913, when I was offered the position of manager for New Hampshire by the Equitable Life Assurance Society of New York, and returned to Concord, N. H., to make my permanent home. I have an excellent agency with one of the largest and strongest life insurance companies in the world, and as the business is good and increasing every year I shall probably stick to New Hampshire. My agency territory embraces the entire state, and I am in charge of all agents operating in New Hampshire, with offices in the First National Bank Building, Concord, N. H. My travelling has been confined to vacation trips to Prince Edward Island and the Provinces, and business trips to insurance conventions at Chicago and Atlantic City. Member: Wonolancet Club, Concord, N. H., Beaver Meadow Golf Club, Concord, N. H., Intervale Club, Manchester, N. H., New Hampshire State Golf Association (secretary-treasurer).

Graduating in June, 1901, I returned to my home in East Brownfield, Me., and remained through the summer. When the call came for Harvard graduates to go to the Philippines to teach, I was anxious to accept, but deferred to the wishes of my family. When the second call came, they consented and I at once prepared to leave. I left Boston September 6, 1901, and arrived in Manila in due time. I was assigned to Goa, Camanines, a province several hundred miles from Manila, and, after a rather adventurous journey, I reached my destination. I was a stranger in a strange land and among a strange people; but, being rather inclined to things new and strange, I adapted myself to conditions. I taught three years, according to the contract, and a part of the fourth, when I decided to go into the hemp business, which was at that time prosperous. I continued in the business five or six years when it declined. About this time I was offered a position in the Bureau of Agriculture in Manila and at once left Goa. My office is assistant superintendent of the publications of the bureau. I had become familiar with the Spanish language, having taken it at Harvard, which has been to my advantage. I expect to remain in the office unless the change in the islands, in the administration of its affairs, causes me to return to the States. I have been in the States but twice since 1901.

Starting out with the accumulated knowledge incidental to a bachelor's degree, I found it advisable, nevertheless, to tackle this cold and material world in a modest way and began life as a factory hand in Cincinnati. However, I had a pull with the boss; so, after a year of this I was raised to a title but not much increase in salary. In 1903 I emigrated to Missouri and started in the leather business for myself and haven't finished yet. As a counter irritant for the annoyance of having to work for a living, I have taken an interest in various charitable and civic movements which consume much time and yield an ever increasing crop of troubles. I was once appointed to a vice committee without my sanction, but refused to serve, so my record is clear in that respect. I have grown too fat for tennis and my golf is rotten. I am happily married and have a daughter who is still too young to appreciate her great good fortune in the selection of her parent. Further details of my checkered career will be given to those interested on application at the quindecennial. Member: City Club, Westwood Country Club, Civic League, all of St. Louis, Mo.

Since 1900 I have been affiliated with the Merchants National Bank of Norwich, Conn., and for the last eight years have been the assistant cashier of this bank. From 1900 to 1902, I was city clerk of the city of Norwich, Conn., and for nine years was a member of the Town Board of Education, being the acting school visitor for the same from 1906 to 1907. In politics I am a Democrat, and have been nominated for office on the local Democratic ticket six different times and was never defeated. Although the city is of a Republican majority, I hold the record for highest majority given a city clerk on any ticket. In May, 1910, I was appointed by the mayor and court of common council (Republican), a member of the Board of Gas and Electric Commission of the city of Norwich for a term of three years. This commission is comprised of three members, and operates the municipal gas and electric plant of the city of Norwich. For two years, 1913 to 1915, I was president of the Arcanum Club, a social organization of over two hundred members and comprising the leading business men of the city. At the present time I am a trustee of the Dime Savings Bank and an auditor of the Norwich Savings Society, both of Norwich, Conn. Member: St. James Lodge, No. 23, A. F. and A. M., Norwich, Conn., Arcanum Club, Norwich, Conn., Connecticut Harvard Club, Chamber of Commerce, Norwich, Conn.

Address	5039 Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

After graduation I went to Harvard Medical School, was graduated in 1904 cum laude, studied medicine in Berlin and Vienna from January, 1905, to June, 1906, settled in Chicago in September, 1906, and have been practising medicine here ever since. I became connected with Rush Medical School immediately and am now assistant professor of medicine in that school—teaching and working in the dispensary. Besides I am director of the department of medicine in the Jewish Aid Society dispensary, the second largest and in many ways the leading dispensary in Chicago. I am also assistant attending physician at the Presbyterian and at the Michael Reese Hospitals. As I spend most of my time at these institutions I have very little time left for private practice, and have very little. I have recently been chosen a director of the Young Men's Associated Jewish Charities of Chicago, which I consider quite an honor in view of my age. The above facts, I believe, fit the high places of my career since graduation—the rest you can read between the lines. Member: American Medical Association, Illinois State Medical Society, Chicago Medical Society, Chicago Pathological Society.

It seems unnecessary to repeat the history of my life from the time of my graduation down to 1911, all of which correctly appears in the decennial report, for the benefit of those sufficiently interested to care to know it. Since 1910 I have been an assistant examiner in the Patent Office, and during this time I have pursued the study of law, have received the degree of LL.B. from the George Washington University Law School and have been admitted to the bar of the District of Columbia. The only other event of note in my life during this period was the decennial celebration of the Class of 1901. Member: Harvard Club, and Trowel Club of Washington, D. C.

After graduation from the Harvard Law School, in 1903, I entered the law office of Hale and Grinnell. In 1907 I became a partner in the firm. We are engaged in general practice and of course special attention and special rates will be given to all clients from the Class of 1901. I have been for several years treasurer of the Cambridge Republican city committee, and in 1910 I was elected to the Cambridge common council in which I served three years. In the unfortunate years 1913 and 1914 I was a candidate for representative to the Massachusetts legislature on the Republican ticket from the third Middlesex District. In 1901 I enlisted in Battery A, First Battalion Field Artillery, Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, and after being corporal, sergeant, and first-sergeant, was, in 1908, elected and commissioned second lieutenant, and in 1911 first lieutenant. In 1904 I edited "When We Fit for General Grant", an account of the battery's experiences in the manoeuvres at Manassas, Va., that year. In 1913 I resigned my commission in the battery because of increasing demands of business. But after a few months I was commissioned first lieutenant aide-de-camp to Brigadier General E. Leroy Sweetser, commanding the Second Brigade Infantry, M. V. M., and on July 2, 1915, captain and adjutant, First Battalion Field Artillery, M. V. M., which commission I now hold. The duties of these commissions do not require so much time and moreover I believe in preparedness. In 1901 I spent three months travelling in Europe, and in 1902 three months travelling in the western part of the United States and in Alaska. Member: Boston Chamber of Commerce, American Bar Association, Massachusetts Bar Association, Boston Bar Association, City Club, Union Boat Club, Harvard Club of Boston.

I have been in the advertising business continually since graduation, representing in New England various general publications like the Literary Digest and a list of New England newspapers. Have been interested in promoting advertising associations. In our own The Pilgrim Publicity Association have served as secretary six years, chairman of directors one year and president two years. In philanthropic work I am serving on the board of trustees of Wells Memorial Institute, and on board of directors of the Boston Music School Settlement. I have taken some interest in amateur theatricals and allied affairs, and have taken part in and produced unimportant small shows, etc. I have worked on many committees of organizations such as the Boston Chamber of Commerce and am a director of the Under Forty division of that body. Am much interested in the subject of military and preparedness, having delivered several talks on the subject before various organizations and have been in the service of the First Corps Cadets, M. V. M., for 14 years and now hold an officer's commission. Even before college my dream of the architecture for a would-be student of the mind placed general education, medical study and a long hospital service as foundation necessities. Of these my two years' hospital service has been inestimable in keeping me "on the earth". It has led to an honest detestation for the one-sided specialist. Royce in college elicited my full admiration. I set my sail to him. I have now returned from the voyage to the haven of his seminary. I recall a talk with him in the yard once where

I caught a mental momentum never to be forgotten. I am just beginning to realize my dream. Medical practice as a nerve specialist, the teaching of the pathology of the nervous system, literary work in medicine, the founding of new clinics, the developing of a new medical specialty—that of speech disorder—have filled my time since June, 1911. My practice is not large but is very select. I do much charity work. About half of my patients are nerve patients, the other half have speech disorders. I plan soon to give up private practice and devote all my time to research. My teaching has been in neuropathology in the Tufts Medical School. I developed this course from one of the poorest in the country to the best. No other course begins with an autopsy on the brain and cord; none spends so much time, no one has such a varied neuropathological collection. None consciously attempts to develop the visual type in man. Numerous articles have been the outcome of this teaching, but the most important to education is where I disclose the discovery of how to develop the hearing-slightly collaborating-writing-individual into the seeing-largely collaborating-talking-individual. Good work in this department of medicine led, in 1912, to my change of title from assistant in neurology to assistant in neuropathology, and, in 1913, to instructor in neuropathology. I carried this work for two years when upon a change in school policy that prevented me from enlarging my department further, I resigned, June 2, 1915, to devote my time more exclusively to research in speech disorder. In 1915 I offered a course in neurology and neuropathology in the new Tufts College Medical Summer School. In 1913 I gave a summer course to the assistants on service at the Boston City Hospital in the pathology of the nervous system. Later that year I delivered a course of ten lectures upon psychopathology, and offered a course of twelve lectures upon "The Reflexes, their Technique and Significance". That summer I also read a course of lectures upon speech disorders at my new clinic—the voice clinic at the Boston City Hospital, psychopathic department. In 1914 this expanded into ten lecture courses, all but one of which received applicants that summer. These courses contained six or twelve hour-lectures apiece, and in all over sixty lectures. The session closed with the presentation of five researches on speech disorder, four of which are now published. In 1915 the same ten courses were offered as well as ten new courses on subjects allied to speech, oral English, drama, neuropathology, etc. At the end of this summer session ten papers were read, eight by me and two by my assistant, Caroline A. Osborne, M.D., Ph.D., of Worcester, Mass. Seven of these are published. Monthly for ten months thereafter we held "Author's Evenings" of ten papers each to present results of the research of the past three years. The following titles will give a general idea of the ten papers under each: 1, Speech; 2, The Voice in Neurology—a contribution to the Neurology of Childhood; 3, a contribution to the Relation of Speech Problems to Mental Test Problems; 4, a second contribution to the Neurology of Childhood; 5, a contribution to the Management of the Speech Disorder Problem in the Public Schools; 6, Medical Inspection of Speech Disorders in Public Schools; 7, a second contribution to the Psychological Problem of Universal Mental Measurement; 8, Activities of the Speech Mechanism among the Psychoses; 9, Speech Aspects among the Feeble-Minded; 10, Developmental Psychology,—the formal launching of a new psychological view-point. I might say a word about my speech survey of twenty cities. I visited eastern cities and gathered data on methods of attacking the speech disorder problem in public schools. The results were presented in twenty papers under headings five and six above. Next year I plan to continue this survey West and South. Beyond this, I read eight papers to societies around Christmas, 1915, and for the coming spring meetings I am booked for eighteen papers. What this literary expansion means I know not. It has resulted in the offer of several new appointments,—one in New York as director for speech disorder in the public schools at a salary of four thousand dollars and another in the Harvard Graduate School of Medicine. The founding of new clinics has been my happiest privilege.

The voice clinic of the Boston State Hospital—psychopathic department—was founded August 1, 1912, by the invitation of Dr. E. E. Southard, '97, then director of that department. I was put "in charge". On October 15, 1915, was founded, upon my application, the special clinic for speech disorder at the Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, in the department of laryngology, by the kindness of Professor A. Coolidge. My wife, formerly Dr. Edith Hale (Radcliffe, '01, Johns Hopkins Medical School, 1905), is my greatest inspiration and severest critic. She is medical chief of the New England Hospital for Women and Children, medical examiner at Wellesley College, and medical director of the Children's Aid Association. My old avocations are gone. Photography has vanished except at big class meetings, but it and ten articles I wrote were good boyhood training. My collection of one hundred skulls has been given to the Warren Anatomical Museum of the Harvard Medical School. My collection of two thousand Indian arrowheads is about to be deposited in the Peabody Museum at Cambridge. Occupation	Lawyer.
Address	(home) 1221 Woodycrest Ave., New York, N. Y. (business) 233 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

I entered the Harvard Law School in 1900 and was graduated in 1904. In January, 1906, I took the bar examinations at Rochester, N. Y., and was admitted to the New York state bar at Rochester, March 6, 1906. I was treasurer of the Albany Democratic conference in the New York state gubernatorial campaign in 1906. On November 26, 1906, Honorable William Travers Jerome, then district attorney of New York County, appointed me as deputy assistant district attorney and I served in that capacity until the close of the Jerome administration, December 31, 1909. For a short time after appointment I was secretary to the district attorney. I was then assigned to the Bureau of Homicide, Arson and Insurance, and later had charge of the work of that bureau. During my period of service in the district attorney's office, I had considerable experience in presenting cases to the grand jury, and was at various times assigned to trial work in the court of general sessions and in the court of special sessions. In the spring of 1913, I prepared a report on the Relation of the Police Department to the Courts, for the Bureau of Municipal Research, in connection with the investigation of the police department of the City of New York by the special committee of the board of aldermen, generally spoken of as the Curran committee.

Politically, I am an independent Democrat, and have been somewhat active in municipal politics. I participated in the movement which resulted in the formation of the citizens' municipal committee of 107, popularly known as the fusion committee; and in the municipal campaign of 1913 I served on the executive committee of the Anti-Tammany Jeffersonian Alliance, an organization formed by the union of several independent Democratic organizations in the City of New York. Member: St. Paul's Lodge, No. 124, A. F. and A. M., Auburn, N. Y.

I have little to say that might interest 1901. My health breaking down two years after leaving Cambridge, I went west to California and circled back to Idaho, where I stayed practically all of the time until November, 1915, when I returned to Pennsylvania to see if I could determine which was "God's country," the East or the West. Most of my western life was in construction work. The outdoor life in the mountains and on the desert has given me a constitution better than the average, an independence that is almost insufferable, but which have availed me little otherwise. Living as I have, I have met very few Harvard men, and hardly any from 1901, except as I have renewed my acquaintance on my trips east. If any 1901 men get to "Billtown" in the future, I shall be mighty glad to see them.

BRAINERD TAYLOR

Address	(home) Van Rensselaer Ave., Shippan Point, Stamford, Conn. (business) War Department, Washington, D. C.

After leaving college, I had a few months in business, and then in March, 1902, entered the United States Army as a second lieutenant of artillery. My first three years were spent at Forts Andrews and Banks in Boston Harbor, in drill, target practice with seacoast guns and study in garrison schools. In 1903, I was on duty at the manoeuvres in Portland, Me., until I met a runaway freight car on a down grade which hit me harder and broke more bones in me than Shirley Ellis ever did on Soldiers Field; at the time it made me think of life on the second eleven where the hittor had about as much compassion for the hittee as did that freight car. I received another thrilling introduction to Big Force turned loose at Fort Banks, Mass., in 1904, when a breech-lock blew out of a twelve-inch mortar, scattering three men in small pieces about the battery and severely wounding eleven others. In August, 1905, just as I was trying to muster up courage to ask for a vacation, I was given twenty-four hours to pack up and join my new company at Jackson Barracks, New Orleans, La., where troops were held to successfully demonstrate, for the first time, that a good-sized yellow fever epidemic could not even get a foothold against Regular Army sanitation. The next three years (after the epidemic was stamped out) were most enjoyable, with light duties and plenty of recreation at the big winter race-tracks of

New Orleans and in the clubs of that delightful city. In March, 1907, I was promoted to first lieutenant and appointed adjutant. In August, 1908, I went to the Coast Artillery School at Fort Monroe, Va., from which I was graduated in July, 1909. During the next two years, I served in turn as artillery engineer and ordnance officer, in the artillery district of New London, Conn., and regimental commissary in a coast artillery brigade held at Galveston, Texas, as infantry, in anticipation of an expedition to Vera Cruz, Mexico. In January, 1911, I was promoted to captain and in August of that year appointed inspector-instructor of coast artillery reserves of Connecticut with about seven hundred and fifty officers and men to instruct. In February, 1913, I was ordered down to the coast defences of Mobile Bay, Ala., which I commanded for the last seven months of my service there. On October 20, 1913, I was in command of a provisional battalion, consisting of two companies and a band of coast artillery troops, en route to the state fair at Meridian, Miss., for a week's encampment. About two o'clock in the afternoon, while travelling at the rate of sixty miles an hour, our troop train plunged through a wooden trestle on the M. & O. R. R., into the bed of a shallow stream, twenty feet below. A description of that awful wreck, in which I lost seventeen men (killed) does not belong here. It is enough to say that the next twelve hours, in which I struggled, with two young second lieutenants and about forty men, all that were able to work, out of seven officers and one hundred and sixty-six men, to extricate my command and get the injured back to the nearest hospitals in Mobile, sixty-seven miles away, were frightful in the extreme. The next few months were spent in transferring men, who were able to go to the Philippines, bringing men home from hospitals in Mobile, discharging those who were crippled for life, and in training new recruits and re-equipping the command. In May, 1914, following the naval landing at Vera Cruz, I took the same two companies, with the necessary animals and camp equipage, to Brownsville, Texas, where we went into camp on the Rio Grande, guarding the bridge and some Mexican prisoners. In April, 1915, I reported at Fort Adams, R. I., where I am now serving, in command of the 117th Company, Coast Artillery Corps, and a twelve-inch gun battery. Member: Army and Navy Lodge, No. 306, A. F. & A. M., Fort Monroe, Va., Stamford Yacht Club, Stamford, Conn.

Occupation	Orchardist.
Address	(home) 2 East 86th St., New York, N. Y. (business) R. F. D. No. 2, Stevensville, Mont.

On leaving college I entered the employ of Johnson and Higgins, adjusters and insurance brokers, New York City, with whom I remained five years. In 1906, when I resigned, I was head of their collecting department, a branch of their marine adjusting department. After a trip abroad I looked into several lines of employment and finally bought land in the Bitter Root Valley (at Stevensville), Montana, on which I now have a fine orchard of 7,000 apple, cherry, pear, and plum trees, six and seven years old. I also manage three other orchards, adjoining my own, for New York friends, and have recently been elected vice-president, director and general manager of "Thousand Acres", a large orchard company of 50,000 fruit trees owned by the Bitter Root Valley Orchards, Inc., a company controlled by New York and Boston interests. I have also interested myself in politics at various times, having been a member of the county central committee of the Progressive Party, in the last presidential campaign and a delegate to one Republican and all Progressive state conventions. Member: Harvard Club of Montana, Harvard Club of New York, University Club of New York.

Married	Helen Scofield, Colorado Springs, Col., Jan. 28, 1915.
Occupation	Pianist.
Address	Tuxedo Park, N. Y.

After my sophomore year I left college in order to devote myself to the study of the piano. I was fortunate enough to be accepted as a pupil by Mr. Carl Baermann, at that time perhaps the most prominent pianist in Boston. Subsequently, also while living in Boston, much enlightenment came to me through a period of study with Mr. Harold Bauer, who encouraged me greatly. At this same time I tried my apprentice hand at professional accompanying and concertizing in a small way, and held the position of organist in the First Congregational Church at Dorchester, Mass. A short time previous my family had moved to Baltimore, Md., and the death there of my remaining brother decided me, in October, 1904, to join them, as I could pursue my studies at the Peabody Institute. My work there with the brilliant pianist, Mr. Ernest Hutcheson, was greatly handicapped by continued ill-health, which culminated in several operations for appendicitis and its attendant results, followed by typhoid and scarlet fevers. After one year of convalescence I went to Berlin, in October, 1909, where I remained three years, studying with Alberto Jonas and Stepanoff. The fact that my strength had not fully returned determined me to go to Colorado. Here in Colorado Springs also an opportunity presented itself to continue my work as teacher begun in college and pursued extensively while in Boston, Baltimore and Berlin. Besides this I gave several piano and chamber music recitals in that city and in Denver. After my marriage in January, 1915, I continued teaching in Colorado Springs until the following October, when, accompanied by my wife, I sailed for South America for a pleasure trip of nine months.

Children	Barbara, July 19, 1912; Winsor Lord, Oct. 13, 1913.
Occupation	Surgeon.
Address	1718 Massachusetts Ave., Cambridge, Mass.

Completing my A.B. requirements in 1900, I entered the sophomore class of Boston University Medical School, having anticipated the greater part of their freshman work while in Harvard College. I received my M.D. in 1903 and was then appointed interne at the Massachusetts Homeopathic Hospital for a two-year mixed service. I was then appointed as second assistant visiting surgeon to the same institution. In 1908 I was advanced to assistant visiting surgeon, which is my present rank. Along teaching lines, I served as instructor in clinical medicine for three years in Boston University Medical School and two years ago was given the lectureship in minor surgery. My activities since graduation have been the usual slow, gradual, yet steady, advance of the specialist in the medical profession. Starting first as a general practitioner I have gradually worked out of this until it is now a negligible part of my responsibilities. Member: American Medical Association, Massachusetts Medical Society, South Middlesex District Society, American College of Surgeons, Massachusetts Homeopathic Medical Society, Boston Homeopathic Medical Society, Massachusetts Surgical and Gynecological Society, Middlesex Sportsman Association.

Occupation	Teacher.
Address	(home) 59 North St., Newtonville, Mass. (business) Newton Technical High School, Newtonville, Mass.

The first year after graduation I spent at Cambridge, in old Divinity Hall, studying further in the departments of English and philosophy. After taking my A.M. in 1902, I taught seven years in the Newton Classical High School, and since 1909 I have had charge of the English department in the Technical High School of the same city. I am at present engaged in editing six of Shakespeare's plays for educational purposes. If this job does not swamp me, I shall give two short courses next July in the Dartmouth Summer School on the teaching of English literature and composition. Next to boys and girls, I am most interested in everything that grows on my little "farm" of four acres in Newtonville. Besides a few articles in educational magazines, in 1913 I issued a little volume, A Memorial of Samuel Thurber, Teacher and Scholar, 1837-1913, which consisted of a short life of my father, with selections from his writings. Member: Friday Club, Boston; Harvard Teachers' Association; New England Association of Teachers of English; Every Saturday Club, Newtonville.

The summer after graduating I spent in Europe and had, I hardly need say, a very interesting three months. On returning in the fall, I entered the Harvard Law School, and in 1904 received the degree of LL.B. I then came to New York City and was with the law firm of Simpson, Thacher and Bartlett until January 1, 1906, being admitted to the New York bar in February, 1905. After about two years more in the offices of Taylor and Anderson, I went into practice under my own name, endeavoring to specialize in railroad freight rate and transportation matters, of which I made a careful and as far as possible a practical study. For a year I was one of the trustees of the Brooklyn Traffic Club. In January, 1914, I became connected with the traffic department of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, and am devoting my energies to transportation and both state and interstate commerce law matters. While I play an occasional game of golf in summer, my chief forms of exercise, particularly in winter, are walking part way home at night, and in imitation of the many gyrations of the Zwoboda System before dressing in the morning. With the exception of a few vacations at Biddeford Pool on the Maine coast, we have spent our summers in or near New York on Long Island Sound, and a few years ago in Dongan Hills, Staten Island, which I had just "discovered." Last summer, however, we broke away from salt water habits and spent my vacation in the Adirondacks. I wrote an article on Kinks in a Bill of Lading, which was published in the December, 1913, issue of "System."

I left Harvard in the spring of 1908 to finish at Wesleyan (Middletown, Conn.). My reason for leaving Harvard was simply and solely loneliness, the effect of youth, inexperience and temperament. I fully enjoyed the professors and have a very warm spot in my heart for the dean. I went to Wesleyan because I had a number of Prep. School friends there. I graduated B.S. from Wesleyan in 1900 with Phi Beta Kappa and class orator. Went to Princeton Theological Seminary and while there attended lectures in Princeton graduate department in sociology. Left Princeton in spring of 1901. My reason for leaving was the unbearable orthodoxy and sloppy intellectual standards of the seminary. I entered Union Theological Seminary in the spring of 1901 and Columbia at the same time, taking sociology and economics at Columbia. I was graduated from Union Theological Seminary, B.D., in 1903. Took a graduate year extra and obtained degree of A.M., Columbia, in 1905. I entered the ministry as assistant pastor of First Congregational Church of Montclair, N. J., under Dr. Amory H. Bradford in 1904 and at the same time was pastor of Pilgrim Chapel (Montclair, N. J.). I married Miss Mary Eleanor Wilson in 1908, daughter of Dr. J. D. Wilson, of New York. I was called to Watchung Congregational Church in same town of Montclair in 1909, and have had a successful ministry so far. Have been prison inspector for the Civic Association of Montclair, and have founded many clubs, built up one institutional church and am now building up an unique church among suburban residents (New York business men). Have just finished raising the money for property and a twenty-two thousand dollar Sunday School and community house, the idea in my mind being not only to get the church firmly established as far as plant is concerned, but in the community house feature to make it what you might call an institutional church for the solid and fine business man and his family,—a church with club and recreational features adapted not to the poor, but to the business man and his suburban needs. So far it is going very well. The spiritual idea of it being that the life and soul of the business men are worth as much as the life and soul of the lowly. I have written a book: The Young Malefactor (T. Y. Crowell Co., New York, 1908); articles: On the trail of the Salmon and Caribou in Newfoundland, The Sharkers, At the Old Fish House, Partridge and Powder Magazines (in "Forest and Stream," 1907); The Albino and the Crotchhorn in "Field and Stream"; The Theological Gauntlet, "Independent"; The Red Ghost, "Health Culture"; The Potentialities of Baby Teeth, "Housewives' League Magazine", June, 1915.

CARL HOYT TROWBRIDGE

Born	West Westminster, Vt., Oct. 24, 1874.
Parents	Samuel Hoyt Trowbridge, Julia A. Goodhue.
School	Pritchett Institute (now Pritchett College), Glasgow, Mo.
Years in College	1900-1902.
Degrees	A.B., 1901; A.M., 1902; A.B. (Pritchett Institute), 1893.
Married	Emily Bond Lanius, Palmyra, Mo., June 17, 1905.
Children	Eleanor Goodhue, Oct. 11, 1909.
Occupation	Teacher.
Address	Brevard Institute, Brevard, N. C.

I spent the summer of 1901 in Cambridge, making electrical charts for Professor Adams. I took master's degree at Harvard commencement, 1902, and remained in electrical work with Professor Adams during most of the summer of 1902. In September, 1902, I began service as instructor in the St. Louis Manual Training School of Washington University, where I taught for five years in the chemistry laboratory. I was a member of the board of stewards, Centenary Methodist Church, and of the city mission board. In 1905 I was married to Miss Emily Bond Lanius, of Palmyra, Mo., with whom my acquaintance began in 1895, when our parents lived in the same block in Glasgow, Mo. In 1907 we removed to Brevard, N. C., where I am principal of Brevard Institute, a home mission vocational school in the mountains. It is owned by the women of the Southern Methodist Church. They have developed it considerably since that time until now it has two large and seven small buildings on about twenty-five acres of campus and demonstration farm land. The total enrollment for the scholastic year 1915-1916 will probably run to about three hundred. In the fall of 1909 our child was born and named Eleanor Goodhue for her two grandmothers. She is growing normally and is now in school. Member: Southern Sociological Congress, National Child Labor Committee, National Geographic Society, Board of Stewards, Brevard Methodist Church, Epworth League Board, Western North Carolina Conference, M. E. Church Society, Brevard Club, Brevard, N. C.

HERMAN FRANKLIN TUCKER

Born	Weston, Mass., Jan. 8, 1878.
Parents	William Franklin Tucker, Lauretta Wheeler.
School	High School, Weston, Mass.
Years in College	1897-1901.
Degrees	S.B., 1901.
Married	Wilhelmina M. Meyers, Washington, D. C., Jan. 2, 1908.
Children	William Franklin, Oct. 5, 1908; Herbert Atherton, July 10, 1910; Katherine Lauretta, Nov. 16, 1911.
Occupation	Consulting Structural Engineer.
Address	(home) Colvos, Vashon R. F. D., Wash. (business) 1011-1012 Alaska Building, Seattle, Wash.

Immediately after graduation I entered the office of J. R. Worcester, '82, consulting engineer, Boston, where I had worked during my summer vacations and also previously to entering Harvard. Was connected there in one way or another with the designs for the Boston subways and tunnels and Elevated Railway as well as many of the large theatres and buildings. In 1903 and 1904 I was connected with the designs for the Harvard Stadium and part of the time had charge of the inspection work in the field. In the summer of 1904 I was one of the assistants at the Harvard Engineering Summer School at Squam Lake. In June, 1906, I accepted a position as engineer for the Dominion Engineering and Construction Company, Ltd., of Montreal, where for eight months I had charge of all designs for numerous reinforced concrete and steel buildings. In February, 1907, I accepted a position as assistant engineer on the Panama Canal under John F. Stevens, at Washington, D. C., being promoted to designing engineer, Department of Lock and Dam Construction in June, 1907, and being transferred to Culebra, C. Z., where I remained on designs for all the Canal locks and valves until all the difficult problems had been solved, resigning in August, 1911. In August, 1911, I accepted a position as resident engineer in charge of construction of the million dollar Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, opposite the Harvard Medical School. Was there over one year. Then took a few months' vacation, and finally decided to hang out my shingle as consulting engineer in Seattle, whither I came in November, 1912. Talk about going through the "bread and butter" stage, in starting a new business, and at the end of the "seven lean years"! But we're still in the running and getting our second wind! I bought a small ranch down the Sound a few years ago, and have doubled the size of the house this last year. When business is too slack I stay at home and improve my property and my own health, which is always good, thank you. I am rapidly absorbing the western spirit (Oh, no, Washington went dry January 1), and advise all easterners to come out here to this glorious land of promise. Say, it is Big out here! Member: American Society of Civil Engineers, American Concrete Institute, American Society for Testing Materials, International Association for Testing Materials, Boston Society of Civil Engineers, Association of Harvard Engineers, Engineers' Club of Seattle, Washington Association of Engineers—secretary-treasurer, Pacific Northwest Society of Engineers, Municipal League of Seattle, Harvard Club of Seattle.

Address	(home) Ferncliff Terrace, Short Hills, N. J. (business) 3d Ave. and Dean St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The fall of 1901 saw my business career commence with the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company in New York City, since which time I have stuck to the glass business in various capacities. I have found work at all times sufficiently brisk to keep me out of mischief, jail and politics. I am still of that overwhelming majority which has not knowingly written for publication. My leisure time of late years has been occupied in motoring, annual excursions to Harvard-Yale football games, and directing the steps of my son and heir. With a grandfather, a late trustee of Princeton, and three uncles, graduates of the same institution, my efforts to steer the young man in the right direction have been fraught with increasing gray hairs. To keep young, I exercise on tennis courts rather than on golf links. At this moment I am looking forward with great expectation to the quindecennial. Member: Crescent Athletic Club of Brooklyn, Brooklyn Civic Club, Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association of New York, Harvard Club of New Jersey, Short Hills Tennis Club, Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences.

The life of a student and writer affords no dramatic and picturesque incidents to relate. My tale is like that of many others: after four years of graduate study at Harvard and abroad, I began the routine work of teaching history which has ever since been my primary occupation. Three times I returned to Europe for a summer of research and was in London when the European war broke out. With six hundred other exiles, mostly teachers, I came home in the steerage of the American liner, St. Louis. It was an experience to be remembered but neither dramatic nor picturesque. No immigrants being on board, we did not see Ellis Island. More recently, I have made trips to various cities to lecture which have invariably led to stimulating association with charming and cultured people. Yet, in the main, I have little to say except that greatest of all things: that I have enjoyed to the full those quiet satisfactions of professional and family life which are so precious to experience but so difficult to describe. The list of my books indicates adequately enough the scope, character, and sequence of my interests. For many years, my chief recreation was derived from concerts, from attempts to play the violin and piano myself, and from dabbling in musical composition. I revived last spring that antediluvian pastime, the bicycle. Perhaps professors of history have a sort of license to experiment with these forgotten sensations so as to keep the present in contact, so to speak, with its own past. I have written: The Presbyterian Movement in the time of Queen Elizabeth (edited for the Royal Historical Society, London, 1905); The Reconstruction of the English Church (2 vols., New York, 1910); Pan-Germanism (Boston, 1913); Rise and Fall of the High Commission (Oxford, Clarendon Press, 1913); The Rise of the American People (New York, 1914); Pan-Americanism (New York, 1915); The Challenge of the Future (Boston, 1916); A Critical Study of the Historical Method of Samuel Rawson Gardiner (Washington University Studies, 1916). Member: National Institute of Social Sciences, American Historical Society, Missouri Historical Society, Author's League of America.

Occupation	Vice-President, New York Central Lines.

In September, 1903, I entered the service of the Trust Company of America, and in December of the same year, came uptown and took an office in the Grand Central Terminal, under the vice-president, W. J. Wilgus, in charge of the engineering department. Upon the acquisition by the New York Central of the majority ownership of certain trolley lines of the Mohawk Valley Company I was made vice-president of the Mohawk Valley Company and other subsidiary trolley lines in 1905. I was made assistant to President W. C. Brown of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad Company, July 15, 1910, and on March 7, 1912, was elected vice-president of the New York Central Lines. Years in College	1897-1901.
Married	Louise S. O'Brien, New York, N. Y., March 2, 1908.
Children	Nelson B., May 5, 1909 (died May 5, 1909); Nelson Birkbeck, Jr., June 27, 1910; Eleanor Louise, Nov. 20, 1912.
Occupation	Lawyer.
Address	(home) 36 Dexter Road, Newtonville, Mass. (business) 54 Devonshire St., Boston, Mass.

From June, 1901, until January, 1905, I was engaged in business and also attended law school. I was admitted to the bar in 1905, and since then have been in active practice. From 1905 until 1908, I was in the office of Burrage and Hayden, Boston; and from 1908 until September, 1915, I maintained my own offices. During the summer of 1907, I spent three months in Europe, travelling through northern Italy, Austria, and Switzerland, ending my trip in Paris. I was appointed in 1914 by Governor Walsh to prepare a table showing the changes made in the revised laws of Massachusetts by subsequent legislation which table is in constant use by the bench and bar. I was re-appointed to perform this task in 1915. This is the only public office I have held and can hardly be termed a political one. I will confess, however, that in 1912 I ran for school committeeman in Newton—fortunately without success. In September of last year I formed a law partnership with I. R. Clark and Albert E. Little, with offices at 54 Devonshire Street, Boston, the new firm doing business under the name of Clark, Vanderhoof and Little. I have written an article on the Law of Bribery, and an article on Law of Chattel Mortgages (in collaboration with A. W. Blakemore, of the Suffolk bar). Member: Harvard Club of Boston, Boston Bar Association.

Occupation	Manufacturer.
Address	(home) 1010 Second Ave., South Fort Dodge, Iowa. (business) 617 First National Bank, Fort Dodge, Iowa.

From February, 1902, to December 31, 1915, I was associated with the Fort Dodge Wholesale Grocery Company. For the last eight years of this time I acted as secretary and treasurer and looked after duties pertaining to each office. I also had charge of the "Credit Department", but eight years of hearing "hard luck" stories was aplenty. I gave up the credit work December 31, 1915, but continue to look after the financial duties connected with the offices of secretary and treasurer. Since January 1, 1916, I have been assisting in the management of the Vincent Clay Products Company, occupying the offices of secretary and treasurer. In this business I am interested with my father and brothers, and therefore hope and expect to be identified with it for many years to come.

Children	Horace Arthur, Aug. 11, 1911.
Occupation	Manufacturing Cost Accountant.
Address	(home) 6 Hayes Ave., Lexington, Mass. (business) 921 Shawmut Bank Building, Boston, Mass.

During the larger part of the fifteen years since graduation, I have been with the American Woolen Company, first at the Washington Mills, Lawrence, and since 1910 at their Boston offices. Although this work has kept me pretty closely tied, still I have found time for a great many outside interests both at Lawrence and at Lexington, where I now reside. My chief interest, however, is my family and my home, and I am looking forward to the day when my now small son shall enter Harvard and be permitted to have such happy years there as it was my good fortune to enjoy. Member: Several Masonic Orders, Old Belfry Club.

WALTER SEAVERNS WAIT

Born	Boston, Mass., June 22, 1878.
Parents	Walter Sparrow Wait, Harriet Anna Ordway.

Address	(home) 341 Washington St., Hartford, Conn. (business) 400 Washington St., Hartford, Conn.

I left college at beginning of my junior year and entered the Harvard Medical School, graduating in June, 1903, with degree of M.D. For a few months I remained at my old home in Cambridge, Mass., and then went as interne to the Worcester City Hospital, at Worcester, Mass. Before the completion of my service there I was appointed assistant superintendent and occupied that position till January, 1908, when I resigned to accept the position of assistant superintendent and first assistant resident physician at the Hartford Retreat, Hartford, Conn., a large private hospital for the care of nervous and mental cases. I am still at the Retreat.

Maurice Joseph Wall

Maurice Joseph Wall was born at Worcester, Mass, January 8, 1882. His parents were Patrick Wall and Catherine Walsh. He fitted for college at the Classical High School, Worcester, Mass. He was in college from 1897 to 1901, receiving the degree of A.B. in 1901, and LL.B., at Georgetown College in 1905. He married Edith Loretta Bryan, of Washington, D. C., on April 12, 1909, and had one child, Bernice Virginia, born November 11, 1910. After leaving college Mr. Wall taught in the Agassiz Hall School, at Alta, Cal. In 1902-1903 he was connected with the Coast and Geodetic Survey. From 1903 to 1905 he was examiner in the United States Civil Service Commission. Since 1905 until the time of his death he was examiner in the United States Patent Office. He died on September 12, 1914, of appendicitis, after a brief illness of seven days. He was a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Society, of Washington, D. C.

One little word gives you my account for years after leaving college: None. Not even anything to overdraw. I came to New York to study law, without a sou. My first job in a law office carried as compensation a percentage of such collections as I was able to make, together with fees for serving papers. I worked from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M. for five months in that office, receiving $1.00 for serving a summons. As for collections, there weren't any. Of the one dollar, I paid out ninety cents for a certified copy of an order I was instructed to get. I am still out that ninety cents; so that my compensation amounted to two cents a month. Then fortune smiled me into a job that brought a check each month. I went to law school, was admitted to practice, have conducted some important litigations, and have been very fortunate in trial work. I have the finest little family and the prettiest little home on the Hudson a man could want.

As some apology must be made to those of the rotund figures and bald pates it may be well to begin with the early fears that are created in being reared in a "prep" school close to the prosaic Radcliffe Eves. Our school windows looked out upon that Harvard appendix and our childish eyes were wont to follow the antics of those kittenish maids. Four years followed of slow recovery, years of childish blandishment, filled with angel choirs, whose voices and faces have bound our hearts together. Then came the parting and like autumn leaves we scattered. Dreading the monotony of "How to eat and grow fat" one leaf blew to the West, landed on the eyebrow of a friendly mountain and there for eight years became one of nature's children. The past years have been spent nursing a corporation baby, whose playthings seem to constitute special patented automatic machines for the sharpening of its own teeth as well as those of saws, and other little things, etc. So ends the story of one non-insured, irresponsible bachelor who patiently awaits that inevitable end to which the City Fathers drift,—either the Call of the Wild or the Call of the Child. FRANCIS CUNNINGHAM WARE

Born	Milton, Mass., May 18, 1879.
Parents	William Rotch Ware, Alice Hathaway Cunningham.
School	Milton Academy, Milton, Mass.

Years in College 1897-1901.
Degrees A.B., 1901.
Occupation Chemical Engineer, Manufacturer.
Address (home) Solvay Club House, Syracuse, N. Y.
(business) Semet Solvay Company, Syrause, N. Y.

During the years 1911 and 1914, inclusive, I examined numerous mineral properties in thirty-nine states, the elevations varying from 12,000 feet above the sea level to 300 feet below. The values of the properties, as stated by the owners, were all above sea-level. During 1913, while on a business trip to Europe, I examined three very large plants in France and Germany. Owing to the strain on my linguistic accomplishments, my speech has not yet recovered. I doubt whether my informants are even convalescing. In November, 1914, I was transferred from the Solvay Process Company to the Semet Solvay Company, and became assistant manager of the department of special manufactures. What we are not making now we expect to make day after tomorrow. Like the Israelite who had just been kicked down three flights of stairs by relays of irate partners, I look up the stairs and remark, "Moses! What a system!" In December, 1914, as chairman of the committee on arrangements for the visit of the Harvard Musical Clubs, I achieved a new point of view of the rewards of loyalty,—principally from the direction of four o'clock in the morning. In March, 1915, I gave a talk before the American Institute of Mining Engineers on some matters developed in the course of my prospecting. During the period since the decennial I have remained a member of Troop D, First New York Cavalry. I was first sergeant in 1913, but obliged to vacate this grade owing to frequent absence. During the seasons 1910-1911, and 1915-1916 I was chairman of the small arms committee, and was high man on the regimental rifle team at Peekskill, September, 1915. During the years 1911-1915, inclusive, my troop won first place, headquarters division, N. G. N. Y., at annual small arms practice; and during the years 1913 and 1914 was first in the state. During 1915 we again won first in the state by a wide margin, but lost on a technicality (requirement as to enlisted strength raised; no order published).

The record was 49 experts, 13 sharpshooters, 2 marksmen. (New York allows each man only one opportunity to qualify, ie., on the day designated for his organization). My chief interests are professional in nature, and consist of the following: manufacture, chemistry, prospecting (including deep drilling), structural geology, climatology, military rifle shooting, and military organization. My pleasure ,in riding, fancy skating, golf, tennis, dancing, sailing and swimming is as keen as ever, but—time is scarce as hens' teeth. Member: Onondaga Golf and Country Club, Syracuse, Troop D, Auxiliary Association, American Chemical Society, Washington section, Troop D, First Cavalry, N. G. N. Y., Syracuse, Harvard Club of Syracuse, Solvay Club, Syracuse.

Occupation	Chemist, United States Geological Survey.
Address	(home) Hammond Court, 30th and Q Sts., Washington, D. C. (business) United States Geological Survey, Washington, D. C.

The first year after graduation I started on a course of research work in chemistry under the able direction of Professor Richards, finally arriving at new values for the atomic weights of sodium and chlorine, the basic elements of common salt. This work led to a Ph.D. degree in 1904. After being an instructor a year at Harvard and two years at the University of Pennsylvania, I spent a year in the research laboratory of the General Electric Company, working on the preparation of metallic tungsten for the new filament lamps. I went to Washington in 1908 as physical chemist in the United States Geological Survey where I have been since, analyzing minerals and trying to determine how they are formed, why ores are where they are, etc. At this writing I am about to start on a trip to South America to look for potash, or any deposits containing soluble compounds of potassium, since it appears that the war now raging has cut off the supply of such salts from Germany. I am the author of two Bulletins of the United States Geological survey: "Electric Activity in Ore Deposits" and "The Fractional Precipitation of some Ore-forming Compounds." Member: Cosmos Club, Washington, D. C., American Chemical Society, Washington Academy of Sciences, Geological Society of Washington.

JAMES WINFIELD WELSCH

Born	Springfield, Ohio, Oct. 20, 1880.
Parents	William Smith Welsh, Agnes Zimmerman.
School	Wittenberg College.
Years in College	1900-1901.
Degrees	A.B., 1901; A.B. (Wittenberg), 1900; S.B. (Massachusetts Institute of Technology), 1903.
Married	Ada Page Clement, Oakmont, Pa., April 21, 1909.
Children	James Winfield, Oct. 21, 1910; Clement William, May 21, 1913.
Occupation	Electrical Engineer and Traffic Manager.
Address	(home) 419 Second St., Oakmont, Pa. (business) 435 Sixth Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.

From 1901 to 1903 I was at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, taking a course in electrical engineering. I was selected by the faculty to read a thesis representing electrical course on graduation. I was president of Electrical Engineering Society for senior year. From 1903 to 1904 I was with the National Tube Company, Wheeling, W. Va., as foreman of metal yard in steel mill. From 1904 to 1906 I was with the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company in shop, engineering and construction departments. From 1906 to date, with Pittsburgh Railways Company which operates the street-car system in the City of Pittsburgh and surrounding territory. On January 1, 1910, I was advanced to the position of electrical engineer. In this position I have responsible charge of operation of the entire electrical end of the system. The installation of 18,000 K.W. in turbo generators at Brunots Island power house occurred during this period, and I have been intimately associated with the pioneer troubles, both steam and electrical, experienced with these machines, which were among the first of their class. As a result of our experience with disastrous short circuits on the 11,000 volt cable system in 1910 and 1911, I recommended at that time the installation of external reactance coils in the high tension feeders instead of the generator leads, an economical plan where the feeders are not many and particularly advantageous in reducing disturbances of bus bar voltage and the liability of knocking off synchronous apparatus. This has since been done, effectively improving the service. The conclusions from this experience were incorporated in a paper of joint authorship presented at the October, 1913, A. E. R. A. convention. I have had under my direction during this period the design and installation of eight new sub-stations ranging from 600 K.W. to 7,500 K.W. in capacity. In 1907 our load dispatching system was inaugurated by me. This method of handling the distribution of load between stations was necessitated by our operation of A.C. generating stations in parallel over a number of tie lines with substations connected at intermediate points. The results of this experience were embodied in a paper on "Parallel Operation" in the March, 1912, A. I. E. E. proceedings which I read at the Pacific Coast Convention in Portland, Ore., April, 1912. I have been responsible for all additions and changes in our D.C. feeder system and have conducted various tests as a basis of calculating extensions and an extensive revision of the present system which has resulted in a more economical use of copper. In the car equipment department I have been intimately associated with Mr. Jones and Mr. Phillips of this company in the design and development of the light-weight Pittsburgh "low floor" car, the "double-decker" and a radically new electric control equipment, on all of which we have various sole and joint patents allowed and pending. The "low floor" car uses four "baby" motors (30 H.P.) mounted on 24-inch wheels and has reduced the car weights from about 49,000 pounds to 35,000 pounds. The electric control scheme relates to the method of combining the motors during acceleration and results in the almost total elimination of rheostatic losses amounting to ten per cent. or more. In June, 1913, I was appointed traffic agent in addition to retaining my duties as electrical engineer. I am now chairman of the power generation committee of the American Electric Railway Engineering Association, having held this office during the years 1914-1915 and from 1915 to date. I have written: Paper on Reactance in Power Stations (read at the 1914 A. E. R. A. Convention), article on The Load Dispatching System of the Pittsburgh Railways Company (The Electric Journal, October, 1914), paper on Safety Work of the Pittsburgh Railways Company (read before the Pittsburgh Branch of the National Safety Council, March, 1915), joint paper on Recent Development in Street Railway Equipment (read before Pittsburgh Section, A. I. E. E., November, 1913), joint paper on suggested means of Preventing Power House Shutdowns (A. E. R. A. Convention, October, 1913), paper on Parallel Operations of Power Stations and Distributions of Load and Wattless Current Between them (Proc. A. I. E. E., March, 1912), article on Pittsburgh Low Floor Car (Electric Journal, October, 1912.) Member: Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity, American Electric Railway Engineering Association, Pennsylvania Street Railways Association; Fellow American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

After graduation I studied medicine at the Harvard Medical School. This was followed by hospital work and nearly two years' study and travel in Europe. In 1909 I began practising at 86 Bay State Road, Boston; was appointed to the staff of the childrens' department of the Boston Dispensary and was made a fellow in surgery at the Medical School, both of which positions I held up to November, 1915, when I resigned from the dispensary. I am still teaching at the Medical School, but on November 1 I removed to my present address, 26 Lexington Road, Concord, Mass., where I have become a general practitioner. I have written: Treatment of Rheumatic Endocarditis from an Out-patient Standpoint (American Journal, Diseases of Children, January, 1914), An Outline for the Management of Cardiac Cases (Boston Medical and Surgical Journal, January 27, 1916), Some Observations on 600 Heart Cases (Boston Medical and Surgical Journal, February 3, 1916). Member: Harvard Club of Boston, Oakley Country Club, Massachusetts Medical Society, American Medical Association, New England Pediatric Society, Boston Chirurgical Society, Navy League.

Occupation	British Army.
Address	Harston, Grantham, Eng.

After leaving Harvard, I travelled for two years, most of which time I spent in big game shooting in the East. I returned to England in 1904. I made that country my home, and I have resided there ever since. Every year or two I pay a visit to the United States. In 1908 I went to Ceylon and bought an estate there (rubber). I have a superintendent who manages it. On the outbreak of the present war, I became a naturalized British subject, and applied for a commission in a cavalry regiment. I was gazetted second lieutenant in the West Somerset Yeomanry on September 12, 1914. I did a year's training with my regiment in Essex. In September, 1915, I went out with my regiment to Suola Bay. We were there until the evacuation of that place on December 17, 1915. During the evacuation I was in command of a transport and cargo ship. We left Suola on the last day of the evacuation with a full cargo of men and stores. Member: Philadelphia Club, Radnor Hunt Club, Queen's Club, London.

Early in July, 1901, I accepted a place with the University Press, Cambridge, as the successor of Jerome Greene, who at that time became President Eliot's secretary. I was an unsuccessful successor and was gently but firmly advised of the fact at the end of six weeks. At my own request I was granted permission to work as an apprentice, learning to set type and studying the mysteries of "make ready" and presswork. After gaining a fair smattering of the printing processes, I "hired out" to Mr. D. B. Updike, owner of the famous Merrymount Press, where I continued to learn about printing for two years. Chance brought about an opening in the George W. Wheelwright Paper Company., so in the fall of 1903 I donned the overalls and began a two years' apprenticeship in the art of paper making. In 1905 I graduated to the sales department. This entailed a semiannual trip through the large cities east of Omaha which has enabled me to keep in personal touch with many old friends of 1901, to say nothing of gaining a better perspective of the city of Boston—its manners and customs. All my vacations but one have been passed at North Haven, Me., or in cruises along the Maine coast between Roque Island and Biddeford Pool, and I expect to continue an enthusiastic sailor for life. I did not go to Plattsburg, but did serve three years in the First Corps Cadets, M. V. M., at the period when it was also adorned by Ben Blake, Phil Coyle, Charlie Rotch, and Jack Hallowell. I have written considerably for printing trade papers on subjects connected with paper, and the latest of these, entitled "From Paper Mill to Press Room", is to be published in book form by the Inland Printer Company. For several years I was lecturer on paper in the Harvard Graduate School of Business, in a course given for prospective printers and publishers. Member: Pilgrim Publicity Association, Society of Printers, Hoosic Whisick Club of Canton.

Occupation	Real Estate Broker.
Address	(home) White Manor, Utica St., Clinton, N. Y. (business) 118 White Building, Bleecker St., Utica, N. Y.

The day after graduation, I applied to the New York State Railroad Company for a job and finally secured one as a rodman on one of the engineering gangs at $1.25 a day. I held this job until December, when I resigned and took up office work with my brother until the following spring when I became secretary of the New York Radiator Company, Utica, N. Y., and was foreman, superintendent, office boy, shipping clerk, and I don't know what. I held this position until May 1, 1904, when I resigned and became general sales-manager for the Phoenix Iron Works, Utica, N. Y. I left this company in 1905 and went to Buffalo, representing the Syracuse Stove Works for western New York. I left the Syracuse Stove Works after six months and went into the real estate and promoting business, living at the University Club in Buffalo. During this time the Cobalt mining boom was on and I engineered one mining scheme whereby ten of us put up $100 apiece and I was employed by the syndicate to go out with the prospector to inspect the mines. We departed, he with $800 and I with $200. The next morning I discovered that he had decamped from the train during the night and he has not been seen since. On August 4, 1909, I married Maud Mather, direct descendant of Cotton Mather, one of the first presidents of Harvard College, and we spent our seven weeks' honeymoon about 160 miles south of Hudson Bay, 40 miles away from civilization, where we were spotted as government detectives. On our return we removed to Watertown, where we lived for about one year, when the death of the representative of my wife's father's estate called me back to Utica to take charge of a $1,000,000 estate for the Syracuse Trust Company as trustee and agent. In 1912, my brother John, of the class of 1907, and I joined forces and built the business block known as the White Building, practically in the centre of the city, and, upon its completion, I resigned my position with the Syracuse Trust Company, and have since been my own landlord and tenant. Member: Harvard Club of New York, Fort Schuyler Club, Utica, N. Y., Black River Club, Watertown, N. Y., University Club, Buffalo, N. Y., Oneida Historical Society, Utica, N. Y.

Occupation	Stockbroker.
Address	(home) Riverside Drive, Red Bank, N. J. (business) 120 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

At the end of my junior year at Harvard I applied for and received a leave of absence for my senior year. In September, 1900, I got employment as a clerk in the office of Strong, Sturgis and Company, a stockbrokerage house in New York City, and remained there until September 10, 1906. On that date I bought a seat on the New York Stock Exchange and joined the firm of Clement and Smith as their board member. On February 1, 1910, the name of the firm was changed to Clement and Whitney, and I am still the board member of this firm. My family history is already noted. In May, 1901, I enlisted in Squadron A, N. Y. N. G., and took my discharge in May, 1911. On February 2, 1912, I re-enlisted in the National Guard and was made first sergeant of the newly formed machine gun troop. In July of that same year I got my commission as second lieutenant of the troop, a position that I still hold. Member: Harvard

HERBERT STARKES WHITON

Born	Hingham, Mass., Aug. 4, 1879.
Parents	Starkes Whiton, Helen Thomas.
School	Hingham High School, Hingham, Mass.
Years in College	1897-1901.
Degrees	S.B., 1901.
Married	Edith Harris Wyer, Nantucket, Mass., June 20, 1908.
Children	Dorothy Stark, Sept. 17, 1910; Russell Thomas, March 11, 1912.
Occupation	Mechanical Engineer.
Address	(home) 3817 Portland Ave., Minneapolis, Minn. (business) The Minneapolis General Electric Company, 15 South Fifth St., Minneapolis, Minn.

Immediately after graduation I entered the engineering department of the Babcock and Wilcox Company, at Bayonne, N. J., as draughtsman and later became checker of designs. In the spring of 1903 I took a position with the New Bedford, Marthas Vineyard and Nantucket Steamboat Company, laying out routes for the summer excursion service and planning the advertising campaign. When the steamer went into commission I shipped as purser. During the winter of 1903 I worked at East Boston on the erection of two marine engines built by the W. and A. Fletcher Company, of Hoboken, N. J., and the next summer I did similar work for the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, of Quincy, Mass. During the winter of 1904-1905 I was draughtsman for the Boston Industrial Company, and in April, 1905, entered the employ of Stone and Webster, as chief engineer of the Ponce Railway and Light Company, of Ponce, P. R. Became manager of this company in 1907 and held the position until August, 1909, when I was given the position of superintendent of manufacture of the Minneapolis General Electric Company, Minneapolis, Minn. My duties are to operate and maintain the generating stations and sub-station of this company in St. Paul. I wrote a paper on System Operation read before the Minnesota Section of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers in 1913. Member: American Society of Mechanical Engineers, Minnesota Branch (Twin Cities). I was secretary and treasurer of the Harvard Club of Minnesota for the year 1914.

Address	(home) 449 Third St., Brooklyn, N. Y. (business) D. Appleton and Company, 35 W. 32d St., New York, N. Y.

I had a Thayer scholarship in Harvard but had to get out after freshman year to make money. I became concert violinist for a time on the stage; left it in 1899 for editorial position with Jos. W. Stern and Company where I remained until 1905. I was with Hinds, Noble and Eldredge, 1906 to 1909; Charles Scribner's Sons, 1912 to 1914; D. Appleton and Company from 1915 on. I write or compile semi-popular music collections, having wide sales; more than a million books with my name on are in circulation. I am devoted to amusements and music in winter; motoring in summer. I am a very ordinary and prosaic human being. I have edited: The "Most Popular" Music Series for Hinds, Noble and Eldredge, The Ideal Home Music Library for Charles Scribner's Sons, The "Whole World" Music Series for D. Appleton and Company, The American Home Music Album for D. Appleton and Company.

Children	Carter Pearson, July 1, 1903; Frederick Randall, June 16, 1907.
Occupation	Clergyman.
Address	Chester, Vt.

With my senior work at Harvard, I was taking the first year work at the Cambridge Episcopal Theological School, and after graduation from Harvard I took another year's work at the same school. I was ordained to the ministry of the Episcopal Church on the thirteenth of June, 1902, and after my marriage, I went to the missionary jurisdiction of Spokane and took charge of the church at Moscow, Idaho, and Pullman, Washington, where I remained for two years and a half. I then went to southern Oregon and took up work at Grant's Pass and Medford, where I remained for a year and a half. After nine months in Portland, Oregon, assisting at Trinity Church, I returned to southern Oregon, with headquarters at Medford, having charge, also, of the church at Ashland and surrounding country. After a year and a half there, I returned to Boston and was elected rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Watertown, where I remained six years. During 1911 and 1912, I took up the senior work at the Cambridge Theological School, while rector at Watertown, and took the B.D. degree in June, 1912. From Watertown, I was called to the parish of St. Luke's, Chester, with St. Mark's, Springfield, and Gethsemane, Proctorsville as missions in the diocese of Vermont, and accepted, taking charge October 1, 1914. I am able here to follow my inclination toward country work and agriculture, at the same time that I keep up my work in the ministry. My work takes me out of doors much of the time.

I finished my college course in three years and took my senior year in the Law School. I started in business in the fall of 1901 with Payne and Van Antwerp, members of the New York Stock Exchange, and remained there until they went out of business early in 1902. I went with Post and Flagg, also members of the stock exchange, starting as a "runner" of securities. I was advanced to assistant loan clerk and then stock clerk. In 1904 I became manager of the New York office of E. Rollins Morse and Brother, members of the New York and Boston Stock Exchanges. In 1906 I formed the firm of Wilmerding, Morgan and Company, members of the New York Stock Exchange, which later changed its name to Wilmerding, Morgan and Livermore. In 1910 I formed the firm of Ruggles, Gray and Wilmerding, which became Gray and Wilmerding in 1912. I bought a membership in the New York Stock Exchange in 1911. I spent two summers in Europe, 1906 and 1909. I have been a member of the circulation committee of the New York Public Library for the past five years; also on the board of the Society for the Relief of the Destitute Blind in New York and vicinity. Occupation	Lawyer.
Address	(home) 3353 Runnymede St., Chevy Chase, Md. (business) Department of State, Washington, D. C.

In 1911 I became legal assistant to the counsellor for the Department of State. In that capacity I had the good fortune (I deem it an honor), to assist the Hon. Chandler P. Anderson, Hon. John Bassett Moore, and Hon. Robert Lansing, while they were counsellors for the department. Meanwhile I was appointed assistant solicitor for the department, and am now assigned as legal adviser to the secretary of state. Since the present war opened I have assisted Mr. Lansing personally, at first while he was counsellor and now while he is secretary of state, in the complex and difficult matters coming before the department and in the preparation of the diplomatic correspondence in regard to them. I never expect to have a more interesting, instructive and exciting experience than the one through which I have thus passed on the crest of the high tide of our diplomatic relations with foreign countries, both belligerents and neutrals, during the greatest armed conflict of history. Member: Geological Society, Washington, American Society of International Law.

Occupation	Banker.
Address	(home) 3120 Davenport St., Omaha, Neb. (business) 1202 Farnam St., Omaha, Neb.

Since graduation I have been connected continuously with the Nebraska National Bank of Omaha, an institution founded by my father, the late Henry W. Yates, in 1882. At the present time I am cashier and a director. I am also secretary and treasurer of the Equitable Trust Company, and president and treasurer of the Commercial Land Company, concerns affiliated with the Nebraska National Bank. The nature of the banking business requires a considerable amount of travelling in order to keep in touch with the money centres, east and west; but in general most of my attention is given to local activities. In addition to one or two private trusts at the present time I am the custodian or trustee of the invested funds of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the diocese of Nebraska. Member: Omaha Club, Omaha Country Club, University Club of Omaha, Commercial Club of Omaha, Harvard Club of Nebraska, Harvard Club of New York, Nebraska State Historical Society, Omaha Ad. Club, Omaha Association of Credit Men.
